NAVY FLIERS START TODAY FOR HALIFAX DESPITE ACCIDENTS

FIRE DAMAGES TWO PLANES

THIRD FOLLOWS TOMORROW

The eve of the scheduled departure of the naval seaplanes for Newfoundland, on the first leg of the first American attempt, to fly across the Atlantic, was saddened late yesterday afternoon when a HS-1 type of seaplane, which was manoeuvering above the Rockaway Beach Naval Air Station, crashed to earth, killing instantly Ensign Hugh J. Adams, U. S. N., of Pittsburgh, and Chief Machinist's Mate Harold Bedford Corey of Binghamton. The fatal accident came near the close of a day marked by several unhappy events, the first of which was a fire that for a time threatened to destroy two of the three seaplanes which form the squadron. Commander John H. Towers, U. S. N., will command in the transatlantic flight. Earlier still yesterday morning there was a collision between two naval trucks from New York, bound for the air station with a large number of enlisted men on board, which resulted in the serious injury of two of the bluejackets.

But yesterday's accidents will not be permitted to interrupt the schedule of the transatlantic flight, and if weather conditions are favorable two of the seaplanes—the NC-3 and the NC-4—will take the air shortly after dawn this morning and will head, as the crow flies, for Halifax, the first and only stop between New York and Trepassy Bay, Newfoundland. The NC-3 will be under command of Commander John H. Towers, while Lieut. Commander Albert Cushing Read will command the NC-4.

The NC-1, the machine damaged by fire yesterday morning, will follow the other seaplanes as soon as repairs, which are being rushed with all possible speed, are completed. This means, it was announced at the Air Station last night, that this machine, which will be under the command of Lieut. Commander Patrick N. L. Bellinger, who commanded the naval airplanes during the operations before Vera Cruz in April, 1914, will leave Rockaway at dawn of tomorrow morning.

"At this hour," said Commander Towers, the transatlantic flight commander at 9 o'clock last night, "everything looks favorable for an early start the first thing tomorrow morning. The weather conditions are now exactly what we wish, and reports from Washington, New England, and Nova Scotia indicate good weather conditions along the entire route mapped out for the flight beween this point and Halifax. The NC-1 will be ready in about forty hours, and we expect Bellinger to follow us on Wednesday morning."

Commander Towers later in the night announced that, notwithstanding the rain which was falling, he expected to have favorable flying conditions in the morning, and that he saw nothing that would prevent a getaway on schedule time. "The Weather Bureau says conditions will be favorable in the morning," he said, "and it looks now as though we will get away on time with all three planes. The rain is only a local shower, and probably will not interfere with our plans at all."

The officers and the crews, with the exception of Commander Towers, who is the busiest man at the station, retired early. They will all be "on deck" very shortly after 4 o'clock in the morning to make final preparations for the start.

Commander Towers will carry a tiny red, white, and blue ribbon on the NC-3 or pinned to his coat on the trip across the ocean. This little ribbon was sent to him yesterday by a class of forty girls in a Brooklyn school as a symbol of "good luck and bon voyage."

Commander Towers officially announced last night the assignment of the crews to the three airplanes as follows:

NC-3 Crew 1.—Commander Towers of Washington, D. C.; Commander H. C. Richardson, pilot, of Shamokin, Penn.; Lieutenant David H. McCulloch, pilot, of New-

Lithuanians on 260-Mile Front Are Advancing Toward Vilna

BERNE, May 4, (French Wireless Service.)—Lithuanian troops are advancing along a front of 260 miles from Courland to the region of Grodno and are approaching Vilna, according to a report received by the Lithuanian Press Bureau from Kovno.

Lithuanian advance guards have occupied Seikai and Vieviai, twenty-four miles from Vilna, and the bridgehead of Cieskis, on the River Vilia.

Polish troops were reported to have occupied Vilna, capital of Lithuania, several weeks ago, and it has been announced on behalf of the Polish Government that it was for the purpose of aiding the Lithuanians against the Bolsheviki.

A cablegram, however, was received yesterday by the Lithuanian National Council in New York from the Lithuanian peace delegation in Paris, saying in part:

"The Poles attempted to capture Vilna, but failed, and the city is still held by the Bolsheviki. The Poles have taken Grodno.

"The Lithuanian Government protested to the Peace Conference against the Polish invasion. The Council of the five great Powers, as a consequence, has directed the Poles and Lithuanians to cease hostilities."

NEW VILLA REVOLT SWEEPING MEXICO

CARRANZA SUPPLIES SEIZED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Francisco Villa, starting a new revolutionary movement against the Carranza Government, has captured Parral, Jimenez, and Bustillos, in Central and Southern Chihuahua, and is planning to extend his operations toward the cities of Chihuahua and Torreon as early objectives, according to information that reached the State Department today. Before entering Parral, the advices said, Villa sent word to Mayor Herrera, telling him that he and his sons would be hanged when Villa entered the town.

When the Villistas entered Parral the Carranza garrison went over to the side of the revolutionists, and Mayor Herrera and two of his sons were hanged. It was explained here that this was Villa's method of dealing with the Herreras for their attitude toward him after the battle of Celaya, in which he was beaten by Obregon.

General Maclovio Herrera, a son of the Mayor of Parral, was the man to whom Villa gave command of the Zaragosa brigade in 1914, during the revolution against the old régime in Mexico. But when Villa lost the battle of Celaya, and Carranza's star of destiny rose, Mayor Herrera and two of his sons turned against the revolution and embraced the Carranza cause. Subsequently, it was said, the father induced Maclovio Herrera to desert Villa, who was believed to have lost his strength in Northern Mexico.

Villa has been planning his present revolution for months and there are indications, according to advices now received in Washington, that the renewed attack is developing into a formidable factor in the Mexican situation. Many believe the movement will hasten the downfall of Carranza, and that within another month all of Northern Mexico will be in revolt against the present Mexican Government.

Seize Carranza's Imports of Arms.

According to the information received here, Villa held off launching his revolt until after Carranza had imported a considerable quantity of arms and ammunition into Mexico and until some of these munitions had been sent into Chihauhau. The revolutionary leader is reported to have captured considerable quantities of this ammunition, resorting to the same tactics used when he and Carranza were together engaged against the Huerta régime. He is also depending now upon the revolt of Carranza garrisons and desertions of Carranza soldiers in Chihuahua.

General Felipe Angeles, who was formerly Villa's chief of artillery, and who was looked upon as being the brainiest soldier in Villa's former campaigns, has rejoined General Villa and is now serv-

CITY TODAY PAYS HONOR TO 77TH AS IT PARADES

23,000 AT LEAST TO MARCH

STOP CROSSTOWN TRAFFIC

8,000 Regular Police and 6,000 Reserves to Control the Throngs of Spectators.

The 77th Division arrived in New York yesterday and became the guests of townsfolk whose hearts they long ago captured. When the first unit stepped ashore at the Thirty-fourth Street Ferry shortly after 10 o'clock in the morning the city capitulated to the friendly invasion long awaited. Throughout the afternoon and evening the appearance of the soldiers around the armories, where they are quartered, or on Broadway, was the signal for cheering that expressed New York's pent up emotion.

New York has declared this a holiday in honor of the heroes of the Argonne Forest. The schools will be closed to give the children an opportunity of viewing the parade, which will be a memorable military spectacle. Previous crowd records of the city will be broken, according to the police, when the multitudes gather along Fifth Avenue to see the division pass by.

The prediction from Washington last night was that the weather today would be fair and cooler, making conditions good for the marchers. The parade is scheduled to start at 10 A. M. from Washington Square, and will proceed up Fifth Avenue to 110th Street, where it will be disbanded.

Major Gen. Robert Alexander, commander of the division, who has supervised the military preparations for the parade, and Grover A. Whalen, Secretary of the Mayor's Committee of Welcome to Homecoming Troops, announced last night that everything was in readiness for the review. The only obstacle that threatened to mar the success of the plans was removed yesterday when Supreme Court Justice Whitaker denied an application for an injunction against the city which was brought by the owners of a private grandstand on property facing Fifth Avenue, between Ninety-seventh and Ninety-eighth Streets, who sought to compel the Mayor's Committee to remove a grandstand erected over the sidewalk. Justice Whitaker's action enabled the Mayor's Committee to take care of more than 10,000 families and friends of the soldiers who were without seats. Assistant Corporation Counsel Nicholson, who appeared for the committee, told the court that the grandstands did not obstruct the view of those who would occupy the private stands in back.

Announcement was made yesterday that Secretary of War Baker, who returned from Europe on the George Washington, would review the parade from the official reviewing stand at Eighty-second Street. Others who will occupy places in the official stand will be Acting Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, Governor Alfred E. Smith, Mayor John F. Hylan, Rear Admiral James H. Glennon, Major Gen. David C. Shanks, Major Gen. Thomas H. Barry, Major Gen. John F. O'Ryan, former commander of the 27th Division, and Brig. Gen. George H. McManus.

The units will march in column of battalions, four companies abreast, each company marching in column of squads instead of in platoon order, the custom in previous parades.

More Than 23,000 to Parade.

General Alexander said there would be from 23,000 to 25,000 active members of the division in line, in addition to about 5,000 wounded and former members of the division. The present strength of the division is 31,000 men, but many of the replacement troops who came from other States have been sent to camps for immediate demobilization at their own request.

"The parade will be distinctly a family affair," General Alexander said. "Practically every man in line will be a New Yorker or a resident of some town near New York."

General Alexander gave out the follow-

Japan Will Return Shantung, Declares Her Chief Envoy

PARIS, May 5.—The policy of Japan is to return the Shantung Peninsula in full sovereignty to China, retaining only the economic privileges granted Germany and the right to establish a settlement under the usual conditions at Tsing-tao.

This was asserted in a statement issued today by Baron Makino, head of the Japanese delegation at the Peace Conference, in explanation of Japan's position on the Shantung question.

Regarding the railway, which is to become a Chino-Japanese joint undertaking, Baron Makino said the owners would use special police only to insure the security of traffic, and for no other purpose.

The force would be composed of Chinese. Such Japanese instructors as the railway directors should select would be appointed by the Chinese Government.

BROOKLYN PASSES ITS LOAN QUOTA

KISSES BRING MILLIONS

Mme. de Cisneros Sells 23 for a Million Each—Drive Still Slow Elsewhere.

Brooklyn's quota of $59,600,000 was passed with several millions to spare last night at a Victory Liberty Loan rally and concert held in the Brooklyn Academy of Music under the auspices of the forty-seven Brooklyn financial institutions. The chief note-sale winner was Mme. Eleanor de Cisneros, opera star, who sold twenty-three kisses at a million apiece.

When the meeting opened Chairman Edwin P. Maynard emphasized the fact that Brooklyn was more than 50 per cent. behind its allotment, and that the meeting would not be closed until the deficit had been made up. The principal speaker was United States Senator Gilbert H. Hitchcock of Nebraska. In his talk he urged that the loan be oversubscribed, so that the Government could honorably pay off the debt that it incurred in gaining "its wonderful victory of arms."

When Mme. de Cisneros finished her number on the program, she stepped to the front of the stage and asked for subscriptions. The audience apparently was taken by surprise and Mme. de Cisneros, seemingly in a jestful way, announced that she would kiss any subscriber who took a million of the notes. There was a shout of approval at this and the first Brooklynite to take her at her word was Andrew D. Baird, and following him came representative after representative of the borough's leading financial institutions.

Total Is $41,900,000.

In all, when the meeting closed, it was announced that the total subscriptions reached $41,900,000. The subscriptions as announced, many of them in the million-dollar-kiss category, included Mechanics Bank, $4,000,000; Brooklyn Savings Bank, $1,000,000; Brooklyn Trust Company, $2,000,000; Williamsburg Savings Bank, $2,000,000; Kings County Trust Company, $1,000,000; Franklin Trust Company, $1,000,000; Dime Savings Bank, $1,000,000; Title Guarantee and Trust Company, $1,000,000; First National Bank, $1,000,000; South Brooklyn Savings, Institution $1,000,000; Manufacturers Trust Company and customers of the institution, $2,250,000.

After Mme. de Cisneros's success as a saleswoman came Miss Julia Arthur, the actress. She, too, offered kisses at the same high rate and Nathan S. Jonas pledged himself for $1,000,000 worth of the notes for that reward. The Todd Shipbuilding Corporation announced a subscription of $1,000,000 and little Miss Marion Villaer, daughter of one of the officials, brought the news up to Mme. de Cisneros, who was auctioning kisses at the time. Little Miss Villaer received a kiss and then rose on tiptoe and returned it, much to the delight of the audience. Employes of the ship construction company purchased $500,000 of the notes.

William C. Burton, Postmaster of Brooklyn, subscribed $105,000, which had been collected by the postal employes in the independent drive for the Victory Loan, and then matched the amount in subscriptions for himself and subordinates.

Among those who entertained at the rally was Max Rosen, the violinist. When he had finished playing, Major Benjamin H. Namm of the firm of A. I. Namm & Sons arose from his seat in the centre of the auditorium and said that if Rosen would play "Ave Maria" he would take a million's worth of the notes for the Manufacturers' Trust Company. Rosen promptly began to play, and another million was added to the total.

PLENARY SESSION TODAY

PRESS TO SEE CEREMONY

President Wilson Overcomes Opposition to Newspaper Representation.

AUSTRIANS EXPECTED SOON

May Come to Sign Treaty by the 15th—Hungary's Status in Doubt.

PARIS, May 5, (Associated Press.)—The time for handing over the peace treaty to the Germans was set today for 3:15 o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

A secret plenary session of the Peace Conference has been called to meet at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon at the French Foreign Office. The session will be held for the presentation of the peace treaty to the smaller powers.

President Wilson and Premiers Clemenceau and Lloyd George visited the Trianon Hotel this afternoon to inspect the arrangements for the ceremony of handing over the peace treaty to the Germans. They expressed themselves as satisfied.

President Wilson, who reached Versailles at 2:30, returned to Paris about 5 o'clock. The two Premiers prolonged their visit for a time.

The visit of President Wilson to Versailles this afternoon was inspired, it is understood, by his desire to admit the newspaper correspondents to the ceremony. This desire had met with opposition, one of the grounds being lack of room. The Council of Three therefore decided to look over the situation.

About forty representatives of the press of the world, including five German correspondents, will be admitted to witness the proceedings and describe them for contemporary knowledge and future history. Italy's press will probably be represented. At any rate places will be assigned to the Italian delegates, according to the plan of the seating arrangements as shown to the correspondents today.

Premier Clemenceau will preside over the ceremonies Wednesday. There will be fifty-eight delegates from the allied countries and six Germans present.

The contents of the first five chapters of the treaty, according to the Paris papers, have already been outlined, dealing with the preamble, German frontiers, territory changes, German colonies, and the military, naval, and aerial features of the pact. The sixth chapter will define the status of prisoners of war, and the seventh will concern the responsibilities of the former Emperor and other Germans for the war. The eighth and ninth chapters will be devoted to phases of the reparations problem and financial clauses.

The tenth will deal with economic clauses, the eleventh with ports, railroads, and water communications; the twelfth will concern international labor legislation; the thirteenth will embrace guarantees, and the fourteeth will contain general clauses dealing with ratification.

Marcel Hutin of the Echo de Paris learns that France will get absolute control of the mines in the Sarre Valley and a guarantee for their exploitation. He says that the President of the Administrative Council will be a Frenchman and will probably have executive powers.

The credentials of the German delegates to the Peace Conference are written on parchment and bear the signature of Franz Ebert, President of the German State, and that of Philipp Scheidemann, the Chancellor, together with the seal of the President, says an article in the Temps giving details regarding the verification of these credentials. The credentials are bound in red satin and the document is inclosed in a case of watered silk, with a golden band.

The credentials of the delegates of all the Powers which took part in the war against Germany, adds Le Temps, were communicated to the

Vienna Hears That Hungary Has Surrendered; Reds Had Claimed Victories Over Allied Troops

BASLE, May 5, (Associated Press.)—Confirmation of the unconditional surrender of the Hungarian Government has been received in a dispatch from Vienna.

BERLIN, May 4, (Associated Press.)—Budapest is the scene of the greatest panic, according to dispatches to newspapers here. Recent statements on the situation by Bela Kun, the Soviet Foreign Minister, have led to a complete disappearance of order and Bela Kun himself is reported to have had a narrow escape from violence at a meeting of the Soldiers' and Workingmen's Council.

LONDON, May 5.—Hungarian Soviet forces have recaptured the town of Szolnok, on the Theiss River, from the Rumanians, according to a Hungarian wireless message, dated Sunday in Budapest.

The Hungarian Government has sent an indignant remonstrance to the Austrian Government, protesting against the latter permitting the seizure of the Hungarian Legation in Vienna, according to a wireless message from Budapest received here.

COPENHAGEN, May 5, (Associated Press.)—A Budapest report says the Eastern command of the Red Army claims to have the Theiss securely and that the Czechs have not advanced beyond Miskolcz. The report continues:

"Our troops are east of Eger. The Czechs are continuing to attack between Fullel and Salgo Tarjan. By a counterattack yesterday we drove back the Czechs who had crossed the Eitel near Zekes. On the right bank the Red troops have been withdrawn and are regrouping at prescribed points."

GERMANS GAVE AN 'ULTIMATUM'

TWO DELEGATES GO HOME

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COPENHAGEN, May 5.—The German press has been expressing considerable dissatisfaction at the alleged treatment accorded the German peace delegates in Versailles and at the delay in the presentation of peace terms.

According to the Berlin correspondent of the Berlingske Tidende this dissatisfaction has now been expressed by Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau in a note to Premier Clemenceau and will lead to the return of the peace delegates from Versailles to Berlin. The note which, according to the correspondent, has something of the nature of an ultimatum about it as it requests an answer by 5 o'clock this afternoon, expresses the German standpoint that the delegates cannot wait for an indefinite period in Versailles.

Since the arrival of the delegates nothing has happened beyond the presentation and proof of credentials, and the delegates are still ignorant, it is said, as to when the peace negotiations are really to begin. The delegates are equally displeased with the manner in which they are treated, according to the German correspondents at Versailles, as they are virtual prisoners.

Under these circumstances, says the correspondent already quoted von Brockdorff-Rantzau felt himself obliged to present a note to Clemenceau, asking for a definite date for the presentation of peace terms, as otherwise the Germans would return to Berlin.

LONDON, May 5.—A German wireless dispatch received here this evening says:

"If the delay continues at Versailles it is contemplated that Berlin will recall the German delegates, in which case they would only be sent to Versailles again when the allied Governments are ready to negotiate."

BERLIN, May 5, (Associated Press.)—A semi-official announcement today says the peace negotiations will be in no way affected by the departure of the German Ministers, Landsberg and Giesbert, from Versailles.

No announcement has been received that Herr Landsberg and Herr Geisbert have left Versailles, or that it was their intention to depart.

GERMAN ASSEMBLY TO MEET.

Will Convene Thursday to Discuss Peace Terms.

BERLIN, May 4, (Associated Press.)—The German National Assembly will convene next Thursday in Berlin for a few sessions to be held for the purpose of discussing the peace terms, says a dispatch to the Tageblatt from Weimar. The meeting place will be in the old library next to the Palace Kaiser Wilhelm I., on Unter den Linden.

BELGIUM DECIDES TO SIGN THE TREATY

But Insists on Financial and Economic Support to Restore the Country.

WANTS THE SCHELDT FREED

Premier Delacroix Explains Features of New Proposals by the Allies.

BRUSSELS, May 5, (Associated Press.).—The Belgian Government has decided to sign the Treaty of Peace, which was discussed at a Cabinet Council held here last night, it is announced.

Premier Delacroix in a statement today in connection with the decision said:

"We considered it impossible to withdraw from the conference, as our delegates had secured important results. The negotiations had arrived at a deadlock, but the powers had granted us very great concessions, releasing us from loans contracted during the war amounting to 6,000,000,000 francs, while we shall have priority in receiving 2,500,000,000 francs, payable in gold and destined to cover inter-provincial bonds we were obliged to issue during the war."

"We will have no financial charges resulting from the war, while we will have a billion francs coming to us on various accounts. The question of the redemption of the German marks we hold is still pending, but we shall not be reimbursed for the 7,500,000,000 marks now in our hands. This will create a somewhat difficult situation for us owing to the depreciation of the mark.

"Regarding the question of reparation, damages sustained by private persons, which is also pending, we have submitted a claim for the amount of such losses, which will be considered by the Reparations Committee. We are told that we shall be paid only in thirty years, which is disappointing, but we must accept what has been laid down.

"The Belgian Domestic Loan had excellent results. It produced more than a billion francs. For the rest of the money we shall be able to borrow abroad and be able to rely on the support of the Allies to enable us to participate in the interallied loans.

"Our task will be facilitated by the recovery of our debts from Germany and the fact that we are to receive 8,000,000 tons of coal from Germany annually for ten years, and also 40,000 horses and cattle, in addition to dyes.

"As regards African questions, the treaty establishes principles which are a prelude to measures satisfactory to us."

The Council met at the Palace at 8 o'clock last night and continued in session until midnight. Paul Hymans, Minister of Foreign Affairs, and head of the Belgian delegation at the Peace Conference, speaking for himself and for his colleagues, Emil Vandervelde and M. Vandenheuvel, who remained in Paris, outlined the situation completely and gave a review of the peace terms. He expressed the opinion that the treaty as it now stands gave honorable and satisfactory terms to Belgium, and recommended that it should be signed.

The Council unanimously endorsed M. Hymans's view, but was equally unanimous in expressing the opinion that the attention of the powers should be drawn to the financial and economic situation in Belgium and to the necessity that

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 5.—Premier Clemenceau received word this afternoon that Premier Orlando would return to Paris on Wednesday.

The Italian credentials have been forwarded by courier to be presented to the German delegates in order to avoid delay.

The Council of Three has agreed to give Belgium full war costs plus damages, the total amounting to between $5,000,000,000 and $6,000,000,000.

The United States and the Allies will waive direct payment of Belgium's indebtedness to them and will accept German securities paid in reparation. The Council of Three hold this settlement is no violation of the Wilson formula that Germany be not compelled to pay war costs of the Allies because Belgium's case was exceptional, her integrity being violated without a hostile act on her part.

May 4.—Strong efforts to placate Italy through compromise arrangements seem to be making headway today. It is reported that the proposed compromise provides for the administration of Fiume as an open port for ten [two?] years under th League of Nations, with reversion to Italy at the end of that time—the Jugoslavs in that interim receiving assistance in constructing a nearby port. This is basically akin to the settlement proposed before Orlando left here.

A very hopeful feeling exists that the Fiume dispute will soon be adjusted, and that Italy will resume her place as an active member of the governing council of the Peace Conference.

LONDON, May 5.—According to a dispatch to the Exchange Telegraph from Paris, the question regarding Fiume has been settled in full agreement with the Italian Government on the basis that Fiume shall remain an autonomous port for two years, when it will be assigned to Italy.

Italians Return, Officially Told.

PARIS, May 5, (Associated Press.)—Vittorio Orlando, the Italian Premier, and Baron Sonnino, the Foreign Minister, are to return to Paris, it was officially announced this afternoon. They will take a train from Rome for this capital tonight.

In the meantime it had been announced that Marquis Imperiali, the Italian Ambassador at London, had been designated to participate for Italy in the meeting this afternoon of the Executive Committee of the League of Nations.

The information regarding Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino came from the Italian Ambassador in Paris. He transmitted it to the French Foreign Ministry, which immediately informed the heads of the allied and associated Governments.

The decision of Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino to return to Paris was taken spontaneously after conferences in Rome during the last few days, according to the Temps. The Council of Three did not reply to the telegram received from Baron Sonnino on Saturday.

Camille Barrère, the French Ambassador in Rome, has been busily occupied during the last few days in smoothing away differences, according to La Liberté, which adds that the co-operation of Thomas Nelson Page, American Ambassador to Italy, was most valuable.

The Italian representatives will reach Paris Wednesday morning, it was stated.

A long telegram from Premier Orlando was received Saturday night by the French Foreign Office.

The status of Italy as one of the five great powers had been brought into question by her withdrawal from the Peace Conference, and this proved a powerful factor in influencing her attitude toward accepting the invitation of the Council of Three to resume her place at the peace table. The treaty of peace makes repeated references to the five great powers as the final authority in regulating many subjects, and this provision would have to be changed to the "four great powers" in case Italy remained out of the conference.

Problems incident to the disposition of the German colonies are left by the treaty to the great powers, so that if Italy should not resume her place the treaty would exclude her from participating in the disposition of the colonies, either directly or as a mandatary.

When the Council of Three met this morning no announcement was made as to the subjects to be considered beyond the statement that it would continue the general program of recent sessions. It was reported when the body met, however, that some reply had been received from Premier Orlando to the communication sent by the council to Rome, and the Italian question was, therefore, thought likely to occupy some of the time of the council meeting.

ROME EXPECTED A SETTLEMENT

Danger Seen of Giolitti Getting New Life if Negotiations Fail.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, Saturday, May 3, (midnight.)—All day long there have been meetings and re-meetings of Italian leaders among themselves and with foreign diplomatic representatives. At a late hour tonight there was a growing feeling of optimism, although it is declared here that the Italian delegation will not return to Paris without a formal guarantee. It is even said that an announcement to this effect has been sent to the Big Three. The optimists augur well from the fact that the British Ambassador, Sir Rennell Rodd, is due to arrive in Rome from Paris in a few hours. Thus the representatives of Great Britain, France, and the United States will be present to sign such a guarantee as the Italians demand.

Another point which is considered significant is that D'Annunzio was summoned to an interview with Orlando this morning. It is understood that the fiery champion of nationalism was asked to refrain from saying anything in his address on Sunday which might hinder the negotiations at their present delicate stage. D'Annunzio canceled an appointment with an Italian press organization this evening—I was told because he wished to revise his speech.

A full Cabinet Council is scheduled for 10:30 o'clock Sunday, at which the Italian leaders will discuss the allied proposals and decide whether or not Italy can accept them. One cannot hope too strongly that the decision will be favorable, for public nervousness is growing noticeably.

At the same time a new element of danger is making its appearance. This is the tendency on the part of the ex-Neutralists, who, under the leadership of Giolitti, did their best to keep Italy out of the war, to advance the argument, "Well, you trusted the Allies, and now you see how they are serving you." When one considers that nine Italians out of ten believe as an article of faith it was the intrigues of international high finance which were at the bottom of the refusal of Italy's claims by the Allies, it is easy to realize how ready is the public mind to accept the theory that Italy is being sold out by her friends.

The Attitude of Giolitti.

It is feared that if an agreement is not reached the effect of disappointment on the people will be such as to cause an outbreak of anti-ally feeling which will sweep away the party in power and replace them by the opposite faction, whose belief it has been that Italy's interests would best be served by turning her face eastward rather than westward.

For it is not to be imagined for a moment that Giolitti or any other of the Government's opponents is animated by anything but a desire to serve Italy. His methods differ from Orlando's—that is all. The key to his position is provided by Italian history of the last half century. The one aim before all Italian statesmen has been the re-establishment of complete national unity. Italy has been built up piecemeal, province by province. Always her policy has been dominated by this central ideal, to realize which she has been alternately the ally of France, Prussia, Austria, the German Empire, and then, again, France and England.

Now, when the very prize of her ambition is reached, Italy fears it may be snatched from her. Is it surprising that there is a possibility that she may attempt to retain it at all costs? For humanitarian and sentimental reasons, Italians would greatly prefer to keep contact with the Entente and America; but, in the words of one of her greatest poets—and throughout history the national life of Italy has been greatly influenced by poetry—"If I cannot sway the gods, I will set moving the powers of hell."

Rash, even suicidal, as such a policy may appear to us, it is a genuine potential factor of the situation. This is Giolitti's trump card, and should tomorrow's news be unfavorable he may have a chance to play it.

Yesterday morning Premier Orlando was said to take rather a pessimistic view of the prospects of compromise, although French and British circles were inclined toward a more favorable outlook. There is no doubt that both of the latter are doing their utmost to reach a solution so that the Italian delegates may be able to attend the presentation of the peace treaty to the Germans next Wednesday.

There may be an inclination in America to say—as I have heard it said by one or two Americans here—"Well, if Italy won't come into line, let her hoe her own row!" Such an attitude may seem natural enough to people more or less aloof from the complex imbroglio of European politics, but it fails to take into account two factors of great importance. The first is that both England and France are bound by the Treaty of London, if Italy chooses to invoke it. Italy does choose, which renders it impossible for her allies to conclude in honor a separate peace with Germany.

Russia's Part in London Treaty.

"It is not generally remembered," he said, "that Russia was also a signatory to this treaty, and that is precisely why Fiume was not included in the Italian concessions. Russia desired that this port should be given to the Croats in order to get it under Slav—that is, Russophile—influence, instead of Austro-Hungarian control. In return, Russia pledged herself to support Italy by maintaining a certain number of divisions on Austria's eastern front. When Russia abandoned the struggle it would have been easy for Italy, thus left alone in the war against Austria, to obtain a revision of the treaty giving her Fiume in recognition of the greater effort she was henceforth called upon to make. But we had full confidence in the good faith of our Allies and cannot believe that that confidence was misplaced.

"As for the suggestion that by agreeing to the President's Fourteen Points we accepted the abrogation of the Treaty of London, it is simply ridiculous. We naturally imagined that the President meant the abolition of secret treaties for the future, without in the least wishing to interfere with previous agreements between the Allies. In point of fact, the Treaty of London was not a secret treaty at all in the sense of being underhand or discreditable. It was a legitimate compact between allies, which could not be made public owing to the state of war which then existed. To condemn it according to Wilson's point is as absurd as to condemn America, France or Great Britain for keeping military secrets while hostilities continued, because there is now a clause in the League of Nations covenant binding the members to exchange frank and full information as to their military programs."

Italy's Military Advantage.

The second important factor which prevents Italy from being left "to hoe her own row" is that Italian troops are in de facto possession of the greater part of the disputed territory. A policy of laissez-faire on the part of the Allies, it is argued, would simply mean, therefore, their acceptance of Italy's ownership as an accomplished fact, with the regrettable and not unlikely prospect of attempts by Jugoslavia to oust the Italians by force of arms. That a conference which has met to render war impossible forever should allow matters to go so far is regarded as utterly unthinkable.

At the same time, it cannot be too strongly emphasized that, however willing the Italian Government may be to meet the Allies half way, it is wholly unable to yield beyond a certain point. Already public opinion here is growing so impatient at delay that cries of annexation are beginning to be raised in several quarters. It is announced today that various Nationalist societies, fifteen in number, have united in one body called the Central Committee of Action for the National Crisis, whose object is to organize and co-ordinate patriotic manifestations throughout the country.

Unless a settlement is promptly reached, there is little doubt that pressure on the authorities to take some such action will grow stronger and stronger, until it is irresistible. To the more sober elements of the Italian people this appears the most dangerous feature of the situation; for should the Government be forced to yield to the demand for annexation, it is hard to see how an open rupture with the Allies could be avoided.

PARIS PRESS INSISTENT.

Matin Declared Saturday a Solution Should Be Possible.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—The anxiety felt several weeks ago as to whether the Germans would come was replaced today in Paris by anxiety as to the Italians coming. The insistence of the French press and statesmen was concentrated for the time being on bringing back Orlando or somebody in his place.

"Tonight, perhaps," said the Matin, "the needed message may go from the Peace Conference to Rome. But a message is not enough. It must carry with it, if you pease, a solution for the Germans at Versailles. To risk the fate of Europe on Fiume is imbecile. Orlando has too great a sense of the future to refuse to lend himself to a transaction that will save the honor of his country and the hopes of the Italians of Fiume.

"How can we lose for the sake of Fiume the opportunity which offers itself to establish, in the face of the alliance menacing us from Berlin and Vienna, the intimate understanding between Paris and Rome, which alone will enable us to oppose 80,000,000 Latins against 80,000,000 Germans who will prepare to make a solid block against us? To sign a peace without Italy with the Germans who are awaiting at Versailles and the Austrians who are coming to St. Germain is to force Italy to make peace by herself without us. In that case Italy runs the risk of servitude, but our risk is almost as great.

"The return of Italy some day to the German alliance would oblige us to remake the entire treaty of peace. The guarantees given to us today would not suffice. Not only would our frontiers be lengthened and our army needs greatly increased; not only would we see our troubles multiply in Northern Africa, where the Italian population is so numerous, but America and England, having recalled their soldiers, France would find herself alone in Europe.

"It is not possible that a solution can not be found. It is not possible that the Allied Governments are so devoid of genius that they must declare themselves incapable of giving Fiume a status conferring on Italians the liberty to remain Italians and giving to the Jugoslavs the liberty of an outlet on the Adriatic."

BUELOW SEES ITALY WINNER.

Says Fiume's Case Parallels Danzig's—Commends Ebert.

ROME, May 5, (Associated Press.)—The Giornale D'Italia today publishes an interview with Prince von Bülow, former German Imperial Chancellor, in which he praised President Ebert and Chancellor Scheidemann for having done everything possible to save Germany from "wreck." The Prince added that the danger of a revolutionary movement to re-establish the monarchical system would be eliminated if the Government were strong.

"Germany," Prince von Bülow is quoted as having said, "wishes to settle down and work and produce."

Alluding to the Italian situation the former Chancellor said:

"Undoubtedly Fiume is an Italian town and must go to Italy. All its inhabitants are Italian except a small minority. Everything in Fiume is Italian. Most of the Hungarians living in Fiume are more favorable to Italian than to Jugoslav rule.

"Fiume must be ceded to Italy. Premier Orlando's attitude is strong. Baron Sonnino's tenacity will win. Both are indefatigable workers. The Entente will cede Fiume before Italian determination.

"I am surprised at the attitude of England, and I do not understand why France fails to side with Italy. Fiume is Italian, as likewise are Zara, Sebinico, and Spalato, just as Danzig is German, containing only 10 per cent. of Poles; just as the Southern Tyrol is German but is assigned to Italy."

Prince von Bülow ended by saying that he hoped soon to return to Rome to reside in the villa he possesses there.

SHANTUNG DECISION IS STILL UNDER FIRE

Paris Expects It to Meet Strong Opposition in American Senate.

JAPAN'S HONOR IS PLEDGED

Allies Evidently Felt That World Opinion Would Compel Justice to China.

By RICHARD V. OULAHAN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 4.—As the main work of the Peace Conference nears its close the air is filled with rumors of this or that complication which is mildly or grossly exaggerated, according to the bias or judgment of those who are inclined to take a gloomy view.

It is true that many of the problems just solved or about to be disposed of present embarrassing features. This was realized from the beginning, for in the effort to adjust the world's affairs after they have been in a state of chaos for a long time satisfaction cannot be given to everybody. But, taken as a whole, the work of the peacemakers begins to show signs of having been accomplished better than conditions a few weeks ago indicated.

Most of the present agitation centers arount the Italian disagreement and the decision of the Council of Three to cede to Japan the rights claimed by Germany in the Shantung Peninsula. President Wilson particularly is being criticised for assenting to the Shantung settlement. The statement of protest issued by the Chinese peace delegation has undoubtedly made a deep impression here, where the opinion exists that the Shantung settlement will be one of the corner-stones of opposition to the ratification of the peace treaty when it comes before the United States Senate.

The Italians are making much of the Council's decision in the Chinese matter, holding that it is entirely inconsistent with the proposed adjustment of the Fiume question and shows that Italy has been treated with less consideration than the other Allies. Japan put up a bluff which the Council was afraid to call, according to the Italians, whose indignation, if one may judge from surface indications, has not abated materially since Premier Orlando left Paris for Rome after having issued a statement politely condemning President Wilson's action in appealing—according to the Italian interpretation—to the people of Italy over the head of their Government.

The difficulties involving both the Japanese and Italian territorial claims found their inception in secret treaties which rose up to embarrass France and Great Britain when their plenipotentiaries gathered around the interallied peace table. It is strikingly clear, however, that whatever difficulties may result from the application of the treaties by the chiefs of the allied conference, the day of secret treaties has passed. Not only is there a distinct pledge contained in the League of Nations covenant to publish all international conventions or agreements made hereafter, but the events of the past few weeks have shown the statesmen of the world that such agreements are full of trouble, and as a general proposition interfere with the maintenance of good relations between Governments.

One of the criticisms of the action of the Council of Three in giving Japan the rights possessed by Germany in the Chinese province is that the Council failed to obtain in advance Japan's promised undertaking to cede to China her territorial and political rights in the Shantung Peninsula. Whether this criticism is just is a matter of opinion. Japan has passed her solemn word that she will restore Chinese territorial and political sovereignty in Shantung. No time limit for her to keep this pledge is provided, Japan having protested that to fix such a limit would be a reflection on her good faith. But, apparently, the allied statesmen in assenting to it not only relied on Japan's honorable obligation as a civilized nation, but believed that, if any extended period should elapse without Japan's fulfillment of her obligation, the opinion of the world would force her to carry out her pledge.

The situation in this respect approximates the victory achieved by John Hay in giving to the press his note of July 3, 1900, in which all the nations engaged in joint operations against the Boxers were called upon to furnish assurances that they would preserve the administrative and territorial integrity of China. Through this early instance of the potent effect of publicity in international affairs a world opinion was created which shamed Germany and Russia into abandoning their intention of exploiting what was then the Chinese Empire.

Our "Let Europe Work" Policy.

There are also important questions to be settled by the Allies which will not be recorded in the peace treaty. Among them is the matter of financial arrangements to put Europe on its feet. Last week the announcement was made that the United States had rejected the British proposal that the allied Governments guarantee the German loan up to £1,000,000,000, so as to enable Germany to pay her initial or cash reparational installment to the allied Governments and through this assistance be in a position to use her own available assets to begin rebuilding domestic industry.

This announcement is the first formal acknowledgment of the important American policy in dealing with after-the-war financial questions. The American financial delegates, with the approval of President Wilson and the Treasury Department, made it plain that the United States would not enter into any agreement with the other allied Governments for extending financial help to Europe. This policy is a phase of the formula which has been emphasized for several months by the American financial experts in dealing with the allied financial representatives, particularly by Bernard Baruch, who reduced the formula to the words "Let Europe go to work." He never lost an opportunity at the sessions of the Interallied Commission on Reparations to emphasize the fact that this was the way in which the financial difficulties confronting the European nations could be solved.

The argument advanced by Baruch was that, outside the fact that American public opinion would not tolerate much longer the policy of the Government in advancing money to the European Allies, practical sense dictated that European business concerns should obtain private credits to start the wheels of industry and commerce anew. It was pointed out that, if assurances were obtained by American financiers that the money loaned to industrial concerns in Europe would be used in the resumption of active business operations, the loans would be forthcoming; but the time had passed when Europe must expect the American Government to do financing of this sort.

Mr. Baruch prepared a statement about two months ago, to be issued in his name, in which these views were set forth, and the formula of "let Europe go to work" was laid down; but for some reason the statement was withheld. The closing days of peace adjustments, however, have brought the matter to a final issue, and the announcement the other day concerning the British loan proposal was intended to let the allied Governments know that the United States had determined to enter into no joint arrangement for extending financial help to the war-worn countries.

This announcement disposed of the suggestion, which has been persistently advanced, that the American Government considers itself as having entered the war in August, 1914, and accepted the obligation to share the expenses incurred by its European allies for the entire war period.

Against 'War After the War.'

In line with this American policy, the United States Government, it is learned, has joined Great Britain in the decision not to enter into discriminatory trade compacts directed against Germany. Other Allied Governments will not follow this policy, but will provide for discrimination against German trade. The attitude of the United States and Great Britain is said to be in consonance with the long-standing opposition of President Wilson to trade favoritism in dealing with other nations in time of peace. His statement on the subject was construed at the time as a criticism of the agreement between the allied Governments to combine against Germany after the war.

In some quarters the President's statement was construed as meaning that he was seeking to bring about a free trade arrangement between the United States and the rest of the world; but it is now explained that he meant only that all nations should be on a basis of trade equality with the United States. The present attitude of the British, as it is understood, indicates that the prior Allied arrangement will not be adhered to.

One of the subjects which is under discussion, but which will not be covered in the peace treaty, is the disposition of the German merchant ships taken by the Allied countries in the course of the war. All these nations, except the United States, passed the seized German merchantmen through their prize courts. The proposal has been advanced in Inter-Allied councils that the German vessels which passed through the prize courts be disposed of as the prize courts decreed, but all other seized German vessels distributed among the allied nations according to their shipping losses in the period of hostilities.

This would mean, according to the American interpretation, that the German ships in possession of the United States be distributed among the other Allies, while the United States would not get any of the German vessels already given to the allied Governments by the prize courts. The American position is that the United States took the German ships in the same circumstances and for the same purposes as the other Allies did, and that the question of their final ownership is one between the United States and Germany, and not between the United States and the allied Governments.

Ownership of Seized Vessels.

The German merchant shipping seized by Great Britain approximates 450,000 tons; by France 450,000; by Brazil 260,000, and by the United States 600,000. Should the scheme of distribution according to allied marine loss be carried out, the United States and Brazil would be obliged to surrender the bulk of their German merchant prizes.

Belgium's dissatisfaction over the decision of the governing council to give Belgium no priority of German indemnity beyond $500,000,000 is another thing which has delayed the final settlement of the reparational question. There are some less important points to be adjusted, but most questions unadjusted—major and minor—have no part in the peace treaty and can be determined while the German plenipotentiaries are considering the allied terms, unless the preparation of the Austrian peace treaty takes up all the time of the representatives of the great powers.

SHANTUNG ENVOYS EN ROUTE.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—I. H. Hsu and H. K. Kung, special envoys to the Peace Conference from the Province of Shantung, China, paused in Chicago today en route.

They hope to reach Paris in time to frustrate the purpose of Japan to gain control of Kiao-Chau, formerly held by Germany under lease from the Chinese Government. Arriving in Paris late this month, they will endeavor to present their claims directly to President Wilson.

"The proposed control of Kiao-Chau by Japan," Mr. Hsu declared, "imperils the peace of the world, for it will entail Japanese control of all Northern China and the establishment of the policy of the closed door.

"The projected peace settlement would give Japan the railroad from Kiao-Chau to Tsinan-Fu, but two other railroads from Kaomi to Hsechow-Fu and from Tsinan-Fu to Shunte-Fu are to be constructed. These lines will tap the two great railroads north and south the Peking-Nanking and the Peking-Hungkow roads.

"With these avenues of traffic in her hands Japan can move troops wherever and whenever she pleases, and Northern China will be helpless."

ASSAILS DEAL WITH JAPAN.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Basing his opinion on reports of the agreement reached with Japan at the Peace Conference, by which it has been asserted that power was to have the Shantung Peninsula, Senator Poindexter of Washington in an interview today expressed the view that the Peace Conference had violated the principle enunciated in the League covenant of safeguarding the territorial integrity and political independence of member nations. Mr. Poindexter asserted that America ought not to give its sanction to the disposal of China's territorial possessions, or those of any other nation.

"The reported concessions by the Peace Conference to Japan of possessions and rights in China is a very good illustration of both the futility and hypocrisy of the League of Nations," said Mr. Poindexter. "One of the principal objects which has been exploited by the advocates of the League has been the territorial integrity and political independence of its members, and yet those who are framing it, and have upset the world in doing so, surrender its alleged and pretended humanitarian and beneficent purposes as the very means of achieving the colossal control which this covenant will give them over the affairs of the world.

"If we are to abandon our traditional policy of minding our own business and living in friendly intercourse and amity with all, where no great emergency endangers our vital interests, it would certainly seem we should at least not become associates and partners in the partitioning, without their consent, and against their protests, of the lands and possessions of other and friendly people."

TO RECOGNIZE FINLAND.

Allied Foreign Ministers Vote to Do So Under Certain Conditions.

PARIS, May 5.—The Council of Foreign Ministers today decided that recognition would be extended to the Government of Finland under certain conditions, which have not been disclosed.

The fact that the credentials of the Jugoslav and Czechoslovak delegations were turned over to the Germans along with those of other nations is accepted in conference circles as a recognition of those new States, the incident being commented upon by an intercepted German wireless dispatch.

AUSTRIANS ON THEIR WAY.

Delegates to Peace Congress Beginning to Arrive in Switzerland.

GENEVA, May 5.—Delegates of German-Austria, who have been summoned to appear in Paris on May 12 to receive the text of the treaty between the allied powers and Austria, are beginning to arrive at Berne and this city. The delegation, which will number thirty-two persons, will be headed by Dr. Franz Klein.

GERMAN AUSTRIANS CRITICISE WILSON

BASLE, Switzerland, May 5.—The German Austrian Cabinet at Vienna has issued a manifesto in which it contends that President Wilson, through his approval of the Treaty of London, so far as it concerns the demarkation of the frontier between Italy and German Austria, which means the annexation of Southern Tyrol, has acquiesced in a violation of the ninth of his fourteen points.

This ninth point, unlike the tenth, says the manifesto, was not subject to change as a result of the notes issued at the time of the conclusion of the armistice. The document adds that the Italians claim to Southern Tyrol are founded purely on strategic grounds. These, it holds, do not justify annexation, because, in the first place, the ethnographic frontier between the German and Italian Tyrol is in line with Italy's strategical requirements, and, in the second place, because such annexation is contrary to the principle of self-determination enunciated by President Wilson in his speech at Mount Vernon on July 4 last. It is pointed out that the German Austrian Government offered long ago to neutralize Southern Tyrol militarily, while retaining administrative and economic control of it, but that it had never had a reply to this offer.

The manifesto concludes by declaring that, if Italy should take Southern Tyrol, the rest of Tyrol inevitably would be absorbed by Germany, with the result that German Austria would be cut off from the rest of the world, except through Germany, and, therefore, would be obliged to unite with Germany.

PARIS PEACE GLOOMS HAVE WAY OF FADING

Best Way to Prove That Is to Peruse the Pessimstic Reports of a Month Ago.

ALL GONE TO THE BOWWOWS

Now Peace Treaty Is on Eve of Signing, Yet the Outcome Is Still Being Viewed with Alarm.

By CHARLES A. SELDEN.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 5.—The sanest and most reassuring way to estimate the mistakes into which prejudice has led the pessimistic anti-Wilson press of Paris is to have the papers of a week ago, or a month ago, in front of you as a check and as a constant reminder of the many former dire predictions that have not materialized. This check is best furnished by anti-Wilson papers arriving from America anywhere from three weeks to a month late, which is just about the right interval of time to demonstrate that some particular manifestation of pessimism was not justified.

Pessimism in Paris never ends, but it has to hunt a new reason for existence every morning. For example, recently arrived American publications whose representatives comb Paris for evidence that President Wilson is a failure, declare not as possibilities, but as accomplished facts, that the League of Nations is dead, that the Peace Conference is a complete failure, and that the Germans will never come to Versailles. In those particular papers these assertions were based on the beginning of Bolshevism in Hungary, but in the last month in Paris itself Hungary has hardly been considered an incident worth talking about, and this morning comes confirmation of the news that Bela Kun has capitulated, and that Hungary is safe from Bolshevism. In the meantime the League of Nations has been finally adopted by the Conference and the peace treaty has been completed, while the Germans have arrived at Versailles.

In this connection it is worth recalling now that last November, when interest shifted from hostilities to peace making, the average opinion of French statements was that the peace treaty might be finished by July. Some sanguine persons said June, but nobody seemed to think of any earlier date as possible. Now, however, there is great likelihood of a finish in May. Nevertheless, the pessimists, especially those in the anti-Wilson camp, have found their chief pasturage in the delays of the conference.

It is while bearing in mind this constant necessity which the prophets of failure are under of taking new positions that you should read such concentrated pessimism as the following from today's Matin:

"Contradictions multiply on contradictions. Principles appear, then vanish one after another. Liberty of the seas, proclaimed at Washington, disappears at London. Respect of nationalities is lost at Fiume. Equality of races is refused to Japan. The new declaration of the Monroe Doctrine denies to Europe recognition of her rights by America, while giving recognition of American rights by Europe. The League of Nations refuses to guarantee that Germany shall pay her debts. Americans and English no longer consent to mount guard with us on the frontiers of liberty. Intellectual disorder brings diplomatic disorder and we bring the Germans to Versailles, it seems, only for the purpose of letting them witness close at hand the tearing apart of the Entente."

But this same morning Clemenceau is quoted as having said to Poincaré last night, "I believe it will be a good peace."

POLES RELIEVE LEMBERG.

Drive Ukrainians Back and City Is No Longer Under Fire.

GENEVA, May 5.—An interallied committee has reached an agreement upon the terms of the treaty relative to a disarmament of the Bulgarian army, according to information from Bucharest.

JAGOW NOW ADMITS PRETEXT BEGAN WAR

Now Says Attack on France Was Based on Imaginary Tale of Invasion.

PARIS, May 5.—The imaginary invasion of German territory by the French was the pretext for the declaration of war on France, says Gottlieb von Jagow, former German Foreign Minister, in a book which he has just published, entitled "The Universal War, Its Causes and Beginning." The alleged French incursions were reported to the German Staff by subordinate officers, von Jagow says, and the staff communicated the information to the Government without attempting to ascertain the facts.

The former Foreign Minister asserts that before the war he was convinced of the necessity of an accord with Great Britain, and expresses regret that Germany unfavorably received offers of an alliance made in 1899.

When the Austro-Hungarian Ambassador in Berlin communicated to him the text of the ultimatum to Serbia, von Jagow says, he thought its terms were too rigorous. He declares he expressed some astonishment that Berlin had not been informed earlier of the steps taken at Vienna.

Theodor Wolff in the Tageblatt commenting on von Jagow's version of the interview he had with the Austrian Ambassador concerning the ultimatum to Serbia, says that after reading it he is more at a loss than ever to understand why the proposal made by Sir Edward Grey to call a conference of Ambassadors to examine the conditions to be enforced on Serbia was rejected so categorically by Germany.

BIGGER RATION FOR GERMANS.

Wheat Enough Now to Last Until the Next Harvest.

BERLIN, May 4, (Associated Press.)—The German mine sweepers which have been operating in the fairways leading to the North Sea ports used by the American food ships have been forced to quit operations because of a coal shortage, a committee of the Prussian Diet has been informed by Food Commissioner Schmidt.

The outlook for the immediate future as regards the food question, however, is not unfavorable, the Commissioner stated, as the supplies that are coming in are permitting the gradual amplification of the official rations.

The stores of wheat, the Commissioner announced, would hold out until the next harvest, but the present bread rations could not be increased. There is a marked improvement in the supplies of fish. The potato crop is unpromising. There is fear of a sugar shortage, because of a lack of workers and fertilizers for beet growing.

SMUGGLE GERMAN MONEY OUT.

ZURICH, May 4.—The Neue Zeitung of Stuttgart says that in spite of regulations issued by the German Government, a great many capitalists, in particular those who made enormous war profits, are managing to export their money.

The paper asserts that in the last two months 25,000,000,000 marks have been deposited in different Swiss banks.

BELGIUM DECIDES TO SIGN THE TREATY

the Allies assure Belgium of complete support looking to her economic restoration. The Council was further of the opinion that the Allies should be asked to support the initiation of negotiations with Holland regarding the settlement of the question of the freedom of the Scheldt and the waterways of East Belgium.

Replying to an address presented by delegates of patriotic societies today, Burgomaster Max of Brussels said that Belgium had been painfully surprised by the fact that she had not been granted the "moral reparation" she had expected in the choice of Brussels as the headquarters of the League of Nations. As to Belgium's other claims, the Burgomaster said that she did not hold out her hand for alms, but asked just payment for the damages she had suffered. He feared, however, that the work of the Peace Conference would prove that in the settlement of international relations justice had not absolutely conquered the idea of empire. Nevertheless he deprecated giving way to "an inmpulsive gesture of irritation," for, if all of Belgium's aspirations could not be satisfied, important concessions were assured.

Le Soir asserts that the Crown Council shares the opinion that if the final peace treaty does not contain the necessary conditions for the speedy restoration of Belgium by financial measures and assurances of diplomatic supports for demands vital to Belgium's security, it will be the duty of the Government to recommend to Parliament that it reject the peace treaty.

D'ANNUNZIO PLAYED ON VAST AUDIENCE

His Invocation to Italy's Heroic Dead Thrilled Romans in Fiume Demonstration.

GHOSTS FILLED AUGUSTEUM

Auditor Testifies to the Stupendous Power of the Poet's Impassioned Oratory.

By WALTER DURANTY.

Copyright, 1919, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ROME, May 4.—Pride of race, pride of sacrifice, defiance of foreigners, and, to crown all, invocation of the heroic dead—there you have D'Annunzio's oration at the Augusteum today.

The speech typified al lthat is worst and best in the idea of patriotism. On one hand were selfishness, narrowness of view and bitter intolerence; on the other passionate love of country, the spirit of devotion and burning, desperate eagerness to be worthy of those who had died for these ideals. All this was expressed by a master of oratory, and as a climax there was the terrifying sense of unseen forces present—the souls of men who had died in battle appealing to the living that their deaths might not be vain.

Imagine that you are sitting, one of crowded thousands, in a great amphitheatre. Every seat, every aisle, every point of standing room is occupied. There are women in deep mourning and women bright with colors. There is the olive-drab of soldiers with the color-splash of honor ribbons on their left breasts. There are student organizations with their blazing insignia, and everywhere, too, there are flags—the tri-color of Italy and the city standards of Trieste and Fiume and Zara and Spalato, with their brilliant coats of arms.

Far below you on the stage is the figure of a man in the uniform of a soldier. For the last half hour he has been speaking, and you have seen the crowd around you thrill in harmony with his words. Sometimes their faces show only passionate interest as they listen to the story of Cavour's first steps to build up their national unity. Sometimes their eyes flash with scorn of foreigners and foreign financial intrigues. Then there comes a look of profound, anxious, mystical devotion as the speaker tells how their friends and brothers fought and died.

"The Dead Are Coming!"

By now they are caught in the spell of D'Annunzio's magic. The divine fire of the poet melts and molds them as he wills. Suddenly the orator pauses, and for a moment there is no breath drawn in the whole assembly. Then, with a note of conviction that is frightening in its simplicity, he cries: "Do you not hear? Listen! Do you not hear the tramp of an army on the march? The dead are coming more swiftly than the living! And all along their route they find the footprints of those who went before them."

Although hours have passed since I heard those words, I am still shaken by what they evoked. At that moment there was not a person in the whole crowd who doubted that the dead were indeed present among us. Whether the existence of those who have passed beyond the veil is but a dream of human hope, or whether it was the effect of auto-suggestion of the mass, I cannot say; but, as the orator paused after that last appeal, one felt an appalling weight of pressure from beyond. It seemed in the silence that one could hear the distant tread of Caesar's marching legions.

For fully a minute there was utter silence. The faces about me were drawn and pallid, yet afire as with religious ecstasy. The figure on the stage stood motionless, dark eyes blazing in the chalk-white face, arms upraised as though to summon the heroic ghosts of age-dead warriors. There was awe in that silence, and fear, yet with them pride and affection.

A Stupendous Oratorical Force.

Then the tension relaxed, and a storm of applause burst, rising here and there to a cry to those who had fallen: "To the last we are with you! Where you lead we follow!"

It is said that in the most desperate hour at Verdun a wounded Frenchman called madly: "Arise, ye dead!" And by his appeal galvanized into supreme resistance his wounded and shattered comrades. Later the message spread through the French Army, and the German advance was stayed at the moment when it seemed victorious. A like miracle may take place in Italy, and if a settlement prove impossible, D'Annunzio's invocation of their dead may steel the Italian people to defiance.

To my astonishment the poet's friends maintain that his speech was, for him, restrained and moderate, although once or twice he uttered words that might be regarded as provocative. Anyhow, whether one approves or not, this much is certain: D'Annunzio is a stupendous force of oratory to play on human heartstrings and fire the human spirits into flame.

D'Annunzio Ill with Fever.

ROME, May 4.—Gabriele d'Annunzio, the Italian poet, who was a speaker at the Augusteum today, was taken ill with fever following his address and was forced to go to bed.

Reports from all Italian towns describe manifestations similar to that held today in Rome. The municipality of Brescia, which had decided to present to President Wilson a copy of its famous statue of victory, cast in bronze taken from captured Austrian cannon, has revoked the decision and will ask d'Annunzio to present the statue to Fiume.

CLEMENCEAU THINKS IT IS "A GOOD PEACE"

"I Have Done My Best," He Tells Figaro Editor, Who Puts Hope in America and Great Britain.

PARIS, May 5.—"I have done my best. I think it is a good peace."

This declaration was made to the editor of the Figaro last night by Premier Clemenceau. The editor adds that from the details he has been able to learn he is convinced that all France is weighing well the immense advantages she will gain from collaboration with Great Britain and the United States.

If it is a good peace, the editor continued, it is also a better one because it is an alliance with the two most powerful nations of the world.

Referring to the meeting of the French Cabinet yesterday, the editor says that after the peace terms were read by Captain André Tardieu a speech was made by Premier Clemenceau.

Premier Clemenceau expressed the hope that Italy in the end would return to the side of the Allies. The editor of the Figaro says that the Premier gave the Cabinet Council all the details of the efforts being made to bring the Italian delegates back to Paris.

WALSH GOES TO ENGLAND.

Will Return to Ireland Wednesday, de Valera Announces.

DUBLIN, May 4, (Associated Press.)—Frank P. Walsh, who, with ex-Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois and Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia, representatives of the Irish societies in the United States, arrived here yesterday to confer with Irish leaders as to securing safe conducts for Sinn Fein leaders to Paris, left for England tonight. Professor Edward de Valera, Sinn Fein member of Parliament for East Mayo, accompanied him to the boat and later said Mr. Walsh would return Wednesday.

Mr. Ryan and Mr. Dunne will visit Belfast Monday and will be entertained at dinner at Maynooth College Tuesday.

BELFAST, May 5, (Associated Press.)—Ex-Governor Edward F. Dunne of Illinois and Michael J. Ryan of Philadelphia today interviewed members of the local Sinn Fein Society. The Lord Mayor of Belfast declined to see them.

The Dublin Corporation has summoned a special meeting for Saturday to receive Mr. Dunne and Mr. Ryan as representatives of the Irish societies in the United States.

BREAK UP IRISH MEETING.

British Troops Charge a Mob at Athlone.

LONDON, Tuesday, May 6.—British troops broke up a forbidden meeting at Athlone, Ireland, last night, by charging upon the crowd with the bayonet. Several persons were wounded, and armored cars have taken possession of the place.

Laurence Ginnell, member of Parliament for Westmeath, attempted to address the meeting.

CONFLICTS IN DODECANESE.

By Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

ATHENS, May 1.—The proclamation of union of the Dodecanese Islands with Greece took place on Easter morning in the churches througout the islands. The reading of the resolution was made after the service in the midst of indescribable enthusiasm on the part of the inhabitants. This action by the Dodecanesians was provoked by the exceedingly severe measures taken by the Italian authorities, which resulted in sanguinary conflicts in several islands, notably Rhodes, Calymnos, and Symi, between the Italian carabinieri and the islanders.

Among the victims is mentionel the village priest of Villanove, Rhodes, who was killed by carabinieri with bayonet thrusts at the moment when he came out of the church to place himself at the head of a demonstration of priests. His niece and her children were wounded by the carabinieri. Victims are also reported at Calymnos and Symi. Arrivals from the Dodecanese report that the number of victims is greater than already announced. The clergy suffered particularly by the violence of the Italian authorities.

A conversation between the Chief Commander of the Italian troops and the Greek Metropolitan at Rhodes is related. The General told the prelate that he held him responsible for the situation and threatened him with a court-martial. The Metropolitan replied thus:

"One Easter day the Ecumenical Patriarch Gregory was hanged by a barbarous people for having proclaimed the independence of the Greek nation, enslaved by the Turks. It would be delightful to me to be shot on the same day by a civilized army such as Italy's, simply because my flock ask for a union with Greece, their mother."

at Weimar in two or three weeks, the advices add.

Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, Chairman of the German peace delegation, in an interview with the Versailles correspondent of the Tageblatt, denied that he hoped to cause differences among the Allies. The Count is quoted as saying:

"It is not true that I have ever pursued a policy hoping for differences among the Allies. I consider such speculation bad policy because it is both foolish and dishonorable.

"Moreover, such a policy offers no prospect of success. It is economic more than political questions that hold our opponents so firmly together and it is hardly conceivable that they can be separated."

The German delegation, it is added, has protested against the erection of the wire fence around their residence in which, the Vorwärts says, the Germans are kept "like dangerous animals."

Newspaper men with the German delegation at Versailles are sending generally conservative accounts of their experiences, but Schuermann, the correspondent of the German Gazette, who wielded a trenchant, bitter pen during the war, does not disguise his disgust at the treatment given the Germans by the French. He devotes most of his report today to "the freedom of movement" accorded the German delegation, which, he says, is restricted to limits.

He tells of a stenographer who sought to purchase tooth powder at a drug store and "nearly caused a diplomatic breach," the incident ending with her expulsion from the store. The writer says that American correspondents, "believing they could move about as freely as they do in Berlin," tried to interview a member of the German delegation on its arrival, but were sharply denied the privilege.

Schuermann complains of the high prices, especially since the German marks must be transformed into francs, and says that the charge for making the exchange is exorbitant. He closes by saying: "Frenchmen are neither too petty nor proud to do cheap business with enemy delegates."

The delays in the negotiations are not being welcomed in official circles in Berlin, although the general public does not seem to be worrying, having become accustomed to the slow procedure. From the German viewpoint, the situation has been aggravated by the breakdown of the two direct wires between Berlin and Versailles, slowing up transmission, or stopping it altogether at times.

The peace department of the Foreign Office, according to Count von Bernstorff, former Ambassador to the United States, who is acting in an advisory capacity to the Government on peace questions, is being besieged by Germans of high and low degree who are registering all sorts of criticisms. Some of them think that the delegation should be enlarged, while others object to its huge size. Apparently no one is satisfied with its makeup.

Germans with the exception of those of Italy, whose representatives were absent, and of Poland, who were delayed in transit. The credentials of MM. Pachitch, Trumbitch, and Vesnitch were drafted in the names of the Serbian, Croatian and Slovenian States.

The report that Premier Orlando and Foreign Minister Sonnino, the leading Italian delegates to the Peace Conference, had left Rome for Paris, and the further news that the Belgian Crown Council had given its assent to the signing of the peace treaty by the Belgian delegates, regardless of the unsatisfactoriness to Belgium of the financial arrangements, have resulted in relieving the embarrassments of the Peace conferees.

The determination of the conference to begin the negotiation of a peace treaty with Austria immediately following the delivery of the treaty to the Germans has been made known to Italy. It is expected the Austrians will arrive toward the middle of May, and plans for their accommodation at St. Germain are being made by the French authorities. Whether Hungary will be asked to join in the treaty will depend upon the outcome of the present disorders there. It is said that the Austrian treaty will be featured by the outlining of the boundaries of States newly formed from the old empire. The Bulgarian and Turkish treaties will follow, but the time for summoning the delegates from those nations has not as yet been fixed.

The Austrian delegates who will come to Paris to negotiate the treaty between their country and the Allies met at Vienna on Saturday.

Those close to President Wilson say that June 1 will without doubt be the date for the assembling of the extra session of Congress.

Brest's $400,000 Theatre Burns.

BREST, May 4.—In spite of the efforts of American firemen, the principal theatre here was destroyed by fire yesterday. The blaze started during a rehearsal and several persons were injured in rescuing the performers. The loss is estimated at 2,000,000 francs.

In the back part of your morning paper you will often come upon items like the following, from the Times.

Will for Probate.

T___ L___ H___, (March 3.) The estate is in excess of $100,000 but less than $200,000, the income from which is left to the widow, M___ L___ T___ of the Hotel ___ in West ___ Street, and on her death it reverts to a sister and several nephews and nieces, deceased.

"---the income from which---"

A VERY important point hangs on the question, "Who will manage the property and distribute the income?"

If the estate is left in the hands of some personal friend as trustee, his faculties may remain clear; his interest in your affairs, and those of your heirs, may be well sustained; his life may be spared during the lifetime of the heirs. But these conditions are all problematical.

Nowadays, men with property are looking for sound business management for their estate which they can rely on, not for a possible few years, but permanently.

With this condition in mind, the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company has instituted a permanent TRUST COMMITTEE. This committee is selected from the Board of Directors by the directors themselves. It will always be made up of men who are especially well qualified to handle investments and to manage property which has been willed. The President is also a member of this Committee ex-officio.

When the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company assumes responsibility for handling an estate, no investment is made without its passing the judgment of this TRUST COMMITTEE. The Committee meets at frequent and regular intervals and keeps constant watch of all trust investments under the management of the Mercantile Trust & Deposit Company.

If you wish to secure for your heirs this form of estate management, we shall be very glad to explain any details.

CITY'S LOAN FIGURES ARE STILL VERY LOW

POLICE BEGIN TO CANVASS

Firemen Also Take Part in Drive—$156,513,350 Must Be Sold Daily.

While Liberty Loan officials worked under high pressure yesterday on plans to drive away the apathy which has impeded the Victory Note campaign so far and to bring New York City surging to the front in the final days of the drive, they were disappointed at the poor start disclosed by the Federal Reserve Bank figures for the opening day of the third and last week.

The Federal Reserve Bank reported only $12,757,200 from New York City, making the official total for the thirteenth day of the eighteen-day campaign, $278,411,800 for New York City, and $410,919,900 for the district. With the campaign more than three-quarters completed, the district has subscribed less than one-third of its quota. New York City's showing is poorer than that of any other part of the district.

Governor Benjamin Strong of the Federal Reserve Bank issued an appeal to the people to realize their responsibility and the danger that the result may be seriously unsatisfactory unless the people of the city and district begin buying at a much better rate.

One of the speakers yesterday, Regis H. Post, ex-Governor of Porto Rico, put the situation into stronger terms. He said:

"If the Victory Liberty Loan should fail, it would be the ruination of American prestige the world over."

A meeting of all the Victory Note officials and employes was called at headquarters, 120 Broadway, at which the discouraging features of the situation were frankly discussed, and the workers were urged to redouble their efforts. George W. Hodges, Vice Director of the Government Loan Organization, said:

"This is the last week of our campaign, our last campaign, and we feel that today is really the zero hour."

The official figures of the Federal Reserve Bank on the progress of the loan yesterday was as follows:

NEW YORK CITY.

	Quota.	Total to Date.	Pct. of Q'ta.

For the remaining business days of the campaign $156,513,350 must be raised daily by the entire district in order to reach the total of $1,350,000,000.

Police Begin Campaign.

New York policemen and firemen began their canvass of the city yesterday and a big initial showing was reported, although no figures on their day's work could be obtained. The plan of campaign includes a canvass by policemen and firemen of stores and factories, shops and lofts, automobiles and pedestrians. The first big subscription for the Department was taken by Deputy Commissioner Wallis from J. Stephen Ulman of 27 Cedar Street, who made a purchase of $200,000 worth. Mr. Ulman started downtown with the intention of taking a $1,000 bond from every traffic policeman he passed, but found to his surprise that many of them did not have any books or subscription blanks. This defect was remedied before noon.

Commissioner Wallis predicted yesterday that the Police Department would obtain subscriptions of $50,000,000 before the week was over. Commissioner Wallis announced that bits of German shell on gold and silver mountings would be awarded to the policemen making exceptional records of sales.

One of the most efficient sales forces so far has been the newsboys. The record to date for good service among them is claimed by William Tannenbaum, a newsboy with one leg, who has disposed of $59,000 worth. On Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday—the big days of the campaign—newsboys will have practically every subway entrance surrounded. Thousands of Boy Scouts will aid in the final days of the drive also.

The Motor Transport Service, which furnished most of the vehicles and took a leading part in the great "Panorama of Victory" on Saturday, is proving an effective bond-selling agency at the new Court House site, where it has set up a repair unit under Captain Edward Rorke and is setting damaged army motor vehicles to rights, while the spectators are canvassed by Victory note solicitors. The Motor Transport Service will conduct an interesting demonstration every day until the end of the campaign.

Booths Report Progress.

More than 8,000 new subscribers at Victory note booths were reported yesterday. Among the leading booths were the following:

Plaza Hotel	$218,450
Macy's	41,500

The Central Union Trust Company announced yesterday that it has received from the Atlas Assurance Company, Ltd., of London a subscription of $200,000 to the Victory Liberty Loan.

The burst of noise and action which will start the big rally in the concluding days of the campaign will begin at 8 o'clock tonight. Cannons will be fired; factory and steamboat whistles will be sounded, fire engines and fire trucks will be taken out on the streets to sound their bells and sirens; church bells will be tolled. This will continue for fifteen minutes, and the same performance will be repeated every evening until the end of the campaign.

TO PRESS DRIVE HARD AMONG THE INDUSTRIES

Rainbow Division Has $448,602,140 in Notes to Sell in Remaining Days of Victory Loan.

With only five days left to raise $448,602,140, the rest of its quota, the Advisory Trades Committee, which is the general staff of the Rainbow Division of mercantile canvassers covering New York City for the Victory Loan, announced last night that a whirlwind drive would be made to reach its allotment. To date, the Rainbows have raised a total of $220,525,860.

Subscriptions reported by the division yesterday amounted to $19,523,160. The largest single subscription reported was one for a million dollars from the Berwind interests subscribed through the Coal Trade Committee.

Subscriptions amounting to $1,025,450 were reported by the Hardware, Metals and Allied Trades Committee. They are: meeting was to be," Senator Hitchcock said. "I have been speaking in support of the League of Nations, but, by the wonderful enthusiasm I have seen here tonight, I feel that the League of Nations subject is in complete harmony with the Fifth Liberty Loan campaign. Therefore, I am going to speak of the League of Nations.

"A good many people have gained a wrong impression of the League of Nations. They have conceived the idea that the League of Nations was a Frankenstein with an army and a navy to crush those who opposed it. But the League of Nations is only an agreement, a covenant, to enforce justice and peace throughout the world, to protect the weaker nations from the stronger ones. Unless something is done to stop war, unless some organization to compel peace is consummated, the peace treaty being completed at Paris will be but a truce, and all nations will prepare for war as they never have before.

"The League of Nations simply is an agreement whereby all nations take it upon themselves to force arbitration where disputes arise, and by the articles of the League of Nations when one nation attempts to declare war upon another a specified time must elapse when arbitration takes place; and as we know such a delay will give the peace-loving people of the world a chance to voice their sentiments, and, as was the case in Europe, when a three-day delay would have averted the world's greatest war, so in the future delays which the articles control will avert wars."

M'ADOO URGES SPEED IN PURCHASING NOTES

Tells Brooklyn Audiences Confidence Alone Will Not Make Victory Loan a Success.

Speaking at a forum meeting of the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce yesterday, William G. McAdoo, former Secretary of the Treasury, who conducted the four war loans for the Government, urged his hearers to buy Victory notes and then more Victory notes if they wanted to be able to stand unashamed before an American soldier disabled through wound or disease and claim fellow citizenship.

Mr. McAdoo was introduced by Hans von Kaltenborn, Chairman of the Forum. In beginning he called attention to the arrival at Versailles of the German peace delegates in the humble position of the vanquished. He compared the situation of America and her allies today with their position a year ago, when the German offensive was still menacing in its power. Then, he said, in May, 1918, this Government realized that if it could not get its men overseas and into the fight Germany would win.

"We began to realize in full measure," Mr. McAdoo continued, "the priceless value of victory. Then it was that America bent herself with new determination to the colossal and almost impossible task before her. She poured out her money lavishly, recruited her strength prodigally, and by superhuman effort and a performance unparalleled in history transported hundreds of thousands of heroic sons across the submarine-infested seas, thrust them into the battle line, inspired our allies to new effort, stopped the German advance, and set in motion that great German retreat which culminated in the armistice Nov. 11, 1918.

"Two million of the finest American doughboys who ever trod sole leather did this job at the call of their country. They went forward with the fire of America in their hearts, the glory of America in their souls, the courage of America in their strength, and put an end—we hope forever—to despotic government in the world.

"We bought this victory partially with the credit of the American people. The bill is now due and must be paid. This loan must be taken by the American people if the Government is to secure the money with which to pay this great debt of honor. And the American people are going to pay the bill. They are going to raise this money. Whatever may be said of them, it cannot be said they are not good sports. We are not a nation of four-flushers. In all of our history we have never failed to meet a national obligation, and we are not going to begin now."

"We are now demobilizing as rapidly as possible the great army we organized to lick the Kaiser," he went on, "and as soon as this loan is completed we must begin to demobilize another great army, a great army of which I am very proud, a great army of Liberty loan workers, men and women alike, who have backed with their energy, their patriotism and their support our fighting upon land and sea. I had the honor to be their leader in four great Liberty loan campaigns and no country ever had a more devoted, higher-minded and patriotic army of finance. And back of that wall still another great army of investors—twenty-five million subscribers to four colossal Liberty loans."

Mr. McAdoo stated that it was just as important to distribute the Victory Loan widely among the people as it was to distribute the four preceding Liberty Loans among the people. He said that business prosperity would be enhanced by the liquidation of our war debts and the discharge of every national obligation, and the success of the Victory Loan was essential to that prosperity. He stated that the wide distribution of the loan among investors was desirable so as not to tie up the funds of the banks, which would then be in a position to finance legitimate business and sound enterprise.

Francis L. Corrao, of 356 Fulton Street, Brooklyn, addressed a letter yesterday to every Italian banker, merchant and business man in the borough to forget the "Paris incident" and buy Victory Notes. His letter read in part:

"I should like to impress upon every Italian and every American of Italian extraction in Brooklyn the absolute necessity to subscribe for Victory Bonds to their utmost capacity. They should do this in the same manner and with the same spirit of sacrifice and enthusiasm as they did in the former Liberty loans. No Paris incident should interfere in the slightest degree with this duty.

"As to the Americans in Brooklyn of Italian extraction, I know that they are proving themselves 100 per cent. Americans and disproving the slander of some who would have it that they are less than that in American patriotism. They appreciate the fact that they live in the greatest and freest of all countries and that they enjoy the blessings of liberty never before enjoyed by any republic of ancient or modern times."

Part of 15 buildings for Wm. Wrigley, Jr., Co., Long Island City

A competitor may say that we can't handle so many building contracts at once if Mr. Barney or Mr. Ahlers personally assumes responsibility on each contract.

Yes, there is a limit. But is size everything?

In financing, for instance, isn't it better to deal direct with a bank's President rather than deal with a larger bank's branch manager?

Going to build? Bryant 2908 will reach Mr. Barney or Mr. Ahlers.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—An official and most urgent appeal for Victory Loan workers to exert themselves to the utmost was made tonight by the Treasury Department in announcing that subscriptions up to date totaled $1,804,274,650, or but 40.09 per cent. of the minimum quota of $4,500,000,000. The St. Louis District continues to lead in the percentage list, with Minneapolis a close second.

The New York District still is the largest individual subscriber, with $410,900,000 divided as follows: New York City, $278,407,800; New York State outside of New York City, $94,474,900; New Jersey, $33,887,500; Connecticut, $4,149,700.

"The best that can be said for this total," reads a Treasury Department comment on the nation's subscriptions, "is that the percentage of the country's quota subscribed today is almost as high as was the percentage of the Fourth Liberty Loan quota on a corresponding day in the last drive. The discouraging feature of the present situation is that the total gain since Saturday's report is only $147,295,300.

Day's Average $300,000,000 Short.

"This is about $300,000,000 short of the daily average that must be maintained from now until the end of the loan, if the country's quota is to be subscribed. Five days removed from the final goal in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign, the country had subscribed $2,451,053,950, or about $650,000,000 more than it has subscribed in the present loan."

The subscriptions by Federal Reserve Districts follow:

District.	Subscription.	Per Cent.
St. Louis	$132,591,800	67.99
Minneapolis	95,280,400	60.49
Chicago	350,712,850	53.58
Boston	182,009,460	48.57
Kansas City	85,386,650	43.78
Richmond	89,668,350	42.69
Atlanta	56,120,450	38.97
Cleveland	167,839,700	37.29
Philadelphia	121,493,000	32.39
New York	410,900,000	30.42
San Francisco	86,915,900	28.82
Dallas	25,763,100	27.24
Total	$1,804,274,650	40.09

Oregon reported today that it has oversubscribed its quota and, incidentally, challenged the States of Iowa and Michigan to show that banks in those sections did not underwrite a part of their quotas announced as filled much earlier.

Says Oregon Leads in Popular Sales.

The Pacific Coast State's challenge was accompanied by a statement that Oregon reached its allotment by direct sales, and that it believed the honor for such an achievement belonged to it first among all States. The Treasury Department as yet has rendered no opinion as to which State went over the top first.

Four States are now over. They are Oregon, Michigan, Iowa, and Vermont.

Portland, Ore., oversubscribed its quota, obtaining approximately 50,000 subscribers. The volunteer sales system was used throughout the campaign, and the Portland Committee believes that it is the first city of its size to obtain its quota in this manner.

"The patriotic spirit of American newspapers," declared an official statement, "never was better exemplified than today, in the publication of a final Victory Liberty Loan appeal by Secretary Glass. On Saturday the Secretary sent a frank statement to 2,200 newspapers by telegraph, telling them that the Treasury Department was concerned about the state of the loan, and asked them to publish a frank statement from him on the situation, which accompanied his telegram. Virtually every newspaper that received the telegram today printed the statement on its front page."

The Cleveland district reported tonight that much difficulty was being experienced in making sales in the Pittsburgh area. Ohio communities are doing better, and sales are picking up in Kentucky.

313 New England Towns Fill Quotas.

Three hundred and thirteen communities have obtained their quotas in the Boston district, and the individual subscriptions represent 193,853 buyers. Redoubled efforts were made in Boston with noonday rallies addressed by Governor Coolidge, State Treasurer C. L. Burrill, and Mayor Andrew J. Peters. At the State House it was announced the State Sinking Fund Commission subscribed $1,000,000, and the city would invest $500,000 more. Lee, Higginson & Co., subscribed $2,500,000. The day's largest subscription in New England was $5,000,000 from the Aetna Life Insurance Company at Hartford.

Among Western returns for yesterday the Chicago district reported that up to date it has awarded 761 honor flags. It is leading all districts in this respect.

Subscriptions by States in the Dallas district included: Texas, $22,718,800; Arizona, $357,400; Louisiana, $1,835,650; New Mexico, $741,000; Oklahoma, $109,850.

The Richmond District reports subscriptions as follows: Maryland, $22,749,450; District of Columbia, $9,448,250; Virginia, $23,633,950; West Virginia, $4,766,000; North Carolina, $11,497,450; South Carolina, $4,220,850. Richmond reports individual subscriptions to date of 121,357.

Kansas City's unofficial total, which is slightly higher than the official reports, shows the following sales by States: Colorado, $13,192,350; Kansas, $23,274,590; Missouri, $19,571,400; Nebraska, $14,688,700; New Mexico, $355,700; Oklahoma, $19,197,450; Wyoming, $1,339,650.

35-Knot Victory Ship Racing Here.

The navy's Victory ship has begun her spurt up to New York, the Harbor of Victory. Anticipating a substantial increase in the nation's subscriptions over the week-end, the U. S. S. Calhoun, a 35-knot destroyer, yesterday began the third and last lap of the Victory voyage, relieving the U. S. S. Crane at Panama with impressive ceremonies.

The War Department announced that the $1,000,000 mark set for subscriptions to the Victory Loan from the Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit has been passed, the college students and school boys in training to become officers having already subscribed $1,293,000.

VICTORY FESTIVAL OPENS.

Parade the Feature of Columbia's Celebration Tomorrow.

The three-day Victory Festival of Columbia University opened last night with a musical program in the gymnasium, under the direction of Professor Walter Henry Hall. Verdi's Manzoni Requiem was sung by the Columbia University chorus, assisted by an orchestra composed of members of the Philharmonic Society and Mme. Marie Sundelius, soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Company; Dan Beddoe, tenor; Miss Mary Jordan, contralto, formerly of the Century Opera Company, and Robert Maitland, basso.

The festival, which is being given under the direction of the Institute of Arts and Sciences, is to celebrate the winning of the war anad the participation therein of more than 10,000 Columbia men.

Two Barnard students, attired as the Misses Columbia and selling Victory bonds, will ocupy the cockpit of a landship in the aerial section of the parade tomorrow. The military and aerial units of the university both will turn out. The young women are Miss Louise M. Sens of 635 Riverside Drive and Miss Marion Townsend of 2,515 Clarendon Road, Brooklyn. Both are members of the class of '19.

Members of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps will be under the command of Major John M. Hauser, whose aids will be Major Felix M. McLean and Captain A. H. Merry. The cadets will form in line in 116th Street, opposite the university library, with Company A on the right, at 10 o'clock in the morning. The battalion and noncommissioned staffs and color guard will assemble in Hamilton Hall.

At 11 o'clock the Cadet Corps, fully equipped, and members of the Columbia Aero Club will begin the march from Sixty-third Street and Central Park West. The route will be down Central Park West to Broadway, to Fifty-seventh Street, to Fifth Avenue, to Fiftieth Street, and thence to Victory Way. The aerial unit will be commanded by Lieutenant E. L. Smith, President of the Columbia Aero Club, and will consist of more than fifty men, many of whom saw active service in the war. Lieutenant Smith will be accompanied by a staff.

VICTORY WAY THRONGS HEAR LOUVAIN'S MAYOR

Belgian Official Describes Destruction of City by Germans to Victory Loan Audience.

The story of the destruction of Louvain was told to crowds on Victory Way yesterday by Alfred Nerinex, the Mayor of that city during the German occupation. The Mayor of Louvain made no appeal for loan subscriptions in his address, but his story was regarded by those who heard him as more eloquent than any attempt to urge sales.

M. Nerinex said:

"I have been asked to come and tell you something about what happened in my country; not to tell you what your duty is as American citizens at this juncture, but just to give you an illustration of what you have been spared. That is why we have a feeling of gratitude for your help.

"We were invaded by the Germans in 1914; our towns were taken by them without any kind of fight. They had not the slightest excuse for carrying on any kind of warfare with us. There was no resistance, no army; we had no preparation. They settled themselves upon our homes. In my home I had to put up seventy-five men, and they made my house so dirty it took my niece several weeks to clean it up. That was only inconvenience, however, but after four or five days of what I might call peaceful occupation, all at once at 8 o'clock in the evening, without giving us the slightest warning, they started shooting all over the town in all our streets; they had no excuse for it; they started to shoot and some of their own soldiers made them believe we were doing the shooting.

"Immediately they began burning our houses. They burned the whole square at the railroad station, and the whole street; the whole thing from the station to the centre of the town. From the roof of my house I saw them set fire to the cathedral and immediately afterward to the university. In one short Summer night they ruined 300,000 books, the accumulated treasures of science and art for five centuries, and when we came to put out that fire they prevented us from doing it.

"At the same time they were driving our poor people toward the station, where they deported 3,500 of them into cattle cars which took them into Germany. They killed 200 of our people, they destroyed 1,100 houses. And afterward when I talked the thing over with them they told us, 'Well, some of it may have been a mistake, but we were justified by war. We had to terrorize your country and enforce our ways of waging warfare. If we hadn't done it, it would have taken 300,000 men to keep you passive, whereas at present we have done it with only 13,000 men.'

"If their object had been warlike operation there might perhaps have been some excuse; but it was more of terrorism and blackmail. They wanted to blackmail Belgium into surrendering. The reason why our Government wouldn't do it was, in the first place, its confidence in the absolute justness of its cause and its ultimate success, for which we are just as grateful to you for your furnishing us with money, ammunition, and with food, and we are thankful to you for having sent over the men, the presence of which on the battlefield pulled the very life out of the Germans and pulled them into capitulation and begging for an armistice."

It was "Wounded Day" at the Way, and after the Mayor of Louvain finished, Colonel Joseph A. Blake, the American surgeon who has just returned from France, described the nature of sacrifices made by our men who were wounded on the battlefield.

MUNICH VICTORS KILL ANOTHER RED CHIEF

Klingelhofer Put to Death After Summary Trial—Hostages Found Mutilated.

BERLIN, May 4.—Herr Klingelhofer, a member of the Munich Communist Government, has been executed after a trial by court martial, a telegram from Augsburg says.

The message confirms the shooting of Herr Eglhofer, the commander of the Bavarian Red Army, and says that Gustav Landauer, Minister of Enlightment in the Communist Government, was murdered by a mob after he had been captured and imprisoned by Government troops.

PARIS, May 3.—Only three of the hostages executed at Munich by the Communists before they were overpowered could be recognized. One of them was Prince Albert of Thurn and Taxis.

Among the bodies which were unrecognizable were three that had been decapitated. They are believed to be those of the Countess Westarp, Councillor Dallarmi, who has been known as one of Munich's benefactors, and Professor Franz von Stuck.

A Zurich dispatch received in London on Sunday reported that Minister Landauer had been shot at Bamberg by Bavarian Government troops.

The execution of Prince Albert of Thurn and Taxis, the head of the Bavarian branch of that family, and of Professor von Stuck was reported Saturday in a Berlin dispatch by way of Copenhagen. Prince Albert was one of the leading nobles of Bavaria, and was married to Archduchess Marguerite. Professor von Stuck was a well known painter and architect.

The identity of Countess Westarp is uncertain. The family has been prominent in Bavaria and Prussia for years, the head of the Bavarian branch being Count Adolf. The Countess referred to may be either his wife or one of his five unmarried daughters.

Harvard Alumni Have Paris Dinner.

PARIS, May 4.—Two hundred alumni of Harvard University met here at dinner on Saturday evening. Robert Woods Bliss, Secretary of the American Embassy, was Chairman. Professor Le Baron R. Briggs, Harvard Exchange Professor at the University of Paris, spoke on America's role in the war. Professor Charles Homer Haskins, Dean of the Harvard Graduate School, made an address on the development of Franco-American friendship, and Colonel Azan of the French Mission to the United States spoke on the same subject.

To Honor Fallen Comrades.

The cortège of honor, composed of members of the division, bearing ten service flags with 2,356 gold stars in memory of their fallen comrades, and palms, emblematic of victory, will march, accompanied by representatives of the 189 Local Draft Boards, carrying wreaths, ten minutes ahead of the division. The cortège will proceed at a slow pace as far as the Court of Honor, in front of the Public Library. Here the cortège will fall out and remain until the parade has gone by. The tributes of the Draft Boards will be placed at the foot of the roll of honor.

The soldiers in the parade will march at a cadence of 128 steps a minute. General Alexander will march with his command as far as 110th Street, where he will fall out and review his men for the last time.

Orders have been issued to the regimental units for assemblying at 8 A. M. in the vicinity of Washington Square. Casuals and former members of the division who sought permission to parade were instructed to report to their respective units at the same hour.

The assemblying places of the various units are:

305th Infantry—On University Place, from Washington Square North.

304th Field Artillery—From the corner of Washington Square North and University Place East.

152d Brigade and 305th Field Artillery—From the corner of Washington Square North and University Place South.

Seventy-seventh Military Police Company, 302d Field Signal Battalion, and Mobile Ordnance Repair Shop—Between Sixth Avenue and Macdougal Street, fronting on Washington Square North.

The men of the division have been instructed to appear in their overseas caps, with their tin helmets slung over their shoulders. Light packs, such as were worn when the division was reviewed by General Pershing in April, will be worn.

Arrangements of the Police.

Police arrangements for the parade provide for shutting off all crosstown traffic from the Washington Arch to 111th Street, including both vehicles and pedestrians, from 8 o'clock this morning to the end of the parade. This complete isolation of the east and west sides throughout the length of Fifth Avenue was decided upon as the result of the unsatisfactory experience in the effort to keep certain traffic streets open during the march of the 27th Division on March 25.

The only means for crossing from one side of the city to the other will be the subways and elevated roads. This will add heavily to the problem of the railway lines, especially the operation of the shuttle trains from the Grand Central Terminal to Times Square. Chief Police Inspector John Daly consulted with the railway officials concerning plans to furnish the maximum service and to prevent congestion as far as possible. The police order issued last night reads:

> From 8 A. M. all vehicular and pedestrian traffic will be diverted from Washington Arch north to 111th Street and from all intersecting streets for one block, east and west, in said territory. All persons desiring to cross Fifth Avenue will be advised by police to travel up or down town on elevated and subway roads and reach the west or east side by crossing or transferring to cars below Washington Square or north of Central Park, and to use the shuttle service at Forty-second Street.

It was expected by the police that the stoppage of all east and west traffic, the first attempt of this kind at any parade, might cause congestion at some points, but it was determined upon as the only solution of the problem of handling the crowds and keeping the avenue absolutely clear of interference.

Inspector John O'Brien of the Traffic Division, who, with Deputy Commissioner A. D. Porter, Chief Inspector Daly, and Borough Inspector Thomas H. Murphy of Brooklyn, will have general charge of the police during the parade, suggested that the east and west side subways and elevated roads be used to cross town at the southern and northern points instead of depending upon the shuttle service at Forty-second Street, which cannot provide for all traffic across town.

More police will be on duty today than at any time in the history of the Police Department. In addition to 8,000 regular policemen there will be 6,000 reserves, aided at the stands by 1,250 auxiliaries and 1,200 of the Women's Police Reserves.

Reception at City Hall

Major Gen. Alexander and his staff received an ovation at noon yesterday at the City Hall when they went to pay an official visit to Mayor Hylan. Several thousand spectators were gathered about the City Hall when the party arrived. The Department of Street Cleaning Band played outside of City Hall and the Fire Department Band furnished music within.

Mayor Hylan met General Alexander and Mrs. Alexander, who accompanied her husband, on the steps leading to the hall, and escorted them to the Aldermanic chambers, where a formal introduction was made by Deputy Police Commissioner Rodman Wanamaker. General Alexander's staff followed their chief. In introducing the Mayor, Commissioner Wanamaker said:

Mayor Hylan then read the following address:

"On behalf of the people of New York I extend to you a most hearty welcome. The people of the city are proud of you and the officers and men of the Metropolitan Division. You have gloriously demonstrated that effective team work in military affairs, as well as in civil life, is the only successful method of accomplishing great results. The achievements of the 77th Division are the more remarkable because of its being composed of many races, speaking many tongues.

"Men were taken from all walks of life—from offices, factories, sweatshops, and in fact from every possible professional and commercial activity. Many were unaccustomed to outdoor life, undernourished, with pallid cheeks; men with stooped shoulders, the result of long hours of confinement in dark offices and shops, were all called to the colors.

"Of the 77th Division I understand that fully 30 per cent. are men of Hebrew extraction. The splendid record they made on the other side, with only a few months of intensive training, is most remarkable. It is most phenomenal how the men of the 77th under military discipline proved themselves equal to the most exacting and trying tasks. Their courage, their fearlessness, and their heroism will ever remain unsurpassed.

"Today they return to us with manly, soldierly bearing, added self-respect, new ideas, renewed determination and better physically, morally, and spiritually. They return to us with intellects awakened, ambition spurred and higher and better ideals. They return to us with a realization that the opportunities of America and its free institutions should be upheld and perpetuated.

"The people of the entire country, and particularly the City of New York, have been thrilled with a feeling of pride at the extraordinary heroism of the American soldier, and too much praise cannot be given the discipline and valor that were displayed by the American Army in the great world war.

"Let us pause for a moment to recount some of the deeds of the 77th Division, the conquerors of the Argonne Forest, the routing of the enemy from the Vesle to the Aisne River, the military achievement accomplished by tearing through the supposed impenetrable forest, and the continuous engagement of the division in fighting from its entrance into the Lorraine sector until it reached the gates of Sedan when the armistice was signed.

"We of New York City want the officers and men of the 77th Division to know that we realize it required a great courage to plunge into the very heart of the Argonne. Twenty-one American divisions were on the twenty-mile front when the Meuse-Argonne offensive was begun, but the 77th was the only division which attacked the enemy in his stronghold and succeeded in driving him from the Argonne jungle. This remarkable military achievement commanded the admiration not only of the country but of all the civilized world. The penetration of the supposed impervious thickets and the triumphant smashing of the cunningly devised enemy defenses have added imperishable renown to our flag and the achievements of our Army.

"Again the traditions of America have been upheld. Again the stirring military prowess of the American soldier has been demonstrated. Again the forces of civilization, swept on by resistless dash and energy, have triumphed over the forces of entrenched autocracy. Again was displayed the courage of the men of 1776, of 1812, of 1861, and of 1898.

"General Alexander, I offer to you the heartfelt congratulations of the people of this city on the splendid work of the men of the Liberty Division. We hail with joy those who have returned to us from the glorious fields of battle.

"But there are many of your brave comrades who have not returned. Their blood has sanctified the soil of France and Flanders fields. This city bows in reverence for those who died. We extend our sincere sympathy in their hour of sorrow to the wives who gave their husbands and to the mothers who gave their sons to bring peace and safety to all nations."

Expressing in the name of the division his appreciation of the reception New York had accorded the 77th, General Alexander told of the great pride he felt in commanding the New York contingent.

"It was my good fortune on Christmas Day to tell the President of the United States how extremely proud I was of my division," General Alexander said. "Every man in it was fired with the ennobling principles of Americanism, and it was this spirit which pushed the division through a fortress deemed impregnable by military experts. For twenty days of battle your division arose from its bed in the mud and attacked. They paid heavily the price of these attacks, but they played the game and won their objectives. The men never asked relief and their record is one of which we all are proud.

"The Commander in Chief insisted that the men should be safeguarded, not only in battle but in camps and billets. We had great assistance in this work from the welfare organizations, and the men have come home sane in mind and clean in body. Keep them so."

GIVE BALL FOR THE 77TH.

2,500 Returned Soldiers Attend Dance at Hotel Astor.

Men of the 77th Division were guests of honor at the Hotel Astor last night at the first real American dance they have attended since they sailed for France a year ago. About 2,500 or 3,000 soldiers, wearing the Statue of Liberty insignia on their left shoulders, crowded into the ballrooms on three floors of the hotels, and officers and men mingled in a manner that A. E. F. regulations designed for fighting discipline would never have permitted, and danced or promenaded the halls with some two or three thousand young women of New York come to do honor to the city's own division.

Mayor Hylan was present part of the time, as was the division's commander, Major Gen. Robert Alexander. The Mayor, in a brief speech, welcomed the men and told them how proud the city was of the division.

The 77th came to New York yesterday afternoon and marched directly to the armories assigned to the units as billets during the parade. Following is a list of the assignments made:

When the regiments reached their resting places, the order was given to unsling equipment, after which the men were told that all who wished might have passes for the night. They will assemble this morning at 7 o'clock.

Virtually every man who could do so took advantage of the permission to go home, with the result that except for the guard there were few doughboys to be found at the armories. On the other hand, the homes, theatres, and restaurants swarmed with members of the division.

It was a gay scene at the Hotel Astor where the hob-nailed shoe of the enlisted man, the heavy boot of the officer, and the light dancing slippers of the girls beat rhythmic accompaniment to the music of several orchestras. The contrast to other scenes in the recent history of the division was so great that many of the men could do little more than sit up and wonder if it was all a dream.

"The last time I danced was in France," said one buck private of an infantry organization, as he carefully balanced a plate of multi-colored ice-cream, another plate of chicken salad, sandwiches and a glass of fruit punch on his knee, while he reached a trifle gingerly for some cakes. "We were in a 'Y' hut near Le Mans while waiting for orders to take us to Brest. The mud was something awful, but a bunch of us went to a dance. There were two 'Y' girls, and three Red Cross canteen workers, a couple of French girls and 'beaucoup' French kids.

"That was some dance. We kept the music going till 9:30 o'clock, the men dancing with each other when they couldn't find a place in the crowd that was following the girls to get a dance with them. I danced about a tenth of one dance with one of the 'Y' girls. The rest of the time I danced with a little French girl about 6 years old, named Odette. We didn't have any eats except a bar of sweet chocolate apiece. I thought we had a good time, too, until the military police called time and we had to slop back through the mud to our barracks.

"You can believe me this is some different," he added as, his salad and ice cream disposed of, he rose to join the crowd on the floor.

The dance was given by the Mayor's Committee on Welcome, and it was in charge of Mrs. Nelson H. Henry. The patronesses were Mrs. Ned Arden Flood, Mrs. George Ethridge, Mrs. William Young, Miss Amy Sloane, Mrs. Ryle Strange, Mrs. Herbert Sierck, Miss Caroline Cortez, Mme. Louise Junod, Mrs. B. D. Lincoln, Mrs. Alfred Johnson, Mrs. E. C. Siecel, Mrs. George Gould, Mrs. Stanhope Nixon, Mrs. Harry Content, Mrs. Daniel Riordan, Mrs. Harry Hempstead, Miss Martha Cunningham, and Mrs. Martha Lloyd.

Mayor Hylan, who occupied one of the boxes, was cheered as he rose to welcome the soldiers and their partners.

"All formalities will be dispensed with," the Mayor said. "No soldier need have any hesitancy in asking any girl here to dance with him. That's what they are here for. Nor need any young lady have any hesitancy in accepting an offer from a soldier to dance; neither need she hesitate to ask any soldier she sees to dance with her, if she so desires. Let's assume it's leap year just for tonight."

The Mayor warned the young women not to worry about the soldier boots, saying their wearers were probably so used to them by now that they wouldn't seem out of place even at a dance.

"I am delighted to welcome you to the great city of New York," he continued. "I welcome, in the name of the city, every man of the 77th Division. New York has appreciated everything the valiant 77th has done for our country over there. We are proud of you boys, I can tell you that. We will be still prouder of you tomorrow on that greatest and most eventful of all days, when the 77th marches up Fifth Avenue."

Before the music could start again the Mayor rose to say something else.

"I notice some young men over there," there," he said, "who do not appear to have partners. I also see some young women on the other side of the room in the same fix. I'm coming down myself if that condition is not remedied. I'll make it my business to bring you young people together."

It was first planned to hold the dance at Madison Square Garden, but later the decision was changed. Invitations were sent to every man in the division, but the attractions of home proved too much for many of them. Nevertheless, enough attended to make the three ballrooms so crowded that they resembled a battalion mess line, as one soldier put it.

Major W. Earl Dodge, son of Cleveland H. Dodge, was Chairman of the floor committee of the dance. The boxes in the grand ballroom were all filled with members of the various regimental and division auxiliaries which have been busy at home while the men served abroad. The ballrooms were all decorated with American flags, and in the grand ballroom the Division Flag, with its gold statue of Liberty on a blue field, hung in the centre.

Tonight at the Waldorf Major Gen. Alexander and the officers of the division will be guests at a dinner given by the city. Invitations have been extended to prominent Federal, State and municipal officials. Mayor Hylan, Governor Smith, and possibly Secretary of War Baker will speak.

77TH MEN AT CAMP UPTON.

Schedule of Demobilizing Data for Friday and Saturday.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP UPTON, L. I., May 5.—Major Joseph Klapp Nichols, Camp Personnel Adjutant, announced today that 14,626 men and 366 officers of the 77th Division would come here on Wednesday for demobilization. They will be sent out from New York on nineteen trains, the first of which will arrive at 10:35 in the morning and the last at 8 o'clock at night. In addition to he troops who will come here on Wednesday, the 304th Machine Gun Battalion and several trains and detachments are expected later. The discharge of all of the 77th Division officers and men will be effected during Friday and Saturday.

> Camp Upton is divided into five districts, with a headquarters and telephone. The telephones are available only for incoming emergency calls, and not for direct conversation with officers or men of the visiting units.
>

ASKS JOBS FOR MEN OF 77TH.

Re-employment Bureau Makes Appeal for City's Soldiers.

The Re-employment Bureau for Soldiers, Sailors, and Marines, at 505 Pearl Street, sent out a call to employers yesterday for jobs for members of the 77th Division, soon to be mustered out of service. In the first five days the bureau has been in operation 3,020 places have been filled, but a large number of applications for positions is expected from the 77th Division next week. Director Smith said there was immediate need for more than 200 jobs for clerks, bookkeepers, salesmen, and general clerical work.

"The bureau hopes to roll up such an increased placement record next week that this start will seem small by comparison," said Mr. Smith. "The week's experience shows that New York City employers are heartily supporting New York's central re-employment bureau. Of the 1,129 men who have been to the bureau, nearly 900 have been referred to positions. More than 300 have reported back to the office that they obtained positions."

WILL PLACE ORDERS FOR NEW AIRPLANES

War Department Aims to Keep the Industry Alive and Help Develop Air Navigation.

TEN FLYING FIELDS CLOSED

Service Machines Now Stored There Will Be Removed to Fields That Are to be Retained.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Orders for new airplanes will be placed by the War Department to prevent complete collapse of the airplane manufacturing capacity built up during the war. The machines to be ordered will be of advanced types developed from war experience and designed by engineers working under conditions more favorable than those existing before the war.

Acting Secretary Crowell disclosed the department's plans in this respect today in explaining that it had been decided to abandon Barron, Call, Carruthers, Love, Rich, and Taliaferro Fields, Texas; Payne Field, Mississippi; Gerstner Field, Louisiana; Taylor Field, Alabama, and Eberts Field, Arkansas.

The ten fields to be abandoned are being used to store equipment, the Government having on hand more service machines than would be needed to supply any military establishment contemplated for peace time. This equipment is to be concentrated at fields to be retained, which already have been announced. The ten fields designated to be abandoned then will be turned over to any other Government department that might need them, or the buildings will be sold or salvaged.

Definite plans for the air service await action of Congress as to the military policy. Secretary Crowell said the department, however, was moving toward a broad constructive program, designed to cover not only military needs but also relations between the Government and civil enterprise for the promotion of air navigation. Officers recognize that the Government now virtually monopolizes the field and must take steps to share its information and equipment to this end.

One element of air flight development is in progress in Paris, where rules of the air, including standardization of signals, navigation marks, flying fields, and similar matters are being discussed by an international commission. The United States, Mr. Crowell said, will take an active part in this work.

WEATHER STILL HOLDS NEWFOUNDLAND FLIERS

Special to The New York Times.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 5.—Ships having once again forsaken the North Atlantic track on account of stormy weather but few reports from the mid-Atlantic as to atmospheric conditions reached here today. Wireless from two ships off the track, however, advised that the area of depression is again moving northeast on to the course to be followed in the transatlantic flight. Rain, low visibility, and unfavorable winds here led the Martinsyde and Sopwith fliers to decide not to attempt a start, especially in view of the doubt as to conditions further out.

Raynham, the Martinsyde pilot, continued his search for a new airdrome, and Hawker, the Sopwith pilot, likewise is contemplating a move, as boh men are anxious to be able to start in any local wind when the Atlantic conditions are favorable. Both men will probably retain their present fields even if they choose new ones, Raynham especially having an ideal location at present.

Hawker last night tested his instruments for the first time in the darkness, and found the illumination satisfactory.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., May 5.—Another British team has entered The London Daily Mail's $50,000 transatlantic prize competition. Word was received today that Captain Alcock, pilot, and Lieutenant Brown, navigator, are on the steamship Mauretania, having left Liverpool on May 3, and that their machine, a Vimy-Rolls bomber plane, will follow soon on another vessel.

Word was also received today that the Handley-Page machine, another contestant, and its crew have left Liverpool on the steamship Digby for St. John's, the final destination being Harbor Grace, where the start is to be made. The Digby is due here May 11.

LONDON, May 5.—Captain J. Alcock today entered his machine with the Royal Aero Club for the transatlantic flight for the $50,000 prize of The London Daily Mail. Captain Alcock did much flying before the war, and won the distinguished Service Cross for carrying out long-distance bombing raids in the Mediterranean, including one against Constantinople. He will fly a Vimy-Rolls two-engine airplane. His navigator will be Lieutenant Arthur Whitten Brown, who was born in Glasgow, but whose parents were American.

NAVY FLIERS START TODAY FOR HALIFAX

NC-1 Crew 3.—Lieut. Commander P. N. L. Bellinger of Chehaw, S. C.; pilot, Lieut. Commander M. A. Mitscher of Oklahoma City; pilot, Lieutenant J. T. Barin of Portland, Ore.; radio operator, Lieutenant J. E. H. Fadenwater of Brooklyn; engineer, Chief Machinist's Mate C. I. Kesler of Eaton, Ohio; reserve pilot, Engineer Machinist Rasmus Christensen of New York City.

The reserve pilot engineers will only accompany the seaplanes as far as Newfoundland.

The accident which resulted in the death of Ensign Adams and Chief Machinist's Mate Corey occurred at 4:08, just eight minutes after the machine which Adams was piloting went into the air. The accident was witnessed by several hundred persons, including most of the officers and enlisted personnel of the station. Adams was considered one of the crack aviators of the naval service, and had just completed what is known as a "high bank figure 8," when the machine went into spiral nose dive and crashed, nose on, into the huge hydrogen tank which is used to inflate the naval dirigibles on Rockaway Beach. The machine was completely wrecked, and Adams and Corey frightfully mangled. To add to the horror of the accident the machine caught fire, but the quick work of the enlisted men at the station quenched the blaze within less than five minutees. So completely wrecked was the machine that it was some time before the bodies could be taken from the débris. The aid station surgeons said that in both instances death had been instantaneous.

The machine was less than 200 feet in the air when it went into the fatal spiral nose dive. A moment before it appeared to be under perfect control and the whirr of the propellor indicated that the motor was in perfect working order. Some of the naval airmen think that had the machine been at a greater altitude it might have been possible for Adams to have righted it, but as the tank into which it crashed is 75 feet high this meant that the aviator had a margin of not more than 125 or 150 feet in which to regain mastery of his machine. The hydrogen tank was about half full, which placed the sliding top which descends with the release of the hydrogen at a point about midway between the ground and the top of the big steel recepticle. The HS-1 crashed into the hollow space.

Immediately after the machine struck the metal top of the tank the gasoline in the tank of the seaplane took fire. Regardless of the danger and hoping that they might be able to rescue the aviators the officers and men who had witnessed the accident rushed to the tank, and with buckets managed to extinguish the fire just as the apparatus of the station fire department arrived. The mangled and burned bodies of Adams and Corey were covered with new white canvas and taken to the air station hospital. A board of officers is now complying with the naval regulation which makes mandatory an immediate investigation in the case of alll accidents to either personnel or material.

Ensign Adams was 30 years of age, and Machinist Corey, who was known to his comrades of the Air Service as "Top" Corey, was 22 years of age. They were among the most popular men at the Rockaway Beach station. Adams, whose home was at 216 Goodrich Street, Pittsburgh, entered the service in July, 1917, while Corey enlisted in April, 1917.

The fire, which for a time threatened to postpone indefinitely the American attempt to fly across the Atlantic, took place at 2:10 o'clock yesterday morning, and was due to an accidental explosion of gasoline. That the fire was extinguished in a few minutes and before irreparable damage had been done, was due to the alertness and quick work of the naval personnel. As it was, the two right wings of the NC-1 were badly damaged, and the elevating planes of the NC-3 were burned. The NC-4, which was not in the "overseas" hangar at the time, was for that reason undamaged.

There were about thirty men at work in the hangar at the time. They had been working all night making ready for yesterday's final tests. Three men were pouring gasoline into the tanks of the NC-1 when suddenly, and without apparent cause, the gasoline caught fire. No one was smoking, and it is the accepted theory that a spark, due, in the opinion of officers, to crossed electric wires, fell on top of the tank, igniting the gasoline. There was an explosion, and a moment later the gasoline, which had been spilled to the concrete floor, was ablaze. There was a large supply of sand near by, for use in just such emergencies, and within a minute or two the flames had been smothered, but not before damaging the two machines.

"The fire," said Commander Towers yesterday morning, "was purely accidental, and we were able to master the situation before it was too late. We shall be ready, with the possible exception of the NC-1, to get away on schedule time tomorrow morning."

Commander Towers added that the damage from the fire was $12,000 to $15,000. The NC-3 was repaired by 6 o'clock last night. The upper and lower right wings on the NC-1 are being replaced by two wings which the machine had on before a recent accident.

"Only the very excellent work of the men at the station and in the hangar," said Commander Towers, "prevented the entire station from being burned."

A strong wind was blowing at the time of the fire, and if the flames had caught on the hangar they would have spread quickly.

Immediately following the fire Commander Towers apponited a board to investigate the circumstances attending the blaze. The members of this board are Lieut. Commanders Read, R. E. Byrd, and R. A. Lavender. They completed their investigation yesterday and submitted their report to Commander Towers. The report was not made public. It is said that the board found that the fire was due to a spark from a motor which provides the power used to pump gasoline into the tanks of the seaplanes.

The previous accident to the NC-1 occurred a few weeks ago, when the seaplane was dragged from its mooring during a storm and driven against a pierhead near the station. On that occasion the left wings of the machine were damaged. Sunday afternoon the machine was in flight for a considerable period and was then in perfect working order.

Early yesterday morning one of the service automobiles in the Air Station caught fire, this being a fourth accident that marked the naval "Blue Sunday." This fire also threatened to do much damage, but alert bluejackets conquered it in time.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—An official report from Commander Towers to the Navy Department on the fire at the Rockaway Beach Air Station today said that the NC-1 could not leave for the north tomorrow, but that the NC-3 and NC-4 would get away on schedule. The NC-1, Commander Towers said, would follow as soon as repairs could be made, the time for which was estimated at forty-eight hours.

DESTROYERS OFF FOR POSTS.

Leave Trepassey to Patrol Flight Route to the Azores.

TRESPASSEY, N. F., May 5.—The navy today began laying its chain of destroyers for the intercontinental flight. At dusk six destroyers which arrived here yesterday for supplies crept through the thin neck of Trepassey Harbor bound for their stations on the course to the Azores. The destroyer Roper, the seventh craft, was delayed in refueling and will leave at daybreak tomorrow.

More guardships passed into the bay today, the Meredith, Bush, Cowell, Maddox, Rogers, and Foote coming from New York.

On receipt of orders by wireless from Commander John H. Towers at Rockaway Point, commanding the flight, moorings here for the planes were moved from the northwest arm of the harbor, once a pirate's cove, to its head, which is better protected and has a longer "take off." Aviation officers also have discovered two miles from Trepassey, in the direction of Cape Race, a smooth stretch where the planes can be beached better than on the steep, stony shores of the harbor.

SUBWAY BLOCKED IN EARLY RUSH HOUR

SURFACE LINES CONGESTED

A few minutes before 7 o'clock yesterday morning, when many thousands of Brooklynites were hurriedly preparing to get to this borough, the centre car of an empty train of the Interborough system, in traveling on the crossover at the Atlantic Avenue terminal, left the track. The power was shut off, word was flashed to the offices of the company, and wrecking crews were sent out.

A train arriving on the tracks of the Long Island Railroad had just deposited a load of passengers, trolley cars running to the terminal kept unloading other men and women, and a crowd soon gathered that jammed all of the nearby streets and choked the station to the suffocation point. Then there was a rush for the surface cars and all of them coming toward Manhattan were soon crowded to the danger point.

Every other sort of conveyance was demanded and the streets were thronged with autos and carriages, which started with loads of passengers to the bridges. Many, without means to pay more than 5 cents for a ride, and despairing of ever being able to fight their way on the surface cars, started to walk, so that long streams of anxious looking men and women were flocking along the streets.

The Brooklyn Rapid Transit system sent out word of the accident and warned the public that no subways were operating to Manhattan. Every effort was made to put enough surface cars into operation to transport the people. Forty-three minutes after the accident the subway trains were again operating, but no notice of this was given to the conductors of the surface cars, who continued to tell the people that there was no Rapid Transit service. This tended to lengthen the congested condition for half an hour longer after the subway trains with parctically empty cars were running as usual. Nobody was hurt and there was no disorder involving injury.

It was explained at the office of the Interborough Company that the centre car of a Lexington Avenue train had jumped the track during the switching process, and that service was suspended much longer than would have ordinarily occurred because of some trouble with the circuit breakers.

Another accident occurred last night in the Brooklyn subway just as an Interborough train was leaving the Hoyt Street station. There was trouble with the current for twenty minutes, and during this time the ticket agents continued to sell tickets, with the result that many of the stations became dangerously crowded. The excitement and the heat caused several women to faint. Beyond this there was no damage.

Receivers for Motor Car Company.

Federal Judge Manton yesterday appointed Marcus Helfand and E. Bright Wilson receivers of the Campbell Motor Car Company. The appointment followed the filing of an equity suit by Abel Smith, a stockholder, against the company. The complaint alleged that the company was a Delaware corporation, that its capital stock was $1,906,296, and that the expectations of the company to reap large profits from the sale of from 16,000 to 18,000 cars a year had gone glimmering because it was not possible to obtain materials to carry on the business. It is also alleged that the debts of the company amount to about $60,000 and all are pressing. Mr. Smith owns 166 of the shares of the company's stock.

OF BUFFALO

It is with great satisfaction and pleasure that The Marine Trust Company of Buffalo welcomes the returning heroes who responded to the call of our country at its most critical time, and assures those who left the employ of the Marine National Bank and the Bankers Trust Company either to enlist or who were drafted, that the position they then occupied or one equally as good or better, with an increase in wages over what they were receiving, awaits them in The Marine Trust Company.

It is also a source of satisfaction to this Company to have continued on the payroll our employees who went into the Army and Navy, so that financially they have not suffered.

We rejoice that of the fifty-two men who left the employ of the two institutions, not one has lost his life during hostilities, but many have distinguished themselves upon the field of battle.

AIR POLICE TO FLY TO ATLANTIC CITY

PLANE STRIKES MOTOR CAR

Three Occupants of Flying Machine Miraculously Escape Inquary—Marathon to Cuba Planned.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 5.—New York's aerial police force has ben assigned to a new "beat." Tomorrow afternoon the sky policemen will take up the patrol of the official courses of the Atlantic City air port in a demonstration of their efficiency and practicability, immediately after their arrival from New York. The flying squadron is scheduled to leave Field No. 1, 135th Street and North River, at 10:12 o'clock in the morning, and the first machine is expected to "dock" at the air port by noon.

Colonel Jefferson Demont Thompson, chief of the New York air force, flew down today as pathfinder for the trip. He will wing out from the air port at 10:30 o'clock to met his detail and escort them to the landing places at Chelsea Heights. Major Herbert Mapes and Major Granville A. Pollock, deputy chief and wing commander of the cloud patrol, have been here since the opening of the Congress, and have laid out the "beats" to which the air police will be assigned.

Mayor Peters of Boston, in a message, announced that he would send a police official to see the demonstration, and similar advices have been received from Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, Mass.; Mayor Watt of Albany, Mayor Smith of Philadelphia, and others.

One of the interesting features of "police day" will be the operation of the wireless telephone from the commander of the force on the ground, transmitting orders directly to the commanders of the details. The machines have been equipped with apparatus for the stunt, and with proper weather conditions the demonstration will be given while the squadron is in full wing.

Fliers Have Close Call.

Crashing into a large touring car while ascending in their airplane, Dr. E. L. Allan of New York, John P. Davies of Buffalo, and Sid Chaplin, brother of Charlie Chaplin, miraculously escaped uninjured today.

The accident occurred at the air port. Dr. Allan, who has a record of 2,800 hours in the air and has flown probably more than any other sportsman, had planned to take Davies and Chaplin back to New York. They were taken to the field in the automobile of Earle L. Ovington of Atlantic City.

Ovington parked the car in the tall grass near the field. As Dr. Allan, with his passengers, started to rise, he headed into the wind, and, unaware of the presence of the automobile, half hidden by the grasss, pointed the nose of the airplane directly at it. It was skimming along when Ovington and other bystanders suddenly realized the peril of those aboard.

Dr. Allan was seated in the back of the machine, and could not see the car. The others, who were in front, suddenly saw it, and signaled frantically to rise. They were too late. The aircraft struck the motor car and came to a stop. There was a rush to the airplane, but the occupants smilingly stepped out, unhurt. The airplane was only slightly damaged. The automobile was demolished.

Planning Flight to Cuba.

Contests for the aerial marathons, for which several leading newspapers have offered prizes, promise to develop as the result of the interest taken in the exposition by President Menocal of Cuba. A flight from Atlantic City to Havana is being arranged by Victor Hugo Barranco, personal representative of President Menocal, with offices in New York, who went to Washington today to confer with the Cuban Minister. He expects to announce the details upon his return Wednesday.

He has cabled President Menocal for permission to stage the flight. Señor Barranco expects to use a land plane for his flight because of its speed. By direct line the distance from here to Havana is 1,000 miles, with the longest compulsory water course 91 miles, between Havana and Key West. Seaplanes in operation over this waterway make the flight daily in thirty-five minutes, and this could be cut down at least ten minutes with a high powered airplane such as is proposed.

Delegates and hundreds of enthusiastic air fans tonight heard the first personal accounts of international "aces" of their experiences overseas in an "ace night" staged on the Steel Pier, with pictures illustrating official work at the front.

Lieutenant Edgar Garland of the Royal British Air Force recounted twelve different escapes he had made from German prison camps. He told of digging from the prison at Holsminden a passage more than 300 feet long and 18 feet below ground, through which twenty-nine officers escaped when the prisoners drew lots. Lieutent Garland drew No. 30, and when he was half way through the top of the tunnel caved in ahead of him as the result of the concussion from a big gun in action some distance away.

Airman Trapped by Cave-In.

The tunnel behind him became choked as other officers crawled toward him, unaware of the obstruction. Lieutenant Drew told of the trying minutes that followed, as the men piled in until word could be relayed back along the line The men in front were nearly suffocated before those behind understood the situation and crawled backward. Lieutenant Garland was in New Zealand when the war started and was the first man from the islands to qualify for the air.

Major Pollock of the New York Police Air Force described operations of "aces" on the Foch fighting fronts, relating scenes and incidents of the Lafayette Escadrille, with which he served.

The Aerial League of America announced plans for national and international aerial efficiency shooting competitions, following a meeting of "aces," aeronautical authorities, and prepresehtatives of nine different countries. The league put up two perpetual trophies, to be known as the Internatitonal Aerial Shooting Trophy and the National Aerial Shooting Trophy.

In these contests the gunner will ascend in an airplane and occupy the position of the observer. The gun will be mounted on the top of the plane, so that the gunner can fire upward and sideward, but not downward. Ten small free balloons, painted like birds, will be released. The best time made in bringing them down will establish the championship.

The contest for the national trophy will be by elimination competition. The winners of the national event, which will take place at the Atlantic City Airport July 4, will represent America in the competitions scheduled for September at this place.

POST REPLIES TO BURLESON

DeniesLow Periodical Postage Rates Are a Subsidy to Publishers.

Charles Johnson Post, Director of the Publishers' Advisory Board, issued a statement yesterday replying to the statement of Postmaster General Burleson that "in spite of a $72,000,000 a year subsidy" the newspapers and periodicals at present rates do not pay the cost of their postal service. Mr. Post said in part:

"The figures quoted by Mr. Burlesen were computed eleven years ago, in 1907, and condemned as entirely valueless by the first U. S. Postal Commission that investigated them—and these same discredited 'accountings' were recently admitted by Mr. Burleson to be the most recent and reliable he has!

"Mr. Burleson says that low postage on publications is a 'subsidy' to publishers. This is most emphatically not true. It is an economic absurdity; for low postage is a direct benefit or 'subsidy' to the reader of newspapers and periodicals—for ine postage is charged by the publisher to the reader. Low postage charges on publications are no more a subsidy to publishers than is a low freight charge on wheat a subsidy to farmers, or than is the money spent on public highways a subsidy to vehicle owners. Mr. Burleson's repeated use of the word 'subsidy' to describe low postage on newspapers and periodicals reveals him as ignorant of postal history and the basic postal principles which he is charged with administering."

PROTEST BURLESON CUT.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 5.—Condemning Postmaster General Burleson's scheduled cut in rural free delivery routes, the Executive Committee of the New York State Grange, in a meeting here tonight, demanded on behalf of 121,000 Grange members that the order be rescinded at once.

The resolution adopted by the committee said:

"We resent the purported interview whereby the Postmaster General is said to have stated: 'It makes no difference to the farmer what time he gets his mail.' It does make a difference, and a vast difference, for he wants the weather predictions, the price current, and general knowledge of his business, which can be secured only by an early and adequate mail service."

An offer to "go to Washington to state these matters, if necessary," was signed by Ira Sharp, Chairman; Edwin Knickerbocker, B. C. Williams, S. J. Lowell, and W. N. Giles.

INDIAN DRESS FOR MUSEUM.

Costume of Chief White-Eagle, Who Died in France, Now Displayed.

The American Museum of Natural History has recently received as a bequest the complete Indian dress costume of Chief Don White-Eagle, a Cheyenne Indian who died in France while serving as a soldier in the United States Army.

Chief White-Eagle, who was 29 years old, served with the infantry forces. He was one of four brothers fighting in France. In addition to making a name for himself as a skilled sharpshooter, he was commended by his General for bravery under fire. He died on Oct: 21, 1918, of pneumonia contracted in the trenches.

On entering the army White-Eagle left his native costume in the care of Mrs. Anna Sargeant of Jersey City, with the request that if he did not return it be given to the American Museum. It is now being displayed in Memorial Hall at the American Museum. It has been installed beside the museum's military honor roll. Later it will take its permanent place among the museum's great collections of Indian material.

HONOR RAINBOW OFFICERS.

Iowa Society Entertains Commissioned Men of Western Regiment.

The officers of the 168th Infantry Regiment of the Rainbow Division, formerly the Third Regiment of the Iowa National Guard, were the guests last night at dinner of the Iowa Society of New York at the Hotel Plaza. Governor Harding of Iowa, who was to have been present, was called away yesterday. The speakers included Colonel Matthew Tinley, commander of the regiment, of Council Bluffs; George E. Roberts of the National City Bank, formerly of Ft. Dodge, and Brig. General Harry E. Wilkins. The Chairman was J. B. Sullivan, President of the Board of United States General Appraisers.

The Iowa Regiment, it was said, participated in every big contest from March, 1918, to the signing of the armistice and suffered 1,450 casualties. The regiment has a historic record. As the old 3d Iowa Regiment it fought in the Philippines and went to the Mexican border also. The regiment is at Camp Upton and expects to leave for Iowa in about a week.

Among those present were Majors Lloyd D. Ross, Glenn C. Haynes, and Charles C. Casey; Captains Ereney W. Johnson, Homer Davis, Frank P. Younkin, William M. Nead, Jireh Swift 3d, Earl M. Sefton, William B. Weatherill, James Cotter, Albert K. Lucas, and Glade F. Bradley.

WOMEN AID SALVATIONISTS.

Committee Organized for Work in $13,000,000 Campaign.

A number of women met yesterday at the National Campaign Headquarters of the Salvation Army at 680 Fifth Avenue and organized the Women's Section of the Greater New York Committee of the Home Service Fund Drive. The committee, of which Mrs. Frank Gray Griswold is Chairman, was organized to aid in raising $1,500,000 of the $13,000,000 to be gathered throughout the United States during the week beginning May 19. After the meeting Mrs. Griswold said:

"What the women of New York admire most in the Salvation Army, since they have come to know it, is its care for the individual. It has a personal message for every man, woman, and child with which it comes in contact. The Salvation Army is composed of real people, who appeal to human beings just as they are. It takes conditions as it finds them and does its utmost to better them."

LUDENDORFF STORY OF GAMBLE IN WAR

Letters Show Denial That He Wanted to Stake All on One Card.

SAID LUCK PLAYED A PART

General's Stand in Conference on Oct. 1, 1918, Told in Correspondence.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Further details of the controversy between General von Ludendorff, former Quartermaster General of the German Army, and Chancellor Scheidemann, developed by Scheidemann's criticism of Ludendorff's handling of the army, were disclosed in the text of correspondence between them which reached Washington today through official channels.

Scheidemann pictured Ludendorff as an adventurer and criticised him for having staked everything on one card in the closing days of the war. In a series of communications to the Chancellor Ludendorff endeavored to defend himself.

The first letter, dated Feb. 28 last, from Ludendorff to Scheidemann, read:

"On my return to Germany I have learned details of your Excellency's remarks about me, and your exchange of letters with von Hindenburg.

"Your Excellency has termed an adventurer a man who stakes all on one card without considering the consequences that a failure of this card may entail.

"I must strongly protest against this suggestion. My decisions have always been based on careful consideration. Certainly I have taken great risks, but in a war, which Germany and her allies were forced to wage against a strong preponderance of force, it was unfortunately impossible to do otherwise. It lay in the nature of this war, and is not sufficient to place a man in the pillory.

Says Meaning Was Distorted.

"In confirmation of your view, your Excellency stated that there was documentary evidence that actually, on Oct. 1, 1918, I declared, 'I seem to be a gambler.' To that I must reply. I explained at the time to representatives of the Government our military situation, which caused me to request the Administration to initiate negotiations for an armistice and peace. In this connection I said: 'I should appear to be a gambler, if I did not press for an ending of the war.' I may even have said 'I appear to be a gambler.' For that reason I urge the commencement of negotiations.

"In any case, the clear meaning of my words always was: I do not want to be a gambler, or place everything on one card; my views as a soldier are too serious for that.

"It was not my intention to come forward just now. I have been silent in the face of attacks and insults. I should even now have kept silence, but your Excellency's monstrous reproach, that I have played like a gambler with the fate of the German people intrusted to me, forces me to defend myself.

"I must ask you, Sir, at the first opportunity to formulate clearly your statement about me. But in regard to this matter, I request your Excellency, as soon as the Government considers the moment to have arrived, to give me the opportunity to answer before a State tribunal for my desires and action."

Scheidemann answered as follows:

"In reply to your letter, I must return to the subject later on. For a provisional answer I refer to the inclosed publication circulated by the W. T. B. A final picture of your Excellency's attitude on the armistice question will appear from the documents that the imperial Government will publish shortly, and which will comprise the contents of the documents of October-November, 1918.

"Your Excellency's desire to answer before a State tribunal for your desires and actions can be satisfied only when the final Constitution and the State tribunal provided for by it is passed."

Found Army Lacked Support.

To this Ludendorff sent the following reply:

"Your answer does not satisfy me. It is not a question solely of my attitude in the armistice question, but also of the grievous reproach that I have carried on the war like an unscrupulous gambler.

"To my protest you have no reply to make. You pass over the fact that you have distored my remarks about the 'gambler.'

"In your 'provisional' answer, the W. T. B. publication of March 4, there is mention of an 'avowal' on my part, although you, like all the authorities, knew that I always admitted, indeed—for the explanation of my action I laid special stress on the fact—that from August, 1918, I advocated the ending of the war, which, moreover, I desired all the time, and to which I was driven by the recognition that, in spite of my years of conflict with Berlin, the army at the front did not receive from home the support of which it was in need, but that it was even undermined. It is, therefore, misleading to speak of an 'avowal.'

"Regarding the three stages in the history of the armistice offer as set out in the official exposition, I have the following comments to make:

"1. I urged the immediate publication of the peace offer only when I was forced to recognize that the period allotted to me was not being kept. Reasons: The situation might become worse; but the worse the situation, so much the harder must be the terms. And when, after a severe struggle, I had forced myself to the conviction that the will to destruction of the enemy was not to be broken, and an ending of the war not to be achieved in any other way, further hesitation required justification. The blood that was flowing at the front weighed heavier than all the petty difficulties which brought about the formation of the new government.

"The telegrams from legation councillors Grunan and Lersner prove nothing to the contrary; but I might very well expect that the memorial should contain not merely statements by Government officials, which were not laid before me prior to your departure, but particularly the direct communication of the supreme army command to the Imperial Government; that is, my memoranda of Sept. 29 at Spa, the proposal of Major Freiherr von dem Bussche of Oct. 2 and the opinion of Marshal von Hindenburg on Oct. 3. All show clearly that I never demanded capitulation or peace at any price. It turns on that alone.

Told of Luck as War Element.

"2. As you attended the Cabinet meeting of Oct. 17, you must know that I neither gave the opinion that the German front was holding better than I anticipated a fortnight earlier, nor made the statement that I relied for the prosecution of the war more on my luck as a soldier than on the reserves of men. Rather to a number of questions put to me I replied as follows:

Before this a number of questions have been addressed to me, which it is quite impossible to answer definitely. War is not an arithmetical sum. There are in war a number of probabilities, but nobody knows what will be the final result.

When in August, 1914, we came to East Prussia, and with the help of my loyal colleague, Hoffmann, orders were given out for the battle of Tannenburg, it was not known how things would go, and whether Rennenkampf would retreat or not. He did not retreat, and the battle was won.

The luck of a soldier is part and parcel of war. Perhaps Germany may once again have such luck. I can only state my conviction. The responsibility for what I say I bear, and have borne for four long, weary years.

"Finally, it must have been well known to you that on Oct. 17 I did not demand the breaking off of negotiations, but, on the contrary, said quite clearly: 'Do not break with Wilson. We must open negotiations if it is in any way possible. But no terms that would render us defenseless. No abandonment of the submarine campaign.'

Wanted U-Boat War Kept Up.

"May I remind you that the Secretary of State, Haussmann; the Minister President, Friedberg, and the Vice Chancellor, von Payer, spoke to the same effect as I did regarding the reply to the note and the necessity of continuing the struggle in the event of severe terms; that I was able to reply to Herr von Payer: 'The Vice Chancellor has guessed my innermost thoughts.'

"And may the German people learn how it happened that, in spite of these declarations by the representatives of the people and in spite of the strong disapproval of Admiral Scheer and myself, the submarine campaign was abandoned and the road trodden to capitulation. At this date I was no longer First Q. M. G.

"I recapitulate. The request for an armistice was bitter, but still more so its signature. Between request and signature lies the most bitter, viz., the fact that the Government abandoned the road proposed by us and proclaimed in Prince Max's Reichstag speech of Oct. 5 and in spite of my protest took that of capitulation, bankruptcy, and peace at any price.

"With this explanation the matter is provisionally solved for me. On a justification of your statements I place no further weight. I might have expected that I should have been answered, not by Scheidemann, the party leader, but by the President of the German Imperial Ministry. I see myself deceived in this expectation, and must term your provisional answer distorting and misleading."

ORTHODOX RABBIS MEET.

Give Praise for Allied Victory and Lay Plans for Jewish Relief.

Orthodox rabbis from many parts of this country and Canada met at the Broadway Central Hotel yesterday for the sixteenth annual convention of the Union of Orthodox Rabbis. The program for the coming year as outlined by the President, Rabbi M. Z. Margolies of this city, will include the seeking of funds for the Central Committee for the Relief of Jews Suffering from the War, with which the Union co-operates, and raising money to aid orthodox schools in Europe.

In the prayer of Rabbi Margolies which opened the convention he thanked God for the victory of the Allies and told of the pride of the orthodox Jews in the part America played in the victory.

The rabbis present then adopted resolutions protesting against the massacres of Jews in Rumania, Poland and Pinsk. The Resolution Committee, of which the Rev. Dr. S. Schaffer of Baltimore is Chairman, drew up the protest and will send it to President Wilson.

FIND BABY ALONE IN HOTEL.

Police Believe That the Mother Is Victim of an Accident.

The police are searching for the mother of a baby girl about three weeks old, that was found in a room in the Rutledge Hotel, 163 Lexington Avenue, on Sunday, and was taken to Bellevue Hospital early yesterday morning. The child was brought to the hotel on Saturday by a woman about 26 years old, who registered as Mrs. J. B. Sullivan of Baltimore. She told the clerk that she wanted a room for a few days. The woman told one of the hotel guests that she was awaiting the arrival of her husband, a soldier.

The child was heard crying on Sunday, and it was discovered that the mother had gone out. One of the guests said that she would care for the child until the mother returned. When she had not returned yesterday morning, the baby was taken to Bellevue Hospital by the police. The mother of the child was 5 feet 8 inches in height, with light hair and blue eyes, and was dressed entirely in black. The police believe that the mother is the victim of an accident.

To Dine District Leaders.

The Woman's Suffrage Party of Brooklyn will give a dinner at the Brooklyn Academy of Music on Thursday evening, May 15, in honor of the district leaders of the Republican and Democratic parties. Mrs. H. Edward Dreier will open the after-dinner program by presenting Miss Mary Garrett Hay, who will speak and preside. The other speakers will be ex-Ambassador Gerard, Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, ex-Congressman Frederick E. Tanner, Commissioner of Elections Jacob Livingston, and John H. McCooey. Many district leaders have accepted invitations to be present.

JUSTICE J. B. MAYO RUN DOWN BY WAGON

MAGISTRATE McADOO HURT

Struck by Motor Car on Staten Island—Will Be Confined in Home for a Month.

Justice John B. Mayo of the Children's Court was struck by a wagon while he was crossing Seventy-third Street at Amsterdam Avenue yesterday, suffering concussion of the brain and bruises. A short time after Justice Mayo's accident occurred it became known that Chief Magistrate McAdoo was run down by an automobile on Staten Island Saturday and would be confined to his home for at least a month.

Justice Mayo was out for his daily walk and was just stepping from the curb when the wagon, owned by Gristede Brothers, grocers at 469 Amsterdam Avenue, and driven by Thomas Farragno, turned into the street. Before the driver could rein in Justice Mayo had been struck. He was treated by Dr. H. Gardner of 47 West Seventy-fourth Street and then taken to a private hospital at 156 West Seventy-fourth Street, where last night it was said he was resting comfortably. Justice Mayo refused to make a complaint against Farragno and he was released. Justice Mayo lives at 216 West 100th Street and is 60 years old.

Information on the accident to the Chief Magistrate was obtained from Robert E. Broderick, his secretary, as Mr. McAdoo is confined to his home, 58 West Forty-seventh Street. According to Mr. Broderick, Magistrate McAdoo was crossing Moose's Head Bridge, not far from Port Richmond, when he was hailed by a man in an automobile truck who asked if the road led into Port Richmond. Not hearing the query distinctly, Magistrate McAdoo stepped from the sidewalk, went close to the truck, and, having given the desired information, was turning back, when he stepped in front of an automobile operated by a young man who was accompanied by two women.

Mr. McAdoo was struck on the right shoulder and thigh and was thrown on the sidewalk. The rear of the machine then passed over his left leg, badly crushing the foot. Magistrate McAdoo was carried in the machine to the home of Robert Brown, 121 Heberton Avenue, Port Richmond, who is a clerk of Special Sessions.

After resting a while Mr. McAdoo, refusing medical attention, insisted upon walking to the ferry and on to his home. When he reached his doorstep he collapsed, and Dr. Fellowes Davis of 424 Park Avenue was called. Dr. Davis found the injured foot badly swollen, but until an X-ray is made will be unable to say whether any small bones of the foot have been broken.

During the month he is expected to be away Magistrate Frederick B. House will reside over routine duties, no temporary designation for Chief Magistrate being contemplated.

UPHOLDS VERDICT FOR BOY.

Subway Train Severed Arm of a Newsdealer's Employe.

Supreme Court Justice Philbin denied yesterday an application to set aside as excessive a verdict for $20,000 obtained by Albert Verdini, a boy employed by a newsdealer at the Wall Street subway station, because he was pushed off the platform by a crowd on Feb. 15, 1917, and had his arm cut off by a train.

The Interborough contended that the verdict was excessive and that the boy was not a passenger but a trespasser on the station. The court found that since the news stand was permitted on condition that the dealer would sell subway tickets and the boy was injured when he was taking a supply of tickets to his employer, he was entitled to recover.

SUSTAINS BURLESON ACTION

Court Upholds Excluding of Berger's Paper from the Mails.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The action of Postmaster General Burleson in excluding from the mails certain copies of The Milwaukee Leader, of which Victor Berger was editor, was sustained today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals, which denied an application for a writ of mandamus.

The court held that the publications contained articles "printed in the spirit of hostility to our Government and in a spirit of sympathy for the Central Powers," and that the publishers sought to "hinder and embarrass the Government in the prosecution of the war."

The opinion, prepared by Justice Robb, expressed doubt that the Postmaster General had the authority to issue a "blanket" order refusing the second-class mailing privilege to the publication in the future, saying the statute contained no express grant of such authority.

THREATEN READING TIEUP.

Unions, Resenting May Day Discharges, May Boycott Soldiers' Welcome.

READING, Penn., May 5.—The next forty-eight hours will determine the outcome of threats of a general industrial tie-up in this city, as a result of the Carpenter Steel Company's discharge of 850 men following their remaining away from work to parade on May Day. The plant was picketed today and efforts are being made to call out every workman remaining of the 1,800 employed there.

The Federated Trades Council is canvassing all other unions today to determine the advisability of calling a general sympathy strike. The Musicians' and Typographical Unions have decided to boycott the International League Baseball Club games here, because General Superintendent E. J. Poole of the Carpenter Steel is a Director of the club and one of its backers. All the unions in the city may be asked to remain out of the welcome home parade to Reading's soldiers in the Rainbow Division because Poole is Chairman of the Reception Committee.

600 WEAVERS STRIKE

Ask North Adams Mills for Higher Pay and Shorter Hours.

NORTH ADAMS, Mass., May 5.—About 600 employes of the North Adams Manufacturing Company, Blackinton Company, and Hoosic Worsted Mills struck today for a forty-eight-hour week with time and a half for overtime. The demands, presented by the Weavers' Union, had been ignored by the manufacturers. The strikers ask for fifty-two hours' pay for the forty-eight-hour week. The mills are now operating on a fifty-eight-hour basis.

The strikers issued a statement declaring that the manufacturers need fear no violence and that the employment of guards would be unnecessary. No picketing has been attempted.

BAKER LAUDS ARMY ON ARRIVAL HERE

Comes on George Washington and Says First Duty Is to Bring Soldiers Home.

SPEEDING UP TRANSPORTS

War Secretary Much Improved in Health by Trip—6,552 Troops Come Back with Him.

Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, returned from his third trip to the war zone in Europe on the naval transport George Washington yesterday afternoon after being away four weeks. He looked much improved in health, and said he had enjoyed his visit to France and the German territory occupied by the Allies. There were 6,552 troops on the George Washington, chiefly units of the 32d Division.

"The millionth American soldier to leave France," Secretary Baker said, "will arrive in the United States within a week. The main business of the army at present is getting the men home. The Army of Occupation has been reduced in size, and the rest of the troops are being rushed as rapidly as possible to the seacoast to await transports to bring them to America.

"The figure for April, I have been told, was 250,000. This month it will reach 275,000, and in June it will be increased to 300,000. It will stay at that figure until all are back.

"The transports are being turned around in Brest, St. Nazaire, Bordeaux and Havre with a rapidity never known before in the troop carrying business. They enter the harbor, take on enough coal, water and fresh supplies for the homeward trip, load up their complement of troops, and are steaming out again within a few hours.

"I spent the greater part of my time on land this trip," he continued, "with the Third Army on the Rhine. The army is in fine condition, and there has never been a better equipped or more efficient fighting force seen in Europe or any other part of the world. The equipment of officers and men is ideal. They have everything for an army that could be thought of and every suggestion that might better their condition has been considered. All the troops except the Third Army will be brought home as soon as possible.

Declares Brest an Ideal Camp.

"Brest now is ideal. As a camp it could not be improved upon. If you don't believe that, ask any of the doughboys on this ship.

"The great establishment built in France is being broken up, and in a short while America will have withdrawn, leaving only the memory of the industrial efficiency and the military strength which she took to the aid of the weary Allies, and with which the war was won.

"Perhaps as much as any one I have been permitted to see all phases of this great achievement on both sides of the ocean. I have been three times to France and have seen both army and navy at their jobs. I have seen the desperate peril of March, 1918, transformed into the smashing victories of October and finally into the assured peace of April.

"Out of it all I come with gratitude for the greatness of our country and our people and with new confidence in the future of America. The resourcefulness and valor of the soldiers, the courage and brave endurance of the men of the navy, the determination and energy of the people at home—all have cooperated to bring victory, swift and clean. This co-operation has made us invincible in war; its spirit will make us invincible in peace.

"To the men of the army and navy, partners in the perils and sharers in the glory of it all, the country looks with happy confidence that their efforts have shown both that America is too strong to fear any enemy, and strong enough to deal bravely and wisely with the problems of her own progress and growth."

The Secretary visited France this time to aid the United States Liquidation Commission in the settlement of accounts the A. E. F. has incurred with Allied Governments. The Secretary said he was going to see his wife, and expects to see the parade of the 77th Division with her in New York today, and then go to Washington probably tomorrow.

Talks With March by Wireless.

He called up Washington by wireless telephone at 10:30 yesterday morning from the George Washington when she was 125 miles east of Sandy Hook, and was connected through the wireless station at New Brunswick, N. J. He had a talk with General Peyton C. March, the Chief of Staff. The wireless telephone apparatus was installed on the George Washington the last time the ship was in New York for the convenience of President Wilson.

Officers of the 32d Division on the George Washington gave a dinner to Maj. Gen. William Hanna, their commander. Secretary Baker attended and made a speech complimenting the division and its leader upon their record in France.

Secretary Baker also met welfare workers on board during the voyage. He discussed with the Roman Catholic chaplain, the American Library Association representative, and a Jewish welfare worker the suggestion made in some quarters that the space occupied by such workers should be given to homecoming troops. Later he said he believed the morale of troops had been improved by the presence of the welfare men, adding that he favored increasing the space they occupy rather than cutting it down.

During the voyage the Secretary gave receptions for both the army and navy officers on board.

NAME NEW RESEARCH HEAD.

The Board of Superintendents, by a vote of 5 to 4, has recommended the appointment of Eugene Nifenecker, Assistant Director of Reference and Research, to be Director of References and Research. The office has been vacant since Albert Shiels some time ago gave it up to accept the Superintendcy of the public schools of Los Angeles. Mr. Nifenecker's salary, it is proposed, shall be $6,000, the same as Mr. Shiels's. The board referred the recommendation to a special committee for consideration.

City Supt. Ettinger called the attention of the board to the statements made by Clara C. Calkins, Principal of Public School 6, Brooklyn, alleging oppression by various Principals of teachers under them with regard to the teachers' salary bills. He recommended that Miss Calkins be summoned bfore the Board of Education, in order that there might be a thorough examination of the conditions she alleges to exist. The matter was laid over by the board.

Moonshiner Kills Revenue Agents.

Special to The New York Times.

HUGO, Okla., May 5.—Will Miller and J. A. Mays, United States Revenue Agents, were shot and killed early yesterday, near Idabell, Okla., when they attempted to raid an illicit whisky still in the mountains. A moonshiner is reported to have done the killing.

PLENTY OF JOBS IN DETROIT.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 5.—In Detroit at the present moment there are five jobs available for every soldier who returns from the war and two jobs for every civilian now out of work. This statement was made today on the authority of the Red Cross Bureau established here for the purpose of finding employment for returned soldiers. Every day the office gets appeals for men who cannot be supplied, because there are not enough soldiers to take the places.

The rate of pay is going up daily and is said to be at the highest point in the history of industrial Detroit.

Detroit employers have decided that they will have none of the Bolshevik element and other disturbers. The Red Cross Bureau has an order for 375 men a week from a single large industrial plant. These 375 were to take the places of Bolsheviki and other agitators who are un-American. They are being dropped from the payrolls of factories as rapidly as their tendencies are learned and regular Americans are being engaged to take their places.

LENIHAN RETURNS FLOWERS

Corona Man's Name Goes on Death Notice Instead of Cousin.

Michael J. Lenihan of Alburtis Avenue and Sackett Street, Corona, one of the best-known residents of the north side of Queens, was kept busy yesterday announcing to his friends that he was not dead, and his wife was busy returning to the senders floral tributes and letters of condolence.

All of the trouble was occasioned when the Exempt Firemen's Association of Flushing was notified by J. Frank Ryan, President, that Michael J. Hanophy had died at Corona. Secretary Arnatt understood the President to say Michael J. Lenihan, and he sent out the death notices accordingly.

As Mr. Lenihan is a member of General Sherman Council, Knights of Columbus, and of the Holy Name Society and of Queensboro Lodge of Elks, these organizations made arrangements to attend the funeral. After hearing from Mr. Lenihan yesterday they canceled orders for coaches which they had given for the funeral. Michael J. Hanophy, who died, was a cousin of Mr. Lenihan and a veteran of Louona Company No. 8 of North Corona. His funeral will be held today. Mr. Lenihan will be among the mourners.

Gillette

The Shaving Service—for Every Man—Everywhere

The Tender Skin of Your Neck and
No Stropping—No Honing

A man needs a sharp razor here. Otherwise he is apt to start ingrowing hairs if he tries to shave clean every day.

A shaving edge that you can depend on for a velvet-smooth shave always. A Blade that you don't have to strop or hone to make it do its work.

MADE IN Gillette U.S.A.

The Sign of No Stropping—No Honing Known the World Over

"No Stropping—No Honing" brands the Blade as the highest type of shaving edge ever developed—a Blade new in principle, in steel, temper, finish and use.

The term "No Stropping—No Honing" signifies the application of science to razor-blade making. It will appeal to every man anxious to eliminate unnecessary labor and save valuable time.

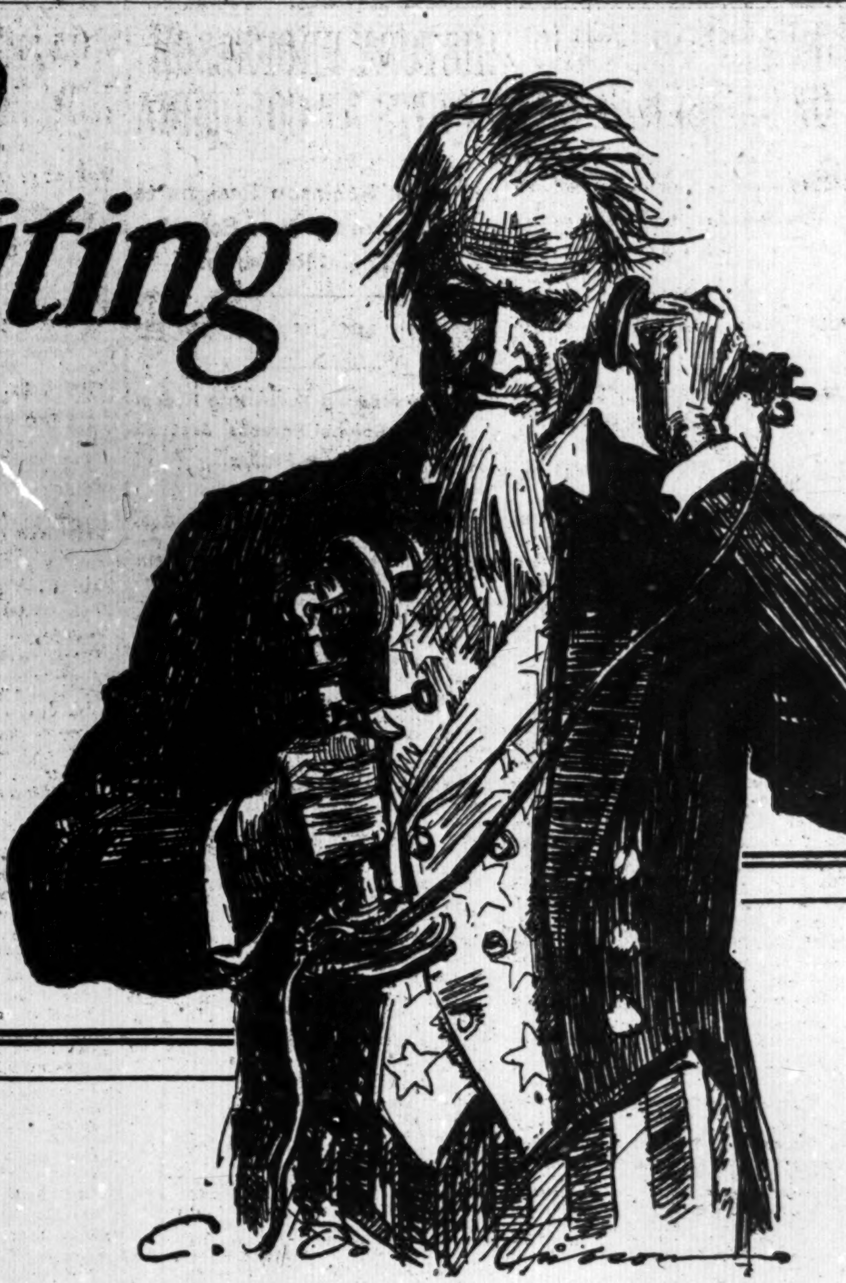
I'm Waiting



"Hello—Hello, New York—
I'm waiting for your answer—"

THE message has come:

Uncle Sam wants $1,000,561,600 from New York.

Wants it now—wants it today—wants it right away—wants it as New York's part of the Victory Loan—wants it to help pay for winning the war—wants it to make sure of the Victory that seventy-four thousand Americans gave their lives for.

"Hello—Hello, New York—
I'm waiting for your answer—"

From the West Side and from the East Side—from Rockaway and the Jersey Hills—from Manhattan, Brooklyn, Richmond, Queens, the Bronx—from the dark alleys of the Ghetto and light-hearted Broadway—from banker and newsboy—from men and women who toil—mighty and humble—rich and poor—must come that answer.

From you and from me—from the lips and the hearts and the pockets of seven million—ringing, rising, surging—the Mighty Voice of the City—

THREE ARRAIGNED IN AIRCRAFT FRAUD

TWO IN WAR DEPARTMENT

Accused of Obtaining Information on Bids in Advance of Their Publication.

Three men, two of them employes of the War Department, were arraigned yesterday before Federal Judge Learned Hand to answer to indictments charging them with having conspired to obtain fraudulently from the Government large quantities of aircraft material which was to be sold to the highest bidder. Another employe of the Government, also involved in the charges, has not yet been arrested.

The three were paroled until today, Kiely, formerly a Lieutenant in the Aviation Corps and later a confidential inspector of the War Department as well as the general sales manager of the department's material disposal section of aircraft product; Arthur J. Myers, a civilian employe of the material disposal division of the department, and his brother, Joseph L. Myers, a retired lace importer. The man not yet under arrest is a First Lieutenant in the Aviation Corps, who was stationed at Boston.

The three were paroled until today when they will be required to furnish bail. The men joined in pleading not guilty.

It is charged that the four men, after gaining what knowledge they could for themselves of the goods to be disposed of by the Government, and of the prices offered for them, used their acquaintanceship with other employes of the War Department to extend this knowledge so that long before the bids were published they had complete information. Then, it is alleged, Joseph L. Myers was to offer a bid a trifle higher than any offered, and so get possession of the property. According to Federal Prosecutor James W. Osborne, the four had arranged to organize a company to handle the purchased goods and to split the profits equally.

The plan, it is charged, was formed early in February and was in active operation until April 24, and during this period the accused men had procured information concerning goods to be sold which they expected to buy and to reap from the sale of them a profit of at least $2,700,000. Then appeared a stumbling-block in the matter of getting sufficient capital to carry out the plan. Eugene P. Martin, a special agent of the Department of Justice, who had been assigned to the case, said that in this emergency Joseph L. Myers sought to interest Robert A. Bachman, a consulting engineer and an associate of Dr. M. R. Hutchinson, both of whom are connected with the Edison Company.

Myers, it was alleged, had already tried to interest Mr. Bachman in a venture in moving picture machines for use in private houses, and one day, it is alleged, Myers disclosed to Mr. Bachman his scheme for getting control of vast quantities of Government goods. In the course of the talk, it is alleged, Myers told Mr. Bachman that he could get 7,000,000 yards of airplane and balloon cloth from the Government at a price which would yield a profit of 11 cents a yard.

In repeating this story to Mr. Martin, Mr. Bachman said that he was curious enough to look into the matter, and found that what Myers said was true so far as the market price was concerned. Mr. Bachman also told Agent Martin that Myers had said that 400,000 pounds of chrome steel could be procured from the Government at 5 cents a pound, and that the market price was 11 cents. After investigating the matter with some care Mr. Bachman said he had reached the conclusion that the men could accomplish all they had planned. Thereupon, he said, he went to Washington and told the whole story to Controller John Skelton Williams.

Mr. Bachman was introduced to Agent Martin, to whom he repeated his story, and who immediately started out to investigate. No estimate could be obtained from the authorities of how far the matter had advanced, but it was intimated that some goods had been obtained and had been sold at big profits.

TALK BY RADIO TELEPHONE.

Baker and Roosevelt Carry On First Two-Way Conversation.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—For the first time today a two-way telephone conversation by ocean wireless was carried on when the talkers heard and spoke to each other. The conversationalists were Secretary of War Baker, on board the George Washington, 200 miles at sea, and Acting Secretary of the Navy Franklin D. Roosevelt, seated at his desk in Washington. Secretary Roosevelt said tonight that Secretary Baker's voice was clear and distinct and that the conversation was conducted in a perfectly easy fashion. The talk from the high seas to Washington took place at 11:45 A. M.

On Sunday afternoon Secretary Baker sent the first one-way commercial radio telephone message. It was received at the navy's transatlantic receiving station at Bar Harbor, Me., and later delivered in New York City. The George Washington was then 400 miles off shore. This was called a "commercial" message because Secretary Baker took the money out of his pocket and paid the wireless operator.

During this Sunday afternoon conversation the Secretary alone spoke. His voice was received in New York and was heard distinctly. He, however, could hear no answer spoken from New York. But in the conversation of this morning both Secretary Baker and Mr. Roosevelt spoke and heard.

"This remarkable feat was made possible," the Navy Department stated, "by the use of apparatus perfected during the war under the cognizance of the Navy Department. The apparatus installed on the George Washington is of the very latest type whereby simultaneous taking and listening can be caried out. The speaker uses his instrument just as if he were talking over any ordinary telephone. A land telephone line carried the speech from Washington to the high-power transatlantic radio station at New Brunswick, N. J., whence the voice currents were sent to the ship."

NEW SLEEP SICKNESS CASE.

Victim in Hospital Ten Days, Semi-Comatose.

Another case of sleeping sickness was reported to the Board of Health yesterday. According to surgeons at St. Mary's Hospital in Brooklyn, Morris Kesselman, 36 years old, of 113 New Lots Avenue, went into a semi-coma ten days ago and has been soundly asleep practically ever since.

Kesselman, who is an operator in a Manhattan clothing shop, returned to his boarding house ten days ago and after dinner complained of being tired. He lay down and almost immediately went into a deep slumber. Fellow lodgers trying to rouse him later in the evening summoned a doctor, who advised removal to the hospital. Two days ago Kesselman, while being fed, shook off some of the lethargy, but when he tried to talk relapsed.

HISTORY PROFESSOR QUITS AT COLUMBIA

GIFTS ARE ANNOUNCED

Trustees' Meeting Turns Into Reception to Colonel Parsons, Just Back from France.

The resignation of James Harvey Robinson, Professor of History, was announced at the monthly meeting of the Board of Trustees of Columbia University yesterday afternoon, at which Colonel William Barclay Parsons, Chairman of the board, presided for the first time in two years. The meeting took the form of a reception to welcome home Colonel Parsons, who has just returned from France, where, as the commander of the 11th Engineers, he has been for more than two years.

Professor Robinson, who has been a Professor of History in Columbia University for twenty-four years, has resigned to lecture on history in the New School for Social Research in collaboration with Charles Austen Beard, formerly Professor of Political Science at Columbia University. The resignation of Professor Robinson was not unexpected, as he was one of those who sympathized with the attitude of Professor Beard when he resigned from the Faculty of Columbia in October, 1917, on the ground that free speech was denied the Faculty of the university. Although Professor Robinson's resignation will not take effect until June 30, he has already begun to lecture at the New School for Social Research.

The university will receive by gift the funds necessary to establish the Franco-America Prize which will be awarded in 1920 with the co-operation of the Franco-America Society and the Comité France-Amérique, and every second year thereafter to the author of the best dissertation by a candidate for the degree of Doctor of Philosophy on a topic dealing with the literature and philosophy of an instittuion of France since 1815, it was announced at the meeting.

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, President of the university, was authorized at the meeting to have prepared for publication a book recording the war activities of the university, including the war services of the officers, alumni and students, with particular reference to the services of those Columbia men who gave their lives in the war.

Announcement was made of the following gifts.

From the Trustees of the East River Homes Foundation, $8,500 for the work in tuberculosis at the Vanderbilt Clinic; $5,870 from E. C. Converse, F. J. Shepard, A. J. Hawes, A. E. Marling, and several other donors to be applied toward the cost of additions to the Medical School buildings; $294 from the Columbia University Club for the work of the Columbia Service Bureau in Paris; the library of journals, text books, and medical reprints belonging to the late Dr. Edwin B. Cragin, Professor of Obstetrics and Gynecology, from Mrs. Edwin B. Cragin.

Because of the unanimous request of the members of the Department of Classical Philology and Faculty of Philosophy, the name of the Department of Classical Philology has been changed to that of the Department of Greek and Latin. The change was desired, it was said, because the members of the Department of Classical Philology felt that confusion had arisen over the meaning of the name.

WOMAN KILLS PUBLISHER.

Paul F. Volland Was Shot in His Office in Chicago.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Paul Frederick Volland, wealthy head of the art publishing company which bears his name, was shot and instantly killed in his office here this afternoon by a woman. The woman gave her name as Mrs. Vera Trepagnier and her age as 60 years. She said she was the widow of a wealthy New Orleans sugar planter. According to clerks in Volland's office, the woman had a hallucination that the publishing company owed her $5,000 in royalties.

Jouhaux's Work Had Been Finished.

PARIS, May 4.—In recording the resignation of Léon Jouhaux, Secretary General of the Federation of Labor, from his post as supplementary representative of the working classes at the Peace Conference, because of his objection to the course of the French Government in preventing labor demonstrations on May Day, the Paris newspapers point out that the work of M. Jouhaux in connection with the conference had, as a matter of fact, been completed. He was a member of the Commission on International Labor Legislation, the task of which was ended recently.

Columbus, O., Bars Scott Nearing.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 5.—On the ground that meetings held in other cities to expound Socialist doctrines have created disturbances, city officials today ordered the police not to permit Scott Nearing of Toledo to address a Socialist meeting here tonight.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE IN HAPPYLAND FIRE

PROPERTY LOSS IS $200,000

One woman was burned to death in a $200,000 fire that swept through Happyland Amusement Park, South Beach, Staten Island, yesterday morning, destroying the park and forty bungalows adjoining it. The cause of the blaze was not determined. It was only after a hard fight that firemen, aided by fire-fighting apparatus from Fort Wadsworth, got the fire under control.

The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock and the only fire apparatus on the scene was the small chemical engine maintained by the beach merchants. The chemical men found Happyland well in the grip of the flames and a general alarm was turned in bringing out all the apparatus on Staten Island.

When the rest of the firemen arrived they found the two-story dance pavilion, the big restaurant and the scenic railway in ashes. While the firemen worked valiantly the flames leaped from the park to the Hotel Walnord, destroying it and Schaerfer's Hotel. Roderick's Restaurant, located on the sand line, north of Happyland, was the next to go, and then the fire got going in the bungalows near by. The small, frame structures, owned by Lambert O'Neill of Rosebank, Staten Island, burned like tinder.

Mrs. Mary Autenreith, wife of John Autenreith, President of the Bay Amusement Company, which planned to operate concessions in the park, was the woman who lost her life. She and her husband were awakened by the smell of smoke and safely made their way out of their home. Mrs. Autenreith, however, went back to recover belongings, although the house was enveloped in smoke. She did not reappear, and soon the building, eaten away by the fire, collapsed.

A high wind was blowing when the fire broke out. It fanned the blaze so that it lighted up the lower harbor and could be seen from Sandy Hook, Coney Island, and the New Jersey shore. Hundreds of persons got out of bed and went to the shore front in automobiles to watch the spectacle.

To Fight Film

Dental science has proved that the great tooth wrecker is a slimy film. You can feel it with your tongue.

Most tooth troubles are caused by it. It clings to the teeth, enters the crevices, hardens and stays. And teeth will discolor and decay where that film stays, however much you brush them.

That film is what discolors—not the teeth. It is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay.

Scientists have for years sought ways to combat that film, but the methods proved inadequate. Then one man, after intensive research, applied activated pepsin—a digestant—to the film. And many clinical tests seem to clearly prove that he solved this great film problem.

We ask you to see for yourself. This pepsin method is employed in Pepsodent, and we offer a 10-Day Tube. See what it does when you use it. See the results in ten days. It will show you a way to clean your teeth as you never have cleaned them before.

See How They Glisten

Analysis shows that the film is albuminous. Pepsin digests albumin. The object in Pepsodent is to dissolve the film, then to constantly combat it.

But pepsin alone is inert. It must be activated, and the usual agent is an acid harmful to the teeth. So pepsin long seemed forbidden.

Now a harmless activating method has been found. And that method, used in Pepsodent, makes efficient pepsin possible.

Able authorities have proved Pepsodent by convincing clinical tests. It has been adopted, and is now endorsed, by leading dentists everywhere. It does what nothing else has done, and everyone should use it.

We urge you to prove it yourself. Ask us for a 10-Day Tube. Look at your teeth and see what it does. See how they glisten.

Do this for your sake and your children's sake. Learn the way—the only way—to cleaner, safer teeth.

How to make 15 to 1 adjustment

Fill the gasoline tank with Tydol and warm up your engine. With the car standing still, the engine running, using the gasoline adjustment on the carburetor, gradually decrease the quantity of gasoline going through the bowl of the carburetor until the engine begins to slow down. Then increase the proportion of gasoline going through until you get a maximum engine speed, but not a fraction further.

With Tydol you will get approximately a 15 to 1 mixture (15 parts air to 1 part gasoline).

The same procedure with low grade gasoline will decrease the proportions to about an 8 to 1 mixture (8 parts air to 1 part gasoline). This means low mileage and excess carbon deposits.

Tydol is made so you can use less fuel and more air.

HOW many cars climb Fort George in high gear? Watch them the next time you drive up the hill.

How about your car? Does it labor and slow down? Don't wheeze up that hill or any other in intermediate gear. If your engine is in good condition—but most important—if you have Tydol in the tank, your car will do better on that big hill.

That is because Tydol vaporizes fast. Tydol gives you hill-pulling power, acceleration and more miles to the gallon. Tydol is made to run strong on a lean mixture.

Tydol, the Economy Gasoline, is made to use the famous 15 to 1 mixture.

Fill up with Tydol gasoline today. Set your carburetor at 15 parts air to 1 of gasoline. (See directions above.) Now you will find new pick-up. You, too, may be able to make Fort George Hill on high. And watch your speedometer. See how the extra miles pile up with Tydol. Yet Tydol costs no more than ordinary gasoline.

VEEDOL

Veedol, the lubricant that resists heat, prevents the rapid formation of sediment in your oil and minimizes friction and wear.

Have the old oil cleaned out of your crankcase, and fill it with Veedol. Sold by reliable dealers everywhere.

The Ladies' Home Journal

Over Two Million Copies of the May Number

The Government has lifted the restrictions on paper.

Instead of 40 articles, we are giving 60 and 65 in each issue.

We gave our wonderful war pictures in full colors. Now, we give not only those but the pictures to our stories have started in full colors.

Girls Who Won Out

Not once, but three times. The cream of the girls of 10 states. What did they do? It's told in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Did You Know They Were Making Pictures With the Typewriter?

Four Full-Color Peace Pictures

No finer souvenirs of the great Armistice Day can be imagined. Thousands will frame them. You get not one—but four—all for 15 cents, in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

"Honest: They Let Me Lie Here And Rot—That's Wot They're Doin'"

That's what our wounded boys in the hospitals write home. Is it true? We have the right to know the truth. And the truth is here: in an article you can believe. Every one of us who has a boy in the service who is wounded or may get sick should read this story. It is in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Does Housework Prevent Childbirth?

A Man Says "Yes"

Here is a startling question. A great Englishman says that all but the glass-eyed will answer "Yes." So Zona Gale went into this throbbing question, investigated it, and her article fairly sparkles with interest. It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

What are We Women Going to Do?

So busy were women in war days. But the war is over. Now, what? Hundreds of women are asking this. One woman in Washington has the answer, for she sits at a great gateway of women's industries, and thousands of women write and talk to her. She has dug deep. Read her article that points the way in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

We Ought to Laugh More

That is what the radiant rollicking stories in the May Ladies' Home Journal make you do—you feel as if you have had a bath of laughter. Try them—and feel happy!

8 Short Stories and Serials

Stories That Will Make You Feel Young

The 1-Cent-A-Week Man

A man refused a job at the rate of 1 cent for the first week—2 cents the next—double each succeeding week. The employer then figured out how much he would have earned at the 52d week. No corporation could pay it: the United States Government couldn't. No one could. How much do you think it was? It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

A Man Shaves 20 Miles

During his lifetime. That is, if he is fair-skinned. If he is dark, he shaves even more. You don't believe it? It's all figured out for every man in a little table, as the razor goes over his face, in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Want, Really, to Laugh?

Then do read about the Professor who really didn't want to kill Germans, but killed and captured them on every hand. He just couldn't help it. The story is in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

A Whole Spring Dinner on One Plate

Why not save steps, plates, dishwashing? And the plates are made so that you can do it. Look, too, what you get on them and what to put on. Beautiful pictures show them to you in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Two Millions of One Magazine

Last month the public pushed The Ladies' Home Journal beyond the 1,900,000 mark. Yet over 20,000 persons were disappointed because they couldn't get the magazine!

This month we not only touch the wonderful 2-million mark but go over it—a figure that no monthly magazine has ever reached: an uncharted land!

The magazine this month reaches the high mark of 184 pages: 60 pages more than any May number in its history.

That means the printing of 368 millions of pages of one issue of one magazine—an edition so gigantic as to be almost unbelievable.

It required a month of all-nights and all-days to print it.

What the King of the Belgians Did
When the Famous Armistice Was Signed

The world went wild with joy. But four great outstanding events occurred, each the expression of a nation. These four great events have now been preserved in four superb full-color paintings; souvenirs to be treasured of one of the greatest days in the world's history. Thousands of dollars have been spent to make and print these remarkable paintings that you buy for a dime and a nickel.

I Whacked Him in the Face: The First Time I Met My Future Husband

Think of starting a courtship in that fashion: a marriage that was to last for fifty years and give to one woman the greatest experiences that could come to her. She really lived the most thrilling romance that a girl could read of or dream of in her wildest dreams. She married Buffalo Bill! And out into that trackless West she went with him. Dangers on every side. And she met them. One after another. What we formerly read in "dime novels" we now read as actually happening, and to a woman. For in the May Ladies' Home Journal Buffalo Bill's widow begins her autobiography by telling what it meant "Being Courted by Buffalo Bill."

Why Her Women's Society Went to Pieces

Mrs. Elliott was president, and her "society" just wouldn't "go." She wanted to give it "all up." She couldn't get at the trouble. Then, all of a sudden, she did: a trouble that exists with a great many women's clubs and societies. There's a lot in this article for club women. It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal, and it reads like a story, swift and interesting.

Want to See Your Boy Come Home?

Wouldn't you like to go and see your boy land when he docks in New York? If you can't, let us take you there through clever Edna Ferber's pen. She tells you exactly how your boy feels, what he says and what he thinks about coming home. It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal, with striking pictures.

Does a Wife Vote Like Her Husband?

Thousands have said this would happen if women got the vote. Now, is it true? A woman has gotten at the facts, and she tells them, just as they are, in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

When Paderewski Closed His Piano

To become the Premier of Poland we saw one of the most dramatic and romantic pictures of the war. How did it come about? Why did he give up an income of $200,000 a year? What did he say himself just before he left America? Here is the complete story from information from his own stepson. It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Now, Mother Really Would Not Behave!

So thought her big daughter and bigger son, and they didn't know what to do! For mother would be young—she would be happy; she would push back her yellow locks of hair, smile at her big girl and boy, and then she would do something else. One day out went every old dry dusty book in the house: the next day, old pictures would go and new ones would appear. New colors ran riot over the house. Old wall papers went and new cretonnes came. Then dinner parties began. And mother would go to the games. She would go and live in the college town where her children went. But the climax came when the daughter came home to find her mother swapping chocolate peppermints with her dignified Professor of English Literature. That was too much! The daughter was in despair. The boy merely said "Gee!"

It's just pure comedy in this story—deliciously fresh, rollicking with fun. You'll feel after reading it as if you had a bath of laughter.

Americanization is Everywhere in the Air

But what do they mean by it? We ought to know. It is already a question, and it's going to be a bigger question. The man who knows more about it than anyone else is Secretary of the Interior Lane. That's why The Ladies' Home Journal asked him to explain it. And he does in the May number. Read this brief article and you know.

Keeping Step With Your Husband—A Wife Must in These Days

How can she? What can she do so that her wifehood will not be a failure? Of course, it is possible—and easy. We asked a woman to find out, and she did. And she tells it in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

On What Week-Day Was I Born?

Thousands ask it. Or, on what week-day will such and such a day fall? There's the best perpetual calendar ever invented, given complete, so that you can cut it out, in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

How I Wrote The Battle Hymn of the Republic

Do you know? The story is very interesting. Not at all in the way you would think such a masterpiece might be written. Julia Ward Howe, in her own words, tells it in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

The Two Men in Her Life

Many a girl has to make the choice that Lillie did. But it isn't easy. And other girls don't find it easy, either. Perhaps they can get help from the story of "Lillie: of the Valley" in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

As a Tribute to Our Boys

What is the wise thing for a community to do? What is a good memorial? What is a wise tribute? A community house? A clock tower? A playground? A town library? Which? Here are 12 pictures of suitable ideas. They're in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

"I Tell This Intensely Personal Story Only for One Reason"

Says an American War Bride

"Because I may convince some girl or wife that her job is not through when her boy comes home from the war, but that it may just have begun"—And then she tells a story that words cannot describe. Superlatives cannot do it justice. It is the most thrilling American girl's story that has come out of the war: it will stay with every girl and woman who reads it. Only an American girl could have stood up under such an experience: only an American girl could tell it as she does. It is, of itself, worth your buying the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Uncle Sam's Bluebirds

Do you know who they are? The Army Nurses. It's a wonderful story about them—the finest-dressed girls in the world. The bravest, too. Read about them in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

Can a Woman Run Her Home as a Man Runs His Business?

Most women say "No: It can't be done." But, is that so? At least, here is the man who has gone into this subject deeper than any other man in America. Read what he says. He shows how it can be done. It's in the May Ladies' Home Journal.

BRANDEGEE WANTS SIX AMENDMENTS

Insists Our Peace Delegates Refused to Incorporate Root's Changes.

CITES PROPOSALS DROPPED

League Covenant, He Says, Gives No Guard as to Immigration and Monroe Doctrine.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—None of Elihu Root's suggestions has been embodied in the final draft of the League of Nations Constitution, according to a statement issued tonight by Senator Frank B. Brandegee, Republican, of Connecticut, one of those who attended the dinner that the President gave at the White House to members of the Foreign Relations Committee, just after his return from Europe in April. Senator Brandegee has been in recent consultation with many Republicans and others Senators who are against the League Constitution, and with George Wharton Pepper of Philadelphia.

Senator Brandegee's statement said in part:

"In his letter, March 29, 1919, to Chairman Hays, Senator Root analyzed the original draft of the Constitution of the League of Nations. He proceeded to specify and propose six amendments. The Constitution in the form finally approved by the Peace Conference embodies no one of the six amendments thus proposed. Every one of them might have been adopted by the conference without impairing the effectiveness of the plan of which the Constitution is an expression.

"The rejection places the conference as squarely on record as if it had deliberately made the following declarations on the six points in discussion:

"1. We decline to create a high court of justice or to do more than direct that plans be formulated for a tribunal whose only jurisdiction will depend upon the consent of the parties. We decline to enact national covenants to arbitrate justiciable conditions instead of fighting over them. We are persistent in vesting in the International Executive Cabinet the power to make final decisions upon all disputed questions, whether legal or political in their nature. We accordingly reject Senator Root's first amendment.

"2. 'We persist in the practical abandonment of all effort to promote or maintain a system of international law. We decline to provide for a conference of powers to state in authoritative form the principles and rules of international law. We reject Senator Root's second amendment.

Monroe Doctrine and Immigration.

"3. (a) 'Not recognizing the Monroe Doctrine as a declaration of traditional opposition to the extension on the Western Continent of the sovereignty of foreign States, we insist rather upon classifying it as a regional understanding, and we leave the Cabinet of Nine to determine in any emergency whether or not to recognize the validity of the doctrine, according to their political opinion of its effect upon the peace of the world.

"(b) 'We refuse to permit the United States or any nation specifically to reserve for its own decision what immigration it will sanction or forbid.

"(c) 'We decline to sanction the specific reservation by the United States of purely American questions. We insist upon leaving the question of a protective tariff, the Panama Canal, and the coastwise trade of the United States in the uncertain position in which they were left by the original draft. We accordingly decline Senator Root's third amendment.

"4. 'We insist that every member of the League shall give a continuing guarantee to preserve, as against external aggression, the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the League. We decline to permit a nation to determine its obligations as a world guarantor and yet remain a League member. We decline Senator Root's fourth amendment.

"5. Though recognizing that the primary purpose of the League is to obstruct war and that limitation of armaments is the most effective method of obstruction, we decline to give to the commission constituted under Article 9 powers either of inspection of the actual conditions of armanent existing in any country or of verification of reports of armanents submitted. We decline Senator Root's fifth amendment.

"6. 'While it has been pointed out to us that the League cannot be a league of peace for some years to come, that it is rather an alliance of one-half the active world for the control of the other half, and that the constitution is not a final or conclusive instrument, we decline to provide for the calling of a conference for its revision. We insist that no amendment shall be made except with the approval of a majority of nations represented in the Assembly. We accordingly decline Senator Root's sixth amendment.'

Brandegee Demands Senate Action.

"In view of the deliberate refusal of the conference to incorporate in the Constitution all or any of the vital amendments submitted by Senator Root, it becomes the solemn responsibility of the Senate of the United States to consider the proposals which the conference has rejected.

"The President will return as a commissioner, bringing with him a document prepared in the superheated atmosphere of the conference. He will submit it to the country as one already committed to the acceptance of all its terms. He will find no chief executive waiting to subject the document to calm and judicial review.

"Unless the Senate is free to consider the Root amendments and others, unembarrassed by executive pressure or by popular clamor, the people of the United States will be deprived of the protection of their own constitutional safeguards, and may be committed without adequate understanding to a serious international experiment, from the results of which they have little to gain and much to lose."

SAYS FARMERS WANT LEAGUE.

League to Enforce Peace Asserts 193 Bodies Indorsed Project.

An overwhelming majority of the 12,000,000 farmers of America "favor the entrance of the United States into the League of Nations," according to an announcement here today by officials of the League to Enforce Peace.

Resolutions have been adopted by 193 organizations, it was said, including the American Agricultural Association, Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, Farmers' Equity Union, Farmers' National Council, Farmers' National Reconstruction Conference, National Board of Farm Organizations, National Federation of Gleaners, National Grange, and the Non-Partisan League, declaring in favor of the Paris project. At the same time, it was stated, fifty-five prominent agriculturists, representing every State in the Union, are mobilizing the farmers of the country for a "drive" on the United States Senate when the League of Nations treaty is presented for ratification.

England Wants Our Whisky.

LONDON, May 5.—Replying to a question in the House of Commons today concerning the shortage of whisky, Sir Auckland Geddes, Minister for National Service and Reconstruction, said he had decided that the importation of Canadian whisky might be freely permitted, and also American whisky, if it had been paid for before the beginning of 1919.

SAY FARMHANDS KILLED TEACHER

Special to The New York Times.

GREENSBURG, Penn., May 5.—The State Police and County Detective Paul L. Feightner late this evening arrested the alleged murderers of Miss Emma Austraw, a school teacher, who disappeared a week ago today and whose dead body was found last Saturday in an outhouse on the Austraw farm.

One of the men arrested was James Crawford, a farmhand, who had insisted that he saw the teacher enter an automobile near her schoolhouse last Monday evening.

He is alleged to have confessed to the State police this afternoon that he and an intimate companion, who for the present is called "Joe Doe," lured the pretty 19-year-old girl to the abandoned log house on the Frank Ardary farm, half a mile from her school; that after she had refused to comply with their requests, Doe struck her with a club, then tied her hands, carried her to the outhouse and stuffed her into it. Doe, fearing the teacher would regain consciousness, according to the alleged confession, placed his revolver behind Miss Austraw's left ear and sent a bullet into her brain.

"Doe" is expected to break down under the third degree grilling to which he will be subjected by the State police and the county detectives. When taken into custody at his home near the scene of the murder of the teacher, he is alleged to have said: "Did that damned Crawford squeal?"

HINES TAKES UP PRICES.

Considers Names of Representatives to Meet the Producers.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Director General Hines, on his return today from a three weeks' inspection trip through the West, took up the question of appointing representatives of the Railroad Administration to discuss with steel producers new prices for steel. This is the line of action decided upon following Mr. Hines's refusal to accept standard prices determined by the Department of Commerce's Industrial Board.

The attitude of the board toward this procedure has not been definitely stated.

Acting Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt said today contracts for structural steel for battleships authorized, but not yet laid down, will not be awarded until the controversy between the Railroad Administration and the Industrial Board as to steel prices has been settled.

FAVORS HIGHER PAY FOR BOROUGH HEADS

Hylan Signs the Bill Increasing Presidents' Salaries to $10,000 a Year.

MAY VETO TEACHERS' BILL

Mayor Said to Hold That the City Itself Should Decide Questions of Salaries.

Mayor Hylan yesterday signed the bill passed by the Legislature increasing the salaries of the five Borough Presidents to $10,000 a year each. The Borough Presidents of Manhattan, Brooklyn, and the Bronx heretofore have received $7,500 a year, while the Presidents of Queens and Richmond have received $5,000 a year. The increase equalizes the salaries and increases the annual salary charges $17,500. The increases will take effect on Jan. 1.

In announcing the signing of the bill the Mayor said he was making preparations to see that the employes in the various departments under his jurisdiction got an increase n salary next year. The Mayor has written to the heads of these departments requesting them to advise him of persons in their employ who are now getting salaries too small for them to live upon comfortably, and who deserve an increase. The Mayor believes that all these cases, as well as the increases in the Borough Presidents' salaries, can be taken care of in the budget for next year.

The bill increasing the salaries of the Borough Presidents is the only salary increase bill that has been signed by the Mayor. He has disapproved bills providing for the increase of pay of court and city department employes or which provide for the pensioning of city employes who are not now under the pension provision. Among the bills which have been disapproved by the Mayor are: Measures affecting the Bronx County Sheriff's clerk, and District Attorney's process servers in New York County; Queens Building Bureau pensions, the creation of a new department of ferries for Staten Island, placing Fire Department telegraphers in the uniform force, affecting Queens Municipal Court employes, Kings County Clerk's employes, New York City Health Department pensions, Bronx County Register's employes, New York City officers' retirement, Kings County Court employes' pensions, New York County District Attorney's office pensions, Fire Marshals' admission to the regular department, and the bill providing for free transportation of City Island pupils who attend Mt. Morris High School. The Mayor also vetoed the bill providing for an increase from $2,000 to $2,500 of each of the eight Deputy Sheriffs in Brooklyn.

It was said yesterday that the Mayor would veto the bill providing for an increase of pay for teachers. The Mayor believes, it is said, that the city and not the State should decide questions of teachers' salaries. Among the measures approved by the Mayor is one designed to affect rent profiteering by compelling landlords or agents to give at least ten days' notice in writing to tenants who are mouth-to-mouth occupants before they can be dispossessed.

Another bill signed enables elective as well as appointive officers in the city's employ to retire after twenty years of service. By the so-called Hamill bill, which was approved, the age limit of the veterans of the recent war for appointment to the police force is extended to thirty-five years. The Mayor sent the bill to permit the removal of the Forty-second Street elevated structure to Governor Smith for his action, as well as the one to permit magistrates to sit as Justices of the Court of Special Sessions. A board of purchase is created by an act approved by the Mayor to consist of not fewer than three commissioners of city departments, to supersede the present purchasing committee.

Suspect Bombs in Packages.

JACKSON, Miss., May 5.—Packages which postoffice inspectors believe contained infernal machines were received through the mail today by Governor Bilbo, Mayor Scott, and Frederick Sullens, editor of the Daily News. They were held for further examination.

FOR BILL TO CURB RECKLESS DRIVING

BILL FOUGHT AT HEARING

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 5.—Governor Smith is expected to approve the Knight-Wheelock bill requiring all automobile drivers in New York City to be licensed after undergoing a thorough examination as to their qualifications. The bill was proposed in the hope that its enactment would minimize deaths in the greater city attributable to reckless driving. The Governor, after a hearing on the bill today, indicated he would approve the measure.

Automobile associations of the State differed as to the merits of the measure. Neile F. Towner, for the Automobile Club of America; Judge Charles T. Terry, for the New York State Motor Federation and other associations, and Herbert L. Carpenter, representing the Brooklyn Motor Vehicle Dealers' Association, entered vigorous opposition.

M. Bruce Cobb, one of the New York City Magistrates who sponsored the bill, urged the Governor to act favorably upon it. He declared that more than fines and jail sentences were needed to keep automobile drivers careful and argued that the provision which would mean loss of license for careless driving was sufficiently strong to insure its enforcement. Judge Cobb cited figures showing that 503 persons were killed and 13,000 injured last year in New York City as the result of reckless driving.

Melvin T. Bender, representing the New York State Automobile Association, declared the association was in favor of the measure. Secretary of State Hugo urged that the bill become law to "make the streets safe for the people."

Judge Terry attacked the measure as a "sham," a "fake," and merely a tax measure.

The Governor also gave a hearing on the highway bond issue bill designed to give the State a fund to meet the Federal contributions to the State for post road construction. The Governor was somewhat critical of the bill and commented on the fact that neither he nor the new State Commissioner of Highways, Colonel Greene, had been consulted about it.

The Governor signed 105 bills and vetoed 11. Included in the New York City bills which became law with the Governor's signature were: Authorizing Mayor Hylan to appoint a Board of Purchase for the New York City departments; authorizing the change in the name of the Department of Docks and Ferries to the Department of Docks; continuing in office matrons in the Department of Correction and grading them according to years of service; providing that the $3 paid by a party demanding a jury trial shall be paid by the clerk of the court into the city treasury; increasing the fees of the Hell Gate pilots; providing that the Dock Commissioner may make necessary exchanges or conveyances of property; providing that when a women is convicted before any Magistrate of any crime arising out of an industrial dispute she shall be segregated from other women in the institution to which she is sent.

To Conserve International Nickel.

The common dividend on the shares of the International Nickel Company was passed by the Directors yesterday. Three months ago the distribution was 50 cents a share, and before that there had been payments of $1 a share. It was announced that the action was taken because of the decreased earnings of the company in the last quarter of 1918, and the desire to conserve funds.

GIVE TO SULGRAVE FUND.

American Legion of Canada Supports Washington Manor Plan.

LONDON, May 5.—Colonel Seymour Bullock, in forwarding a contribution in the name of the American Legion of the Canadian Expeditionary Force to the fund for equipping Sulgrave Manor, the family home of George Washington, as an Anglo-American institution, recalls that the Legion was composed of five battalions of men of American parentage, and that the Legion's shield was copied from Washington's bookplate and superimposed on the Canadian Maple Leaf.

A large silk American flag of the Legion was presented to Queen Mary, and it is proposed to present the battalion colors to the Sulgrave Manor Committee.

Upholds N. Y. Central Consolidation

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Consolidation in 1914 of the New York Central & Hudson River Railroad with the Lake Shore and Lake Michigan Southern and nine other subsidiary railroad corporations was in effect upheld today by the Supreme Court, which refused to review proceedings instituted in the New York State Courts by Clarence H. Venner, a stockholder, to prevent confirmation of the union.

Do certain places on your face give annoyance in shaving?

PRACTICALLY all of the annoyance of shaving "tender spots" on your face comes from using a razor blade that has lost its keen, new edge.

You can easily avoid this unpleasant feature of shaving if you use the razor that provides a keen edge for every shave—the AutoStrop Razor.

AutoStrop Razor Blades are made of the hardest, toughest steel produced for razor blade use, each with the sharpest kind of cutting edge. To keep these blades keen-edged as when new, the AutoStrop Razor is made with a patented, self-contained stropping feature.

A pressure of the thumb adjusts the blade for close, medium or light shaving. The AutoStrop Razor is the only safety razor that sharpens, shaves and cleans without removing the blade.

REPORT AMERICA GETS SEIZED SHIPS

89 VESSELS ARE INVOLVED

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The report is current in Washington that the United States will retain the ownership of the German ships which were seized in American ports by this nation during the war, and men who are interested in the expansion of foreign trade and the establishment of a great American merchant marine are considering tentative plans with such a development as one of the most important considerations involved.

American representatives in Paris are reported to be making every effort to see to it that American control of these ships shall be permanent. There are eighty-nine vessels with a cargo carrying capacity of 654,050 deadweight tons. Practically all of them are of a type which would play a big part in shipping and commerce.

It was stated in the news dispatch from Paris that the German interests would be credited with a fair price for the tonnage when reckoning was made of the damage done by the German submarines to American tonnage and American interests. The Germans sunk about 350,000 tons of American shipping, for which they are to be held accountable, and they have a heavy score to meet because of the sinking of the Lusitania and the loss of many American lives.

Here is a list of the former German-owned shipping seized in American ports and which is reported to be involved in the decision made at Paris. The tonnage figures are in relation to the usefulness of the ships as cargo carriers and is reckoned without regard to the passenger service which will be rendered:

ing as his chief of staff. Following the fall of Parral, the Villistas' occupation of Bustulos, on the Northwestern Railroad about fifty miles west of Chihauhau City, is threatening the capital of Chihauhau from the west.

Word reached Washington today also that Villa recently visited the plant of an American mining company at Santo Eulalio and informed those in charge of the company that Carranza would not longer be able to furnish protection to the plant, or collect taxes, and that it was the intention of the Villista leaders to collect taxes in that vicinity in the near future.

The Superintendent of the mine closed down the works, collected as much of the movable property as possible, and took it to Chihuahua City. There were 3,000 men employed in the plant and most of these went along. The State Department has been advised that Americans in Chihuahua City assert that Villa is threatening that city from the west, and that these Americans have expressed a desire to get to El Paso.

The revolutionists have cut the Chihuahua-Torreon main line of railway near Ortiz, and have destroyed the Conchos bridge there. This bridge had survived the attacks and fighting of eight years, and it is asserted that its destruction will prevent Carranza dispatching reinforcements from Mexico City to Chihuahua over that direct route.

General Carranza has ordered General Manuel M. Dieguez to go from the Tampico oil region to Chihuahua in personal command of 2,000 Government troops, to co-operate with General Jesus Castro, the commander of the garrison at Chihuahua, whose forces are divided between that city and Juarez. General Castro, who has been at Juarez, has been ordered to go to Chihuahua City also.

The dispatch of the forces under Dieguez is expected to leave the Tampico oil district unprotected, and it is feared that General Manuel Pelaez, whose men have been kept out of the oil region by the presence of Dieguez there, will enter the Tampico district as soon as the Dieguez forces leave. Operating north and west of Tampico are two independent leaders, Generals Gutierrez and Caballero.

These men, while not a part of the Villista movement, are represented as acting in harmony with Villa against Carranza. They are expected to try to throw obstacles against the projected relief movement of the Dieguez forces from the Tampico district by way of Torreon to Chihuahua. The withdrawal of Dieguez and his forces from the oil region would abandon that territory to the Pelaez brothers, the rebels who have collected money from foreign interests for protection.

Today's advices showed that the capture of Jimenez, an important railway junction point, took place originally about three weeks ago. The Carranza garrison recaptured Jimenez, but the place has again been taken by the Villistas. Reports through official and other channels indicate that strategically Villa is rapidly reaching a position where he may within ninety days gain control of the situation in Chihuahua. The loyalty of the State's capital to the Carranza cause is doubted by some of the Americans there.

In launching his new revolution, according to information obtained through trustworthy channels, it is understood to be the purpose of Villa soon to issue a statement addressed to the press of the United States, in which he will seek to combat the idea that has been prevalent since the Columbus raid and the Pershing punitive expedition, that Villa was responsible for the raid on Columbus. Persons in Washington who have been in touch with Villa said he denied that he had anything whatever to do with the Columbus raid, declaring that he was then more than 200 miles from the border.

Villa, from what was learned here tonight, also denies that he had any responsibility for the murders by Mexican bandits at Santa Ysabel, and has been asserting that if he had had the opportunity he would have "adequately and immediately punished" those who committed that outrage, in which a number of the victims were his friends.

In his present revolution Villa is insisting that he is not ambitious for office for himself, but proposes to see that the executive power of Mexico is delivered into the hands of some strong and just man, to be surrounded by a Cabinet of men capable of guiding Mexico with a safe and steady hand. Villa has told some of those who have seen him recently that when this has been accomplished he will retire, but not before.

According to the State Department advices Villa has called for a forced loan of 1,[illegible]000 pesos from the industry of the Torreon region, and this has inspired conviction that Villa plans an early descent on Torreon.

The clash between the military and judicial authorities of Mexico over the hasty execution of General Francisco de P. Alvarez has become so serious, according to advices received from the Mexican capital today, that there is a probability of the Mexican Supreme Court resigning in a body because of the defiance of its authority by the military authorities at Vera Cruz.

General Blanquet, it is now said, was killed by falling over a precipice in the jungle where he and Alvarez lost their way. Alvarez was injured so that he could not escape and the Carranza troops took him prisoner. The troops found Blanquet's body and took the head to Vera Cruz to prove the General's death.

Alvarez was tried by court-martial and shot in spite of a specific order of the Supreme Court in Mexico City that the execution should not take place. The order from the Supreme Court reached the authorities in Vera Cruz, but resulted only in a postponement of two hours.

Rafael Montalvo, military commander of Vera Cruz and presiding officer of the court-martial, together with General F. L. Urquizo, chief of military operations in the State of Vera Cruz, telegraphed to the Supreme Court that the War Department had ordered the execution, and that its orders had been carried out.

Feeling among the judiciary and legal fraternity is running high over the defiance shown by the military, and action in the matter is expected during the present extraordinary session of the Mexican Congress.

With Never a Vacant Chair

ONCE more the table is full in the great majority of our homes. The doubts and hopes and fears of the war have given way to a great joy—our boys are coming home—safe.

Seventy-two thousand men made the supreme sacrifice in this war, and the War Department estimates that had the war lasted until today one hundred thousand more American soldiers would have been killed in battle.

One hundred thousand American families have their home circles complete, with never a vacant chair—one hundred thousand families, who, had the war gone on for another six months would have lost the boys who are with them tonight. But they're back, boys no longer—stalwart, self-reliant men.

Germany was defeated by America's preparations. In our vast program of preparation she saw complete annihilation. So she gave up.

The Victory Liberty Loan is presented to pay for these preparations that stopped the war a year ahead of time. It is to pay for one hundred thousand of our gallant sons who would have been lost that we'll lend our dollars with gratitude in our hearts.

ROYAL

204 Coils of Liveliness

There are 204 coils in each "Royal" typebar spring —more than in the individual typebar spring of any other typewriter.

Thus not only is less finger power required to snap the "Royal" typebar to the printing point, but, its work done, the bar shoots back more quickly.

Many other exclusive improvements give the "Royal" operator a practical speed advantage in every day work. Inbuilt devices, for instance, facilitate convenient, perfect typewriting on every known form of cards, tags, labels.

Phone for a "Royal" demonstrator to explain the other exclusive features and how "Royal" durability ends the "trading-out" evil. Compare the work—the clear cut beauty of the type impression is the final advantage that makes the "Royal" choice of big business everywhere.

THE 77TH ON PARADE.

The 77th Division, which parades in New York today, had no traditions to inspire it when it went into battle. Unlike Southerners, Westerners, and New Englanders, the drafted men of the New York City division could hardly be expected to thrill at the appeal to local pride. Attachment to the soil counts for much in the case of soldiers enlisting or drawn from parts of the country that have a military history in which family names constantly recur.

To be a Virginian or a Massachusetts man is to feel the call to patriotic sacrifice and shining deeds in battle. The men of a vast city are not easily responsive to the same emotions, and when a city like New York contains men of fifty races, hosts of them alien in origin and many of them Americans of the second generation, with no Revolutionary or civil war memories to stir them when the country goes to war, it must be a strong sense of duty and a fidelity to ideals that convert them into indomitable soldiers; surely sentiment and tradition have little to do with the transformation. The 77th Division had in its ranks officers and men of what is called, with declining emphasis, the "old stock"; officers and men, too, whose fathers fought at Gettysburg as Northerners and Southerners. It also contained members of proud old families and of the "best" society, for the draft takes in men of all classes and degrees; nevertheless, the parts of the city inhabited by Americans of more recent tradition were largely represented.

Could valor and fortitude, sacrifice and heroism, result from this peculiar and uncommon blend? Would the men stand steady, fight to the last ditch, or advance fearlessly against great odds? Could the Regular Army officers and the Plattsburg graduates, high-spirited and patriotic novices in war, depend upon men who had no traditions and had been taken from the shop, the bench, and the street to fight for the Stars and Stripes in the most desperate and critical of all wars, in which civilization was at stake? No one can answer better than General Pershing:

> I want the officers and men of the 77th Division to know how much they have contributed to the success of our armies. They should go home justly proud of the gratitude of the allies with whom they have fought, and conscious of the admiration of their fellows throughout the American Expeditionary Forces.

General J. Franklin Bell was right. The men of the 77th Division, so amenable to discipline, so cheerful in the performance of duty, so quick to understand and alert to act, and so ambitious to distinguish themselves, were the stuff of which brave soldiers were made. The list of decorations won tells the story. Four officers and one enlisted man wear the Medal of Honor, which is given only for deeds of sublime heroism, and the coveted Distinguished Service Cross has been awarded to 45 officers and 112 privates. Bravery was the order of the day in the American Army on every field of battle, but rated by achievement, by the accomplishment of difficult tasks set, by the will to victory, the 77th stood high on the roll of the United States divisions in France.

Those citizens of New York who are privileged to see the 77th march past today will have a memorable experience, one to be treasured through life. New York's Own will parade well in their even lines with distances kept, but it is not a military spectacle that the people of this city go forth to see. They will behold a division that went modestly to battle to do its duty, without dreams of glory, plain civilians turned hastily into soldiers, and fought its way to victory with a gallantry that no professional soldiers could have surpassed. The 77th is gloriously democratic—never has there been a division just like it—from Major Gen. Robert Alexander, who himself rose from the ranks, to Sing Koo, the heroic Chinaman who won the Distinguished Service Cross. The lesson of the career of the 77th is that a citizen soldiery can always be depended upon in the hour of peril to save the country from its most formidable enemies.

BELGIUM SATISFIED.

Welcome and wise is the unanimous decision of the Belgian Crown Council to accept the "honorable and satisfactory" conditions offered Belgium by the Peace Conference. There was considerable outcry of some politicians and journals for a few days, but calmer counsels prevailed. It would have been a great misfortune if Belgium, to which the free world owes so much and which it admires so much, had not been able to accept the decisions of the Peace Conference, whose purpose is the re-establishment under secure guarantees of general peace and freedom. While the terms to Belgium are not yet given in clear detail, it seems that, to the amount of $500,000,000, her claim against Germany is to have priority in Germany's first payment in reparation; that her war debt is to be settled without conditions; and that the Allies will remit the advances they have made to her of some $1,200,000,000. Presumably, the industrial and other loot carried away by Germany will be restored, replaced, or paid for; and Belgium's supply of raw materials, full arrangements for her financial and economic rehabilitation, have been, or will be, provided for. It will be hard to do more for Belgium than the United States and the Allies are willing to do.

With regard to the treaties of 1839, Great Britain and France are the survivors of the five great Powers of that time. Belgium wishes to be a neutral State no longer. Her experience of guaranteed neutrality has not been fortunate. It is the League of Nations that will defend her from aggression in the future. Moreover, Great Britain and France will always have imperious reasons of self-interest to make that defense adequate and constant. That for military or other reasons the treaties of 1839 should be modified so that Belgium should recover from Holland Maastricht and a tract on the right bank of the Meuse from Eysden to Stevensweert, that she should have Dutch territory on the left bank of the Scheldt, or, say, all Zeeland Flanders, was entirely out of the question. Belgium and Holland have been pretty good friends for eighty years. The kindness of the Dutch to Belgian refugees during the war has not been forgotten. The annexation talk was a relapse into the old language of dynastic diplomacy.

The freedom of the Scheldt, the East Belgian waterways, these at least are not instant questions. A rebuilt, restored Belgium, peaceful and prosperous, is what we all want to see and what we shall see.

THE BANKS AND THE LOAN.

Secretary of the Treasury Glass frankly and officially says that he is apprehensive regarding the success of the Victory Loan. If all had done their duty as fully as he, it would be possible to say that there is no cause for apprehension. That cannot be said when the conditions in this financial centre are such that the subscriptions during this week must be three times as large as they were during the preceding two weeks together if the loan is not to fail. The Third Liberty Loan was two-thirds subscribed for the entire country as its last week opened. The Fourth Loan was one-half subscribed at the corresponding stage. Only one-third of the Victory Loan has now been subscribed as officially reported, and less than one-half if unofficial estimates be accepted.

More than $400,000,000 must be raised each day this week if the loan is to be fully taken. That is a large order if the loan is to be taken popularly, that is to say in the manner which explains the backwardness of the campaign. The books might have been closed before this if this loan were assessed upon the banks. But the Victory campaign differs from the others in that the banks must not be relied upon, except as a last resort. If there remains a shortage on Saturday, the loan will be rationed among the banks. No one need be apprehensive that the loan will not be covered, but there is need of apprehension that it will not be covered in the best manner—that is, by popular subscription.

If the loan is not taken popularly, it will be a reproach to our citizenship. As the case stands today after a fortnight's appeal that the public should do its duty, it has discharged about four-ninths of it. The case calls for 100 per cent. Americans, not for 100 per cent. banks. We have that sort of banks. The trouble with them is that they have done more than their duty, although not 524 per cent., like the women's clubs of this city, the single section of our local committees which has gone over the top. Every other division of all trades is below par, and not many are over the city's 27.9 per cent.

The loan cannot fail with the banks in reserve, but it is not much less than failure, it certainly is a reproach, that the local subscriptions are 120,930, compared with 194,868 for the preceding campaign, and that the coupon books sold number now 71,872, against 145,967. That is leaving the loan to the banks in a manner which will react upon the individual slackers. Nobody is asked to do anything for the sake of the banks. It ought not to be necessary to explain, as Chairman Strong does so clearly and convincingly, that subscriptions by the banks > would mean an expanded bank position, a continuance of unduly high prices, and an impairment of the ability of the banks to furnish credit for the country's industry and commerce, which would be an unfortunate, if not a serious, development at a time when it is so necessary to keep labor employed and business at a normal volume.

Appeals to patriotic duty and to individual interest have not been responded to so freely as is desirable. To those appeals Chairman Strong adds an appeal for first aid to general prosperity. Men, women, and children can subscribe with assurance that they will get their money back, with more than savings bank interest, and that they will further help themselves by filling up the wage fund and reducing the cost of living. Who knows of any better use for a dollar, or how dollars can be made to serve so many good uses?

GENERAL WOOD IN THE FIELD.

According to Senator Moses of New Hampshire, the Republicans of that State will favor the nomination of General Leonard Wood for President at the National Convention of 1920. General Wood is a native of New Hampshire, a citizen of Kansas. Governor Allen of the Sunflowers is as well disposed toward him as Senator Moses. The latter finds that Republican sentiment in favor of General Wood is increasing in New England as well as in the West. The only question, Mr. Moses says, is whether this general Republican good opinion of General Wood as a candidate can be "transmuted into the kind of senti-"ment that produces delegates that "nominates Presidents." That transmutation, in the absence of an unmistakable, "overpowering" public sentiment, depends, in no small degree, upon skillful political calculation, preparation, manipulation.

As a close friend of Mr. Roosevelt, as a worker for preparedness, General Wood represents the Roosevelt tradition and inheritance more fully, perhaps, than any other leader. It remains to be seen whether that will particularly commend him to Old Guard Republicans. As Governor General of Cuba, as well as in various military capacities, he has shown remarkable ability as an administrator. He has great personal charm and force, the gift or art of impressing himself upon persons whom he meets, upon crowds. It has been charged by his opponents, and is believed, perhaps, by some of his own friends, that he is sometimes indiscreet of utterance. It seems more probable, however, that his supposed indiscretions and impulsiveness of speech are pondered, intended, deliberate, as were Mr. Roosevelt's. He is an attractive, a patriotic, and an able man. It is to be observed, however, that some of his friends, including Senator Moses, make a mistake in dwelling upon his supposed grievances. "With Roosevelt," says Senator Moses, "he accepted uncom-"plainingly the fate which jealous "politicians meted out to him, and "did his full duty at home, like the "good soldier that he is." General Wood did his full duty at home.

General Wood is well liked in the East and in the West. If his friends are wise, they will dwell on his positive merits and achievements, and not rake up vainly the ashes of old grudges and suspicions. He is not only clever, but a brilliant and an engaging personality. Whether it is sagacious to put him into the field so early is another question. At any rate, among so many severely local Republican candidates he seems to be at present the one capital and national figure.

SUPPORT FOR GOVERNMENT OWNERSHIP.

Latterly it has seemed that the tide was running against Government ownership and operation, either or both. But its supporters are rallying to its help, and they are of a sort which should rally its opponents. The ten railway brotherhoods affiliated with the Federation of Labor are launching a national campaign, beginning by compelling every candidate for any national office to declare his position at the risk of losing the brotherhoods' votes. A quicker or surer way of turning the railways over from the shareholders to the unions could not be suggested. It is superior in that respect even to operation by the Interstate Commerce Commission. Whoever wants continually higher wages for a class and higher rates for all will promote the brotherhoods' campaign. The public which may not want either higher wages or rates will have its opportunity to show disapproval of an issue which makes elections turn on monetary advantage to a class large in numbers, but small in proportion to the whole electorate. There is no better way of debauching an electorate than framing issues which make politics a matter of profit. Government ownership or operation of railways for the benefit of unions, at the expense of users of the railways and to the country's detriment, deserves the doom of general disapproval.

The Commercial Telegraphers' Union of America has also begun a nation-wide campaign for Government ownership of the wire services. Postmaster General Burleson presumably would prefer other recruits to his lost cause. Volunteers who are as much opposed to the leader as in favor of the policy are troublesome. This particular union resolved that the President should return before the strike vote which they are taking becomes effective. When the Government operates the telegraphs the commercial telegraphers want a Postmaster General who will bargain with them collectively, even though they threaten a Government service with a strike. When there is a strike in a private industry Government intervention is available to compose a difficulty in the general interest. But when Government operatives strike the contest resembles civil war in its bitterness, and sometimes in its methods.

These two movements in the proportion that they succeed mark the abandonment of American labor's traditional reliance upon its economic rather than its political power. When labor relies upon its votes it makes politics class politics, rather than citizens' politics. There can be no pretense that the brotherhoods or the telegraphers propose a policy of Government ownership in the public interest. What will the Federation of Labor have to say to that? What do others than unionists think about it? How many politicians can be trusted to oppose so considerable a fraction of the various constituencies, even though on such issues their vote is weaker than their numbers, because they repel votes as well as attract them?

THE PUBLIC SERVICE COMMISSIONS.

That sound judgment which has guided Governor Smith in so many acts and appointments is exhibited again in his naming of Mr. Lewis Nixon as Regulatory Public Service Commissioner in this district. It is comforting to hear Mr. Nixon's disclaimer of "preconceived opinion." He does not take this responsible office with intent to reorganize the vast public utility business of the community to fit his own theories of what ought to be done in that field to make the world better and purer. In the discharge of his duties he is to be guided by the simple, old-fashioned notion that he is to apply the laws of the State. Nor does he come to this trust as a man whose capacity is yet to be proved. In his career as a shipbuilder he has given abundant evidence of his great ability in organization and achievement. He has made an excellent record in administrative offices, and his personal reputation and character are of the highest. It is an appointment worthy of all praise.

It is to be regretted that William Barclay Parsons is unable to accept the Governor's appointment as head of the Commission charged with supervising construction work. In this appointment, as in naming Mr. Nixon, the Governor was actuated solely by the desire to get the best man for the place. Colonel Parsons's great experience in connection with subway building is a sufficient demonstration of his fitness. It is to be hoped that Governor Smith will be able to persuade some man of similarly conspicuous qualifications to take the place.

STARVING RUSSIA.

Mr. Tchitcherin says that Dr. Nansen's proposal to have the Allies feed Russia under the supervision of a neutral commission will not do for several reasons. In the first place, "these neutrals are our bitter enemies." This bitter enmity consists merely in the fact that the neutrals have withdrawn their diplomatic and consular forces from Soviet Russia, and that they have not shown any weakening before attempts to overthrow their own Governments by forcible revolution. As to the latter, no Government resting on the consent of the people is going to surrender to an armed minority; while the withdrawal of the diplomats was due to the Bolshevist reign of terror, which made it unsafe for anybody but Bolsheviki to live in Moscow or Petrograd. If you walk around a vicious dog and raise your stick when he approaches you, this does not imply personal hostility toward the dog, but merely an intelligent desire for self-preservation.

Moreover, Dr. Nansen's plan does not permit a Bolshevist commission to see that none of the allied countries make any transfers of troops; and it does not end the blockade, which, says Tchitcherin, "is the real reason for our food difficulties." Mr. Raymond Robins also pleads for the raising of the blockade, and tells us of the terrible things that are likely to happen if we do not remember that you cannot oppose ideas with bayonets. Now, it seems to a good many people that the difficulties of Mr. Lenin and his associates are due very largely to their insistence on opposing with bayonets any ideas that conflict with their own. They now want us to raise the blockade so that Russia can have food. In 1913, the last year before the war, Russia produced more than a billion bushels of wheat—as much as all the rest of Europe, 25 per cent. more than the United States, more than a quarter of the world's crop. Russia led the world in rye in that year. Why does such a grain-growing nation, or rather a certain part of it, have to be fed from the outside by a world itself on short rations? And why does it have to be fed only under such and such conditions, of a political rather than an economic character?

With all allowance for the sufferings of Russia in the first three years of the war, it is hard to escape the conclusion that her food difficulties are due to the Bolsheviki themselves. Many witnesses have said that their system of confiscation of all grain over a minimum for the peasant's family has discouraged planting; they do not seem to have done anything in the way of improving Russian transportation; their system has discouraged individual enterprise except in the revolutionary tribunals. Such food as Russia had they used to feed their soldiers and their civilian supporters; all others could starve. Mr. Tchitcherin wants the blockade abolished so that a Russia which he and his colleagues have made unable to feed herself can import food from the outside world, which will be distributed like the home crops, to the friends of the existing Government. That is why all neutrals seem to him no better than enemies.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Gov. Sproul's Ideas on the Teaching of German.

The Pennsylvania Senate, by a vote of 43 to 3, passed a bill to prohibit the teaching of German in the schools. The House passed it by 180 to 7. These are impressive figures. Nevertheless, Governor Sproul has vetoed it, advising the Legislature that we "must not be hysterical in our patriotism." The basis of his veto is that the people should have "the advantage of every facility in education which will help them to meet the competition of other peoples in every part of the world."

If that is true, it is obvious that Spanish, Italian, Portuguese, and French should also be taught in the schools. There is no particular reason for singling out German. The war has rearranged things considerably. It is quite likely that there will be less need in the future for understanding German when conducting business than for understanding the languages spoken in the southern part of the Western Hemisphere, Spanish and Portuguese. There may even be advantages in being able to talk to a Belgian over what there are in being able to talk to a German. Germany is not likely to do so much business, for some time to come, as she did in the past. Russia, too, will be a great country when she has rid herself of the Bolshevist despotism, as she seems in the way of doing.

The objection to including so many languages in the school curriculum is that it would be overloaded and that there must be a choice. If so, why single out German? Of course, everybody knows the answer, at least everybody except Governor Sproul. It is that some German-Americans want German to be taught. It pleases their pride, but it does not do their children any good; for the children learn the language at home far better than they can in any school.

American Soldiers in French Universities.

One of the wonders of the war—for who would have dreamed it a few years ago?—is that thousands of American youths, who perhaps never expected to set foot on the soil of France, are attending French universities as soldier-students. There are 1,711 at the Sorbonne, 1,107 at Toulouse, 558 at Montpellier, 376 at Lyons, 371 at Grenoble, and many others at institutions ancient and only less famous. As many as 5,800 Americans are registered. Most of them were college men at home. They are now learning not only the French language, but history, the sciences, literature, and philosophy, as taught by the most eminent French professors, with aid from Americans like Professors J. L. Coolidge, C. H. Haskins, and G. T. Shotwell. They are acquainting themselves, these soldier-students fresh from the battlefield and military duty, with French traditions, sentiment, methods, manners. They are receiving a polish, a finish, not always attainable at home, where dispatch is often of more consequence than thoroughness.

The idea of admitting American soldiers to French institutions of learning originated with that many-sided and accomplished gentleman, High Commissioner André Tardieu, to whom Americans are indebted for so many things, and who has been a wise counselor and a pillar of strength in the great war. His motive was, of course, friendly. His object was to bring about a better understanding between his countrymen and the Americans, as well as to afford our officers and soldiers an opportunity to continue their education in France and forget their nostalgia in the lecture rooms and libraries of its great universities.

The Subway Blockade.

There hardly is a spot in the city which is such a focal point for all sorts of travel as that where the Interborough tracks were blocked yesterday. The Brooklyn elevated line and the Broadway subway are available there, and too many local and crossbridge surface lines to be specified. Yet the switching of a train which blocked a single terminal stopped all traffic on two subways for the better part of an hour, and inconvenienced many thousands. The nuisance would have been greater in the old days if the ferries had suddenly been stopped, or if the single bridge had been closed. Now there are so many bridges and tunnels that complete blocking of travel between this and other boroughs is hardly a possibility.

What yesterday's incident shows is that "terminals" are undesirable when they can be avoided, and that means should be provided for making use of alternative routes around or through them when they are unavoidable. It is no fault of the Interborough that this train was switched at a terminal which will cease to be a terminal when the route is completed, the trains running right through that station. But there must be terminals somewhere, and accidents may block the lines anywhere. In such cases it would seem that better use might be made of alternative routes. The two Interborough subways come together at other points than where travel was stopped yesterday, and it would seem that quicker relief might have been given. The rival systems might help each other by a system of emergency transfers on such occasions. And even subways need some provision for switching trains back before reaching an obstruction, or for getting around it. Admittedly there is a difficulty about it, but it would seem that a block on the east side line should not also block the west side line. Similarly, if the Broadway subway is blocked over one bridge there ought to be some way of diverting the travel, if not switching the trains, to another bridge or tunnel; and this should be done in shorter fractions of an hour than is customary. Yesterday's experience shows that travel piles up marvelously even in five minutes.

DRUGS IN FLORIDA.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

My attention is called to an article on page 32 of the current issue of The Literary Digest, entitled "American Enslavement to Drugs," in which reference is made to an article which appeared in your paper, (I understand in your issue of April 13,) from which the following is quoted:

"There are 800 victims of the drug habit in Jacksonville, Fla., out of a population of 7,000. There is a law in Jacksonville requiring registration, and it is strictly enforced, so that the complete statistics available are considered to have a broad significance for other parts of the country where as yet data are difficult to obtain."

I take it for granted that stating the population of Jacksonville as 7,000 is clearly a typographical error, and that the statement was intended to read 70,000. The result of this error is to convey the shockingly erroneous impression that more than 10 per cent. of the people of Jacksonville are addicts to drug habits, and with it the intimation that this ratio prevails throughout the country. Certainly nothing could have been further from your intention, and I am sure you will cheerfully and promptly make correction.

It is probable that the figures with respect to Jacksonville are several years old, going back possibly to 1913, when the records of the City Health Department showed 887 registered drug addicts, and the population of the city was slightly less than 70,000. At the present time, out of a population of approximately 85,000, there are only 101 registered drug addicts. I think this great reduction in the number of cases, despite a substantial increase in population, should be emphasized, in justice to the city and its efficient method of handling this evil.

Poe in Philadelphia.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Discussion and controversy have raged about the name of Edgar Allan Poe for many years; ever since a New York newspaper (The Tribune) published, two days after his death, a "cruel deprecatory notice of his life and works" by Griswold over the pseudonym of "Ludwig." The merits of some of the arguments will never be decided and all the opinions, favorable and otherwise, have the effect of helping to keep Poe's memory and fame alive and to keep his statue out of halls of fame. For both of these things, those who love beautiful letters are thankful.

There has been some interest lately in the place where "The Raven" was written and Mr. Huneker has claimed to know the house in Philadelphia where this famous poem was composed. It is known that Poe and his family came from Richmond to New York in 1837 and lived in Carmine Street. His fortunes not changing for the better, he removed to Philadelphia late in 1838 when he became one of the editorial staff of the Gentleman's Magazine, an established publication.

During his life in Philadelphia he did much of his best work and enjoyed his greatest prosperity and comfort, while making enemies among those in the ranks of mediocrity by his criticisms. In 1844 Poe removed to New York and "The Raven" first appeared in Colton's American Review for February, 1845, over the pseudonym "Quarles," the sum of ten dollars being paid for it. As Poe did not go to Fordham until the Summer of 1846, the claim that "The Raven" was written there seems to lack evidence. His best known but by no means best work was written according to the records in old New York but whether in Amity Street or Carmine Street is undecided.

Greek Aspirations.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

May I thank The New York Times for the excellent rendering of my interview published in the issue of this morning? There is, however, an important point on which a correction should be made. I am reported to have said: "We expect Thrace and Smyrna and think we are sure of getting Macedonia and the Island of Crete."

Now, Southern Macedonia and Crete have already been in our hands since 1913, and have, evidently, by a slip of the pen, been put down instead of Northern Epirus and the Dodecanese, (Rhodes and the surrounding islands.)

As far as Thrace and Asia Minor are concerned, it is imperative to be understood that Greece has not claimed everything she was entitled to, but only the Adrianople Vilayet (Constantinople excluded) and the Province of Smyrna, leaving out the four-ninths of the Greeks of Asia Minor.

Mr. Venizelos has thus excluded from his claims not only provinces historically Greek, where the Greeks are now in minority, but also provinces, as Constantinople and Pontus, where arguments of a diplomatic nature could be raised against the principle of self-determination.

In consequence, Mr. Venizelos is satisfied that unless gross injustice is done he will get everything he has asked for.

THE TOUCHSTONE.

How proudly may they tread the Avenue
Who cast their lives upon the turn of chance,
For a great cause, and brought them back
From death, changed and surcharged
With deathless glory! All life, before,
Lead up to this; all life must sink away
How many little rills of noiseless lives
Creep through the vastness of this world
And sink into the unresponding sea!
How many forceful torrents dash in vain
Against great rocks, and lose themselves in vapor!
How many silent pools reflect the grass and sky
How few majestic rivers, at the flood, bear argosies
And fleets, and water smiling lands!
To each of us there comes the one great moment,
To choose, "To give and hazard all he hath,"
For that great prize to which his soul aspires.
By each of us, the choice is made alone;
But, when a great cause calls, we pay together.
A glorious light falls on our faces then;
And, be it narrow street or flag-starred Avenue,
We walk, henceforth, in pride;
For, by that touchstone, we have tried our souls.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE WITH OUR RAILWAYS?

A Plan of Reorganization Suggested Under Which the Best Features of Competition and Government Control Can Be Retained.

By HENRY W. TAFT.
First Article.

In a recent speech before the General Assembly of Iowa, Senator Cummins very truly said that, with the exception of the League of Nations, the most important and the most difficult reconstruction problem confronting the country is the adjustment of the relation between the Government and the railroads. Railroad managers, holders of railroad securities, bankers, labor leaders, shippers, State railroad commissions, and others have proposed plans for the reorganization of the national railroad system. But in most of these plans the authors have failed sufficiently to heed the admonition of Senator Cummins that "transportation by railway" must be regarded "as a governmental function." Yet it is undoubtedly that consideration which will be most potent with Congress when it comes to deal with the subject.

While the experience of the country since the Government took over the railroads has inclined public opinion against Government operation, that is because such operation cannot be made economical or efficient—it is not because the people have ceased to believe that the ownership of railroads is affected by a public trust. Indeed, if the public had not become convinced that their interests would not be best subserved by Government operation, it is probable that the roads would never be returned to private operation; and it is quite certain that when they are returned they will be under much closer regulation than ever before, especially if they are to enjoy a Government guarantee in any form.

The idea is now quite prevalent that the railroads of the country should be consolidated into a comparatively few large systems, and it is also generally conceded that in some definite way their credit must be established, so as to enable them in the future to procure necessary capital requirements. If this is accomplished through a Government guarantee, ordinary business considerations will lead to a much closer association between the Government and the railroads for the protection of the Government's obligation. Indeed, with a more direct responsibility resting upon the Government with reference to both rates and wages, the arrangement will be but one step from Government ownership and operation, and its success will largely depend on Government Responsibility.

Advantages to be Preserved.

An adequate plan can probably be worked out before the expiration of the period within which under the Railroad Control act the roads must be returned to the companies. If the Government had decided to shorten this period, as Mr. McAdoo proposed, the result might have been a return to pre-war conditions, modified only by amendments of the anti-trust law and other similar statutes, permitting pooling agreements among competing lines. Such a result would have been extremely unsatisfactory.

The war made it necessary to take over the roads from the companies. The transfer was made without undue disturbance, automatically many problems were thereby settled which in normal times by the slow process of evolution would probably have occupied years in discussion, and an opportunity unexpectedly developed for a permanent solution of the entire railroad problem. But a mere restoration of pre-war conditions, even if combinations and pooling agreements are permitted, would probably not go far in the direction of settling the relations between the Government and the companies, of stabilizing rates and wages or of improving the service; and unless we succeed in making a permanent improvement in such things as these, we shall not have made the best of the opportunity which the war has fortuitously opened up. For, however unsatisfactory some features of Government operation have been, there has been a convincing demonstration of many important advantages due to unified control, and the lesson would be largely lost if the roads were turned back without at the same time embodying these advantages permanently in the transportation system of the country. Fortunately, there is a fair prospect that this may be accomplished; but it will not be unless the railroad owners become reconciled to a much closer relationship to the Government than has heretofore existed.

A Plan Outlined.

Having in view the foregoing considerations, I suggest for consideration a plan of reorganization upon the basis of the following general lines, viz.:

1. Let some governmental agency divide the country into regions with reference to existing currents of trunk line traffic, and in such a manner that competition shall exist between groups of roads in one region and those in each contiguous region.

2. Create in each region a Federal corporation with one class of stock and one class of bonds, and under contract with the Government to acquire, by the issue of these securities in exchange for those of existing companies, or by the exercise of the right of eminent domain, all of the roads within the region.

3. Let the Government guarantee (a) interest on the bonds at such a rate that the bonds may be sold at not less than par, and (b) dividends on the stock at 4 per cent. Subject to a readjustment after a fixed period of years, the stockholders shall also be entitled to receive additional dividends, if earned, of 2 per cent., and to share equally with the Government any net earnings in excess of an aggregate of 6 per cent. on the stock.

4. As a result of the foregoing the Government will necessarily participate more than in the past in the fixing of both rates and wages.

Fundamental Considerations.

I. Of the first importance is the creation of a transportation system which will be an effective instrument for the development of the social, political, economic and commercial life of the nation. This cannot be done without the cooperation of the general public, the investing public, the traveling and shipping interests, labor, organized and unorganized, and expert railroad managers. The problem is complex and difficult. It needs for its solution the thoughtful attention of every one knowing anything about the subject without undue bias caused by particular interest. It is no time for a business "trade" in the ordinary sense.

II. The interest of the present owners of the railway systems must next be considered. To fail to give this just and sympathetic consideration would result in a subtle form of confiscation. There is a popular misconception as to who these owners are. They consist of the stockholders and the bondholders. While, through long association with particular properties, certain bankers and financial interests are supposed to own some railway systems, the fact is that far more than half of the railroad securities, both stock and bonds, now outstanding is owned by investors either individually or through such financial institutions as savings banks and life insurance companies. It is said that seventeen billions of railroad capital are owned by 50,000,000 people, directly or indirectly. The influence that bankers have exercised in the management of some of the larger systems of the country has not been based upon their ownership of securities of the roads, but has been rather due to small investors seeking their advice and assistance. Additional railway capital will constantly be needed, since railroads are never finished, and it must continue to come from the millions of small investors, whether under Government ownership it is raised by the sale of Government securities, or under private ownership through the financial operations of private corporations. In either case it is vital that new financial structures be so erected that investors in railroad securities be not subjected again to the instability which the governmental policy of the recent past has caused.

Past Evils Remedied.

It is undoubtedly true that in the early days the questionable, and even dishonest, gains of railroad contractors from branch line construction or of managers in the acquisition of extensions in which they had a personal interest, overcapitalization, stock gambling, secret rebates, and illegal pooling, were common; but through bankruptcies and other corporate transmutations the water has been largely squeezed out of railroad securities, the sins of reactionary and rebellious railroad managers, owners and stock jobbers, have been expiated, and the railroads of the country are now owned in large part by the smaller investors who have honestly paid for their stock and bonds at market prices. For a long time after the Interstate Commerce law and the anti-trust law were passed, railroad managers generally adopted the unwise policy of opposing efforts of governmental agencies designed for the proper adjustment of the relation between the railroads and the Government. They treated the Interstate Commerce Commission with little respect, and they did nothing of a constructive character to help to solve the problem. But remedies were finally found, although, as often results from excessive opposition, the pendulum swung too far and the legislative and administrative correctives became too radical, with the result that for a number of years before the Government took over the railroads the companies were denied bare justice in the matter of rates, their life blood. For some time before the war the Interstate Commerce Commission persistently refused to heed petitions for increases of rates which were generally regarded as meritorious, and were certainly needed to prevent financial embarrassment. It is largely due to the fact that it was thought that the railroads were not being, and would not be, treated with justice, that the credit of the railroads became seriously impaired by investors refusing to buy their securities, particularly their bonds.

The policy of the Government has not been sufficiently changed in the management of the railroads under the Federal Control act. In the fixing of the standard return under the power conferred by that law, the Director General has sometimes failed to give adequate consideration to the peculiar conditions brought about by the Interstate Commerce Commission itself, through its refusal for several years to establish just rates, and particularly in the case of the weaker roads which needed the special treatment which the law permitted the Director General to accord to them.

Thus, it has come about that first the Interstate Commerce Commission, by refusing to raise the rates, kept down the net earnings, and then in fixing the standard return the Director General did not always consider the situation which the Government itself had thus brought about. If the injustice of this situation is not recognized and compensated for in any plan that may be adopted, not alone will the present investor be damaged, but the difficulty of obtaining money for future needs will be greatly increased.

The Labor Problem.

III. Labor must be fairly treated, and the power of the Government must in some direct or indirect way be employed to accomplish that result. A fair return for labor is, of course, just as important as a just return to capital. Indeed, many thoughtful observers of world conditions believe that the next decade is to be an era of a participation by labor greater than ever in the profits of production of all kinds. Furthermore, in the past the fixing of wages has been too much regarded as a matter solely between capital and labor, that is, between owners and employes; and satisfactory results have not come to either party. In the emergency of the war the Government, through increased rates, has made the public pay for the increase of wages, and hereafter, whether the Government or the companies own and operate the roads, the interdependence of rates and wages will probably, more than in the past, become the basis of all calculation. If this be true, there will always be three parties involved in all wage controversies, viz: the owners, (especially if they have an interest in the profits in excess of any amount guaranteed to security holders by the Government,) the employes and the Government representing the public. Any increased operating cost, caused by a readjustment of wages, must be borne by the owners and the public in some just proportion, and in fixing the proportion the Government will be interested even more than the owners, who will have the larger part of the return upon their securities assured by the Government guarantee.

State Regulation.

IV. To what extent State utilities commissions shall continue to exercise powers of regulation is an important question. If the plan proposed above is adopted it will avoid the necessity for intervention by State commissions in some matters, particularly in the supervision of the issue of corporate securities. So, too, with consolidated systems owned by Federal corporations and extending through a number of States, with their most important traffic having an interstate aspect, there will probably be but few and unimportant intrastate rates for them to regulate. Still there will remain local interests which can be dealt with by State commissions more adequately and to the greater satisfaction of localities than by a distant Federal commission; and in such matters these powers should not be interfered with.

Mr. Taft's second article on this subject will appear in tomorrow's issue.

LAND GUNS REPEL RED DVINA FLOTILLA

Three Attacks on Positions Held by Americans, British, and Russians Fail.

LOSE ALSO ON VAGA SECTOR

Allied Troops There Kill 70 and Capture 54 in Two Brushes with the Enemy.

ARCHANGEL, May 3. (Associated Press.)—Allied forces succeeded Thursday in repulsing the first attack by Bolshevist gunboats on the Dvina. The enemy fleet attempted to approach the positions held by American, British, and Russian forces on the right bank of the river, but failed, the Allies having guns mounted which covered all parts of the channel.

On Friday the enemy again attacked twice the allied positions near the junction with the Vaga, but were driven off by the guns of the land batteries, which outranged the weapons of the flotilla.

On the Vaga sector, the Bolsheviki suffered severe losses on Thursday, when, after a long bombardment, they attacked the village of Bereznik, which was defended by Russian and British infantry and American engineers. Moving to the north of the village, the Bolshevist infantry attempted to penetrate the allied wire entanglements. They were completely repulsed, leaving seventy dead in front of the wire defenses and in the forest nearby. Thirty-four prisoners were taken as well as one machine gun and fifty rifles. The allied casualties were only four wounded.

Another enemy force which attempted to cut the allied line of communications east of the Vaga was also repulsed. Twenty of this party surrendered when surrounded by the Allies. Artillery fire continues in this sector.

There was slight artillery activity Friday on the Vologda Railway front.

The feeling in Archangel is that the crisis on the Dvina river front has passed. The Bolsheviki, it is believed, delayed too long in grasping the advantage offered when the Dvina became open for navigation. The ice has broken up in the river near Archangel and, though the channel is still a mass of swiftly floating ice cakes, it is only a matter of a few days until the allied gunboats can force their way upstream and go to the aid of the allied land defenses.

Mud and slush have succeeded the deep snow on the fighting fronts and the period of nineteen hours of daylight has replaced the Winter darkness.

SMALL BRITISH FORCE DISARMED RED ARMY

How General Maynard Saved Murmansk from Becoming a U-Boat Base.

By ARTHUR E. COPPING.

MURMANSK, May 5, (via London.)—Following through inquiries, I am able to explain why and when the British came to Russia, precisely how hostilities with the Bolsheviki began, and how it comes about that a grave menace now overhangs not only our troops on the Archangel fronts but also thousands of Russians, civil and military, who welcomed our course and have lent us active aid.

Accompanied by a small force [about 230 infantry, 100 machine gunners and 100 Royal Engineers with a few details] and preceded by 400 marines General Maynard on June 23 last landed at Murmansk with the object of thwarting definite German plans for establishing a submarine base there and—it was reported—for handing the port over to Finland in payment for military aid, copper and iron.

Certain it is that General Maynard, with his insignificant force, entertained no hostile intentions against the Russian Soviet Government, but the Russian Soviet Government took abrupt aggressive measures against Maynard and his force. The General was traveling southward when a deliberate attempt was made to derail his train.

At Kandalakska he met the Bolshevist commander at the head of a considerable armed force, who announced that he intended to take possession of Murmansk and the railway, and that he had a large body of reinforcements following him up the line. On demurring the English commander found himself openly flouted and defied.

Instantly he had to make a momentous decision. It was one of those occasions when the fortunes of Britain hung on the lips of one of her sons.

There was no reason to suppose that the ill-organized, inexperienced, and perplexed Soviet Government was acting on its own initiative in thus throwing down the gage to Russia's powerful former allies. There is every reason to suppose that the initiative was communicated from Germany. Moreover, General Maynard already knew of the approach of German troops across Finland.

In a flash, then, the alternative was presented, on the one hand to bow to superior force and suffer the Soviet troops to proceed northward and so allow Germany to achieve her darling project of establishing a submarine base outside the huge allied mine field defenses—a base from which she would have had unrestricted opportunity to play havoc with British, American, and neutral shipping—and on the other hand, to oppose force to the Soviet force.

"I cannot allow you to proceed," said Maynard.

Thereupon the excited Bolshevist commander declared he needed nobody's permission to carry out his orders and that he was able to deal effectively with all efforts that might be made to hinder him.

Returning to the railway he found the compact little Allied force drawn across the line with a machine gun on either flank. The excited Bolshevist commander was now enraged, and as his following became disorderly and violent Maynard had no option but to disarm them. Afterward, proceeding down the line, he met the Bolshevist re-enforcements at Kem and disarmed them also, taking altogether sixty machine guns and 10,000 rifles.

Thus did Britain declare war on the Bolsheviki, or as I should prefer to put it, thus did the Bolsheviki declare war on Britain and her allies, and thus were the champions of liberty and civilization spared a vast augmentation of the devilish underwater peril which already had taken so heavy a toll of lives, food, and ships.

FINNISH GUARDS SAVE PETROGRAD REDS

LONDON, May 5.—Finnish Red Guards are now masters of the situation at Petrograd, according to a dispatch from Copenhagen to The Mail. They have arrested members of the Danish Red Cross in that city, and it is reported that they intend to march against the Finnish White Guards.

A state of siege was proclaimed in Petrograd Sunday, according to a wireless message from Tsarskoe Selo. The Soviet Government has appointed a Committee of Three and given it unlimited power over the city and district of Petrograd.

Reports were received on Saturday from Paris that "Finnish forces" had occupied Petrograd. Apparently the Finnish Red Guards, who took refuge in Russia when driven out of their own country by General Mannheim, now Regent of Finland, have suppressed a revolt in Petrograd, rumors of which have reached the outside world from time to time.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—All possible precautions against the Bolshevist menace have been taken by the Government of Denmark, said a cablegram received today by the Danish Legation from the Foreign Office at Copenhagen. Russian propagandists have been expelled from the country, the Bolshevist Bureau of Information in Copenhagen dissolved, and the circulation of Russian money forbidden.

"From time to time," said the cablegram, "Bolshevist agitators try to get into Denmark disguised as Red Cross officials, but they are soon ordered out of the country by the Danish authorities. A Dr. Bero, who declared himself to be the official representative of the Russian Red Cross, but who was really a Russian propagandist has just been expelled from Denmark with his wife and all his secretaries and clerks."

ABDUCTION TRIAL PUT OFF.

Viola Mueller Stricken Speechless and Unable to Appear.

When detectives of the West 125th Street Station went to the Children's Society rooms in East Twenty-second Street yesterday to get Viola Mueller, 15 years old, who was to enter a complaint against Benjamin Sherman, a manufacturer, 27 years old, of 995 Simpson Street, the Bronx, it was learned that the girl had been stricken speechless and her appearance before the Grand Jury was postponed indefinitely.

The girl vanished from her home at Newark, N. J., on April 9, and was found in a rooming house at 113 East Twenty-sixth Street on April 18. Her story led to the arrest of Sherman on a charge of abduction, and the Grand Jury investigation was to have been held yesterday. At the time she was located by the police in this city she could speak plainly, and her sudden affliction was a puzzle to the physicians who examined her.

Mrs. Regina Mueller, of 20 Baldwin Street, Newark, feared it was another Ruth Cruger case. Sherman told the police at the time of his arrest that he had taken the girl to the rooming house because he felt sorry for her. He said she had approached him in Broadway, near Thirty-sixth Street, declaring she was in trouble, and had beseeched his help.

FEARS LEATHER PROFITEER.

Head of Tanners' Council Sees Danger to Trade in Higher Prices.

Warning to the leather trade, to keep the raw material market well in hand against speculative "fever" and consequent increases in shoe prices which would hurt the trade, was sounded last night by Fred A. Vogel, President of the Tanners' Council of the United States.

"There is not the slightest doubt in the minds of many of our members that we have at least eighteen months of splendid business ahead of us if the situation is handled correctly," Mr. Vogel said. "If, on the other hand, we allow the situation to get out of hand and see raw materials advancing beyond all reason, there will come a sudden check to our business which will be detrimental, and the effects of which will be felt for a year to come.

"Shoes already are at unprecedented prices, and if these advances continue they will no doubt be marked up several dollars a pair for the Fall business."

BAL BLEU A FINE SPECTACLE AT RITZ

BIG SISTERS IN TABLEAUX

Their Charitable Work in Children's Court Depicted—Great Array of Society and Stage Stars.

The Bal Bleu attracted a large assembly last night at the Ritz-Carlton. It was a spectacular and brilliant event, and the culmination of a long list of balls and entertainments which society has sponsored since the signing of the armistice. The proceeds will be devoted to the support of the work carried on by the Big Sisters.

This organization carries on its charity among the juveniles who come into the jurisdiction of the Children's Court and has three branches—the Catholic, under the direction of Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr.; the Protestant, with Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt in charge, and the Jewish, under the supervision of Mrs. Sidney C. Borg. For some days the committee in charge of the ball have been carrying on a spirited sale of tickets in a room donated by John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at 681 Fifth Avenue.

Many dinners preceded the ball, the hostesses bringing their guests afterward to the affair. The fancy costumes that were worn did not represent any set period, but mostly followed out the combination of blue and white—blue costumes and wigs of white.

The ball was not really under way until 11:30, when a special program was presented in an Urban setting, which entirely transformed the ballroom. This was called the Ziegfeld Frolic de Luxe, arranged and directed by Ned Wayburn.

It was after 1 o'clock before the Ben Ali Haggin tableaux were shown, which depicted the Big Sisters, and something of their charitable work. "The Greatest of These Is Charity," and "The Writing on the Wall" were other pictures of the series.

Entertainment of various picturesque sorts began simultaneously with the frolic in the dining room and in the palm room, to accommodate the throngs. Sixty Ziegfeld beauties took part in the frolic, including the nine recently brought from overseas. Nymphs, fauns, and satyrs appeared in a Greek ballet.

Lillian Lorraine, Delyle Alda, Fannie Brice, Hal Hixon, Van and Schenck, Jonny Dooley, Mrs. Ben Ali Haggin, Clifton Webb, Virginia Eastman, Jane Green, Nate Leipzig, Elizabeth Hines, and Mabel Ferry were among those who took part. Irving Berlin prepared and sung a special song in honor of General Robert Alexander, commander of the 77th Division, who was the guest of honor.

Among those who reserved tables in the ballroom and dining room were Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Mrs. Henry M. Tilford, Mrs. James A. Burden, Mrs. William Goadby Loew, Mrs. Charles J. Welch, Mrs. Mortimer L. Schiff, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. Nicholas Brady, Mrs. George Leary, Mrs. Frederick Lewisohn, Mrs. Clarence H. Mackay, Mrs. F. Burrall Hoffman, Mrs. John Wanamaker, Jr., Mrs. Stanhope Nixon, Mrs. John Drexel, Mrs. M. L. Morgenthau, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. James W. Gerard, Mrs. Ralph Pulitzer, Mrs. William J. Schieffelin, Mrs. Cornelius N. Bliss, and Mrs. E. H. Gary.

I. W. W. CONVENTION MILD.

Chicago Police Warned Delegates Radical Talk Would Mean Raid.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—Peace and quiet reigned today at the first day's session of the I. W. W. convention. The delegates, who came from all parts of the country, had been warned that plain clothes men were waiting to raid the meeting at the first utterance of radicalism.

After a score of heated arguments the convention voted to throw the doors open to the public. Routine business and the reading of resolutions and recommendations submitted by delegates made up the opening day's program. All branches of the organization appeared unanimous in approval of a general strike in this country on July 4 next for the liberation of I. W. W.'s sent to prison during the war.

The attendance was disappointing. There were only fifty-four delegates present and less than fifty spectators. This is the first national convention of the I. W. W. since 1916. The delegates were called to order by L. E. Woodruff, Chairman.

A resolution of protest against the I. W. W. convention was unanimously adopted today by the City Council, a compromise for a drastic order to the police proposed by Alderman Walter Steffen.

SUE COUNTESS FOR $37,000.

Charged with Failing to Pay for Jewelry Bought in Paris.

Evelyn, Comtesse de Perigny, who is the daughter of the late Jabez Bostwick, of 800 Fifth Avenue, and whose husband served as a Sub-Lieutenant in the 19th French Dragoons through the war, was sued in the Supreme Court yesterday for $37,000 for jewelry purchased in October, 1917, in Paris, for which the Comtesse agreed to pay by a bill of exchange due Jan. 5, 1918.

The gems included a necklace of 75 pearls, $19,000; brooch set with black pearl and two white pearls, $11,000, and ring worth $4,000. The suit is brought on an assigned claim of Lloyds, which guaranteed payment. The defendant owns a residence in Paris and an estate at Boulogne-sur-Seine. The property of the defendant was attached in the suit.

Davison Heads Red Cross League.

PARIS, May 5.—Henry P. Davison was elected Chairman of the Governing Board of the League of Red Cross Societies, which was organized here today. The league is the outgrowth of plans developed by committees of Red Cross societies during the conference held at Cannes recently.

All the world's Red Cross societies will be members of the league, which will be controlled by a general council, composed of representatives of the societies and with the governing board of fifteen members.

Miss Stern to Wed J. R. Klarsfield.

The engagement is announced of Miss Rose Mildred Stern, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Morris Stern of Vivian Villa, North Branch, N. J., to Jerome R. Klarsfield, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Klarsfield of 216 East Twenty-eighth Street, this city, and who was formerly in the advertising department of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HUGHES CONDEMNS LYNCHING OF NEGRO

Says America Cannot Be Exemplar of Justice While Mob Violence Endures.

ESSENCE OF HUN SPIRIT

Speakers at National Conference Demand Lawless Killings Cease in Justice to Black Soldiers.

The United States can never properly appear as the exemplar of justice to the world as long as the negro, because he is a negro, is denied justice in certain sections of the country, declared Charles E. Hughes, condemning lynching and mob violence at the National Conference on Lynching in Carnegie Hall last night. Mr. Hughes described lynching as a manifestation of the Hun spirit, adding that the country owed it to the negroes who served in the war to abolish forever its practice.

"Justice in America is not to be bought," said Mr. Hughes. "It is not necessary that any one should give his blood, either directly or vicariously, to obtain justice in this country. But to the black man, who in this crisis has proved his bravery, his honor and his loyalty to our institutions, we certainly owe the performance of this duty, and we should let it be known from this time on, in recognition of that supreme service, that the black man shall have the rights guaranteed to him by the Constitution of the United States."

Other speakers were Dr. Anna Howard Shaw, Brig. Gen. John H. Sherburne, commander of the 167th Artillery Brigade of the 92d Division, a brigade whose enlisted personnel was entirely composed of negroes; Emmet O'Neal, ex-Governor of Alabama, and Moorfield Storey of Boston, Chairman of the National Conference on Lynching, who presided.

At the outset Mr. Hughes said that where courts are open and the processes of justice are available, lynching is murder of the foulest sort. He brought the 2,500 negroes and whites in the audience to their feet when he declared the principles involved in the proposed covenant of the League of Nations should begin at home.

Says Justice Must Begin at Home.

"We are hearing much these days of the drawing together of the nations in co-operation to establish international justice," he said. "There has been a suggestion made with respect to the manner in which there may be exercised guardianship by the strong and civilized nations over those less favored which have been called 'backward peoples.' It has been said in the most formal manner in the Covenant of the League of Nations that the well-being and development of these peoples is the most sacred trust of civilization. I say that duty begins at home.

"Little can be done in the cause of international justice unless nations establish strongly and securely the foundations of justice within their own borders. The salvation of democracy must lie in the days of peace after victory, when citizens under a democratic Government prove themselves capable of self-restraint and able to maintain a Government assuring the justice in whose cause they have professed to go forth and fight for victory.

"I am not one disposed to fear the legitimate freedom of speech and the press. I do not think we can ever accomplish much for democracy by stifling the essential organs of democracy. Where there is an opportunity on every hand for education and an avidity for information; where our schools are established in every hamlet, we must needs despair of humanity itself if we think we cannot govern ourselves without destroying the essential liberties of speech and of the press.

"I look with confidence into the future, no matter what absurd and foolish preachments from those who are nothing but visionaries and impractical. I bottom my confidence upon the sober sense of an intelligent electorate. There is, however, no hope for the future of any community, however it may phrase its formal language in constitution or in statements of Governmetal principle, if there is abroad a disposition to overturn the processes of justice and to enthrone mob violence and the rule of force. That is the path to sure destruction. You cannot expect a lawless sentiment to be confined to any section of the country. If lawlessness succeeds in one place it will break out in another.

Calls Lynching Hunlike.

"Today, in New York, our security is simply in the sentiment of law and order and nothing else. And you cannot dethrone justice in the South and let lynching go unpunished there and expect to be secure in the metropolis of New York.

"We have not destroyed the menace of force because we have licked the Kaiser; the menace of force resides in every community. The menace of force is the Hun-like spirit which resides in every man who wants to take his little authority or place of advantage, whether he is an employer or employe, and by virtue of force, without inquiry into the justice of the demand, without any solution of the grave and difficult problem that may be involved, simply impose his will because he has the power to do so. That is the very essence of the Hun spirit. Lynching is the most deplorable and despicable sign of that revolt against justice as such."

Ex-Governor O'Neal declared lynching could be ended by vesting in Governors the power to remove Sheriffs who permit the criminal to escape from the grasp of the law to the clutches of the mob. The record of race riots and mob violence in the North in the last decade, he said, showed that neither North nor South could point at the other the finger of scorn. Lynching is a wrong for which the whole country must bear the responsibility.

General Sherburne described the valor of the negro artillerymen under his command during the closing days of the war. The negro soldier, already tested in infantry and cavalry, proved equally proficient in artillery, he said.

Dr. Shaw urged the passage of the suffrage amendment as a solution of the lynching problem. Women of intelligence had been brought to a realization of the fact that womanhood is not being protected by the lynching of negroes, a pretext which she described as merely camouflage on the part of men for exhibitions of barbarism.

Concert for Blind Soldiers.

Frederic Hoffman and Alberto Bachmann will give a recital at the Waldorf-Astoria next Monday evening, for the benefit of the Permanent Blind Relief War Fund. Mr. Hoffman, who is an expert on that ancient instrument, the lute, will accompany himself in rendering a number of old French chansons which will include: "Le joli tambour," "Auprès de ma blonde," and "Chansons de Montmarte," among them "L'ame de Pierrot," with which he made a great hit at the Concert Touche and Concert Rouge in Paris. Mr. Hoffman will also sing modern songs. Tickets may be obtained at the headquarters of the fund, 590 Fifth Avenue. Eugene V. R. Thayer is the Honorary Treasurer.

BIG ISSUES IN 1920

And American Policy All Important to the World, Says G. W. Perkins.

With the Republican National Convention more than a year off, Republicans of prominence and influence in this city were reluctant to comment yesterday on the Presidential boom for General Leonard Wood, started by United States Senator Moses of New Hampshire. General Wood has many friends in the Republican organization in this State.

Men like former Attorney General George W. Wickersham and Henry W. Taft, brother of ex-President Taft, would make no comment on THE TIMES dispatch from Washington indicating that General Wood was developing strength not only in the Middle West but in New England. General Wood is strong among progressive Republicans everywhere—those who followed the political fortunes of the late Colonel Rosevelt—and who now are back in the Republican Party.

George W. Perkins, ex-Chairman of the Progressive National Executive Committee and now a Republican, when interviewed yesterday, said:

"I have always been a very great admirer of General Wood. I am just back from Europe and my mind is still full of the very momentous questions that have been so in evidence in Paris during the latter part of this Winter. These questions, being as they are of international interest and importance, cannot but make one feel that the all important matter for consideration immediately before the American people is not so much who is going to be the next President of the United States as it is on what platform he is going to stand; in other words—what is going to be the social, industrial, economic, and international policy of the United States in the immediate future.

"All Europe is keenly alive to these great questions. Her statesmen are losing no time in trying to readjust their conditions and the United States should be doing the same thing and doing it without the loss of an hour and with the help of the very best minds our country possesses."

SEVEN PERISH IN A FIRE.

Score or More Badly Hurt in Columbus (Ohio) Blaze.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Tuesday, May 6.—Seven to ten persons perished, a dozen others were taken to hospitals in a serious condition, and a score more were badly hurt in a spectacular fire in the heart of downtown at midnight last night.

Several of the killed and most of the injured jumped from upper floors of a seven-story building. Half a dozen babes in arms were tossed to firemen with life nets. The fire started in a washroom on the second floor, trapping most of the occupants of the upper stories.

IDENTIFY AUTO VICTIM.

Mrs. Cavanaugh, Struck by Miss Dickson's Car, in a Critical State.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., May 5.—The woman who was struck on Saturday night by an automobile driven by Miss Eleanor Dickson, daughter of William B. Dickson, vice president of the Midvale Steel Company, was identified at the Mountainside Hospital to-day as Mrs. Mary Cavanaugh, of 132 Valley Road, Montclair. Physicians have little hope of Mrs. Cavanaugh's recovery.

Miss Dickson had stopped her car in front of the Municipal Building on Bloomfield Avenue to allow traffic to pass. She started to cross and in the middle of the avenue knocked down Mrs. Cavanaugh, a rear wheel passing over her body.

Miss Dickson drove to the police station and was released on her own recognizance. Witnesses of the accident said that she was driving slowly and that she stopped her car as soon as it struck the woman.

RETURN FUNDS TO SOLDIERS

War Camp Reimburses Men Who Were Victims of Robbery.

Soldiers and sailors poured into the New York War Camp Community Service all day yesterday to claim their money which had been stolen the night before by the porter of the W. C. C. S. hotel at 55 West Twenty-seventh Street. Just as fast as they appeared and swore to an affidavit giving the amount of money lost, the war camp paid them. The payments thus far amount to $2,019.

Some of the soldiers were forced to return to their stations before reimbursement was possible. Agents visited each of the camps where the robbed men were stationed, and gave them back as much money as was lost. Trophies from the other side—including German watches and French money—will be appraised by a board and the amount adjudged will be given to the losers.

MRS. PALMER LEFT $925,000.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 5.—An inventory of the estate of Mrs. Potter Palmer, Chicago's late society leader, filed today, discloses that at the time of her death she held $210,250 in stocks and $62,286 in bonds, all of which are now considered worthless. Most of these are mining securities.

Mrs. Palmer's jewels are appraised at $81,650. The total value of her estate is approximately $925,000, consisting of $250,000 in personal property and real estate in Cook County valued at $675,000. This does not include Mrs. Palmer's 50,000-acre estate in Florida.

The estate of the late Potter Palmer, estimated as being worth from $15,000,000 to $20,000,000, is not involved in the probate of his widow's will, as it was left in trust, which was continued by Mrs. Palmer.

E. GLENDINNING TO MARRY.

Actor and Mrs. Marie Julie Horne, Actress, Get a License.

Ernest Glendinning, the actor, and Mrs. Marie Julie Horne of 47 West Seventy-second Street, an actress, are to be married on May 11. They obtained their marriage license yesterday at the Municipal Building.

Mrs. Horne, who is 30, is the widow of C. Morton Horne, an English actor, who enlisted when Great Britain declared war on Germany, and who was later killed in action after having been promoted to the rank of Captain. She was playing the role of Pleasure in "Experience" at the time of her husband's death, and left immediately for London. During her stay there her father died.

Mr. Glendinning lives at the Lambs Club and is 35 years old.

BARBERS OF BRONX STRIKE

2,000 Unionists Demand Flat $25 Rate and Tips.

About 2,000 of the Bronx members of the International Journeymen Barbers' Union walked out on strike yesterday morning. Opening headquarters at 1,330 Wilkins Avenue, the Bronx, the unionists, through Charles Halley, counsel, announced that they would continue on strike until the master barbers grant a flat rate of $25 a week and tips.

Many of the 700 or more shops granted the demand rather than close up. The majority of the master barbers, however, announced, though, that they would not submit to the union. This morning picketing of the shops will be conducted by the strikers.

Father John J. Hughes Dead.

The Rev. Father John J. Hughes, head of the Paulist Order in this country for the last eight years, died early this morning in St. Elizabeth's Hospital. Father Hughes, who is 62 years old, was taken to the hospital about five weeks ago, suffering from a general breakdown as a result of the activities in his office as head of the Paulist Order.

FOUR PROSTRATED ON HOTTEST MAY 5

Sudden Summer Weather Causes Discomfort to Many Who Were Unprepared for It.

STRAW HATS IN BROADWAY

Showers and Northwest Winds Run the Mercury from Maximum of 86 Down to 65 at 9 P. M.

Four persons were prostrated by the heat yesterday on the first really warm day of the year, which it was said at the Weather Bureau was the hottest May 5 in the history of the local office. At 6 o'clock in the morning the temperature was 65 degrees, and it grew hotter steadily until 86 degrees, the maximum, was reached at 4:45 o'clock in the afternoon.

The first heat prostration reported was Private Nicholas Sica of the 77th Division. He was one of several thousand men who arrived at the 8th Regiment Coast Artillery Armory, Kingsbridge Road and Jerome Avenue, to take part in the parade today. They wore their full equipment, and carried rifles. The long trip from Camp Upton was too much for Sica, and he collapsed on reaching the armory. He was taken to Fordham Hospital.

The others prostrated were: John Ferley, 40 years old, a laborer, taken from 219 Bowery to Gouverneur Hospital; John Kristod, 22 years old, overcome at Ninety-fourth Street and Broadway and taken to his apartment at Eighty-second Street and Broadway; Betty Simon, 15 years old, 415 Christopher Street, taken from 19 West Thirteenth Street to St. Vincent's Hospital.

Showers accompanied by brisk northwest winds brought cooler weather about 5 o'clock, and the mercury descended gradually until it returned to its early-morning mark of 65 degrees at 9 P. M.

The summery weather brought many straw hats to Broadway and the downtown region and dealers were kept busy.

Dr. William Henry Hale.

Dr. William Henry Hale, hygiene expert and former Superintendent of Baths of Brooklyn, whose differences with political leaders in that borough brought him much publicity, died in a rooming house at 452 Prospect Avenue, Brooklyn, on Saturday, at the age of 78 years. Dr. Hale won the doctor's degree at Yale for his scientific studies.

Dr. Hale was one of the founders of the American Association for Promoting Hygiene and Public Baths. He was known in the neighborhood of his former home, 40 First Place, for many years as "the old man with a hundred cats."

HONORS OF WAR WON BY MAJ. GEN. HAAN

SIX MONTHS ON FIRING LINE

Letter of Praise from Clemenceau—Losses Were 14,268—Faced 23 German Divisions.

More than 8,271 troops arrived yesterday on three transports from France, who were chiefly units of the 32d Division, composed of men from Michigan and Wisconsin. The bulk of the number came on the George Washington, which was met down the bay by the Police Boat Patrol and other special steamboats, which had on board Governor Philipp of Wisconsin and Governor Sleeper of Michigan, with delegations of prominent citizens from those States.

The units of the 32d Division on the George Washington included the 127th Infantry, less field and staff, Headquarters Company, Company A, and Detachment Company B, 125th Field Hospital, 127th Field Hospital, 32d Division Headquarters, 32d Division troops and Headquarters Detachment, 120th Infantry complete, and were commanded by Major Gen. William Haan. He has been decorated with the Distinguished Service Medal. He has also received the French Croix de Guerre with gold palm, and was decorated by the French Government with the order of Commander of the Legion of Honor, with the following citation signed by the President of the French Republic:

> He brilliantly commanded the 32d Division during the operations that resulted in the recapture of the Chemin des Dames, near Laon. Thanks to his tactical sense, to his conception of manoeuvre, to his indomitable tenacity, to the magnificent courage of his troops, which put their absolute trust in their chief, he gained several miles of ground. He took the important positions about Juvigny, which the enemy defended with desperation.

In addition to the above, Major Gen. Haan received the following letter from Premier Clemenceau just before leaving France, which has never been published except in The Hatchet, the daily paper printed on the George Washington by the Chaplain, the Rev. P. F. Bloomhardt. The translation in English reads:

> Republique Francaise,
> Le President du Conseil,
> Ministre de la Guerre,
> Paris, April 19, 1919.
>
> To the Commanding General the 32d Division, U. S. A.
>
> My Dear General: Let me bid farewell to your division before it leaves France, and permit me to address to your unit a message of gratitude.
>
> When decorating your flags with the French War Cross, General Mangin enumerated some of its deeds and noted that the 64th Brigade had been given by its French brothers in arms the glorious name of the "Brigade des Terribles."
>
> To that testimony I wish to add a few remarks. From May to November the 32d Division spent on the firing line 120 days, 35 of which were during engagements in the hardest battles. Your losses from enemy fire were 14,268.
>
> In the Spring you were holding the front line in Alsace; during the Summer you fought from the Marne to the Vesle; in the Autumn you were in the Montfaucon Woods; on the eve of the armistice you were still delivering an attack. You have met successively twenty German divisions; you have never given up to them an inch of ground.
>
> I salute your glorious flag. I pay to your dead the homage of our thankfulness, and I say to those who leave, "Bon voyage. Good luck in life, and do not forget your French friends."
>
> Believe me, dear General, yours very cordially. G. CLEMENCEAU.

> Six months under fire—May to November, 1918—with but ten days in rest area.
>
> Fought on five fronts, in three major offensives—Aisne-Marne, Oise-Aisne, and Meuse-Argonne.
>
> Losses—14,000 men killed, wounded, and missing in action.
>
> Met and vanquished twenty-three German divisions, from which 2,153 prisoners were captured.
>
> Captured 2,000 rifles, 200 machine guns, 100 pieces of artillery, and thousands of rounds of ammunition of all kinds.
>
> Gained thirty-eight kilometers in four attacks, and repulsed without loss of ground every counterattack by the enemy.
>
> First American troops to set foot on German soil—in Alsace; captured Fismes in Aisne-Marne offensive; fought as only American unit in General Mangin's famous Tenth French Army in Oise-Aisne offensive; twice in the line in Argonne-Meuse offensive, fighting continuously for twenty days and penetrating Kriemhilde Stellung.
>
> In action when armistice was signed. Marched with Third Army to the Rhine and occupied a sector in the Coblenz Bridgehead.
>
> Composed of Wisconsin and Michigan National Guardsmen; insignia a red arrow, signifying that the division shot through every line the boche put before it; given the name of "Les Terribles" by the French; commanded by Major Gen. William G. Haan and Major Gen. William Lassiter.

In speaking with the reporters on his arrival at Hoboken last night, Major Gen. Haan said that he was pleased to hear from the embarkation officers that he was to go to Camp Custer, as his home is at Crown Point, Ind.

"The 32d Division is now at sea," he continued, "and when the officers on the George Washington gave me a dinner on Saturday night they received wireless messages from four other troopships stating that I was also their guest of honor in the spirit.

"Before leaving France I made a trip through the devastated valley of the Somme, and the damage done there by the Germans is inconceivable. There are no people to be seen in an all-day ride by automobile, and so far the former inhabitants have not returned to try to cultivate the land.

"In Germany the contrast in the life of the inhabitants of the country was very striking. In the small villages the people were well fed and had supplies to last them until the end of May, while the children were plump and numerous. The official classes in Germany are stiff and hostile toward Americans, but the lower classes are easily handled. I don't think the American soldiers will ever regard the Germans in a friendly light. I certainly will not."

The George Washington also brought a number of casuals and 700 sick and wounded. She will leave again for Brest on Friday, and the officers hope that President Wilson will return with them next trip.

Another German steamship, the Cap Finisterre, formerly in the Hamburg and South American trade, arrived yesterday at Hoboken with 1,052 officers and men from Brest, including twenty-six officers and 585 men of the 127th Infantry. There were six German officers on board to represent the Hamburg-American Line.

On the other vessels the officers kept themselves in the background when they arrived here, but those on the Cap Finisterre strutted the decks with the air of monarchs. During the voyage they told the nurses and Red Cross workers how the German navy had beaten the British, who they claimed had run away directly the Germans had appeared on the horizon. The Cap Finisterre is a sister ship to the Cap Trafalgar which was sunk in September, 1914, by the auxiliary British cruiser Carmania off the coast of Brazil.

Brig. Gen. Edwin B. Winans was in command of the 64th Infantry Brigade Headquarters, which was part of the 32d Division. He had the French War Cross with two palms for taking part in the retaking of Juvigny on Aug. 1, 1918.

The Santa Anna brought 1,433 troops, and landed at Bush Terminal, South Brooklyn, yesterday afternoon. The contingent was made up of the 307th Repair and Salvage Company, Tank Corps, 376th and 377th Training and Replacement companies, Tank Corps, First Mobile Operating Unit, First Army Headquarters Artillery, thirty-five officers and several casual companies, among which was a company of men from the First Anti-Aircraft Machine Gun Battalion, the first daylight bombing unit that got into service with the A. E. F.

THE SCREEN

If any one is hesitating to go to see "Fires of Faith," which opened at the Harris Theatre last night, because he fears that he will be bored by a sermon or tediously instructed about the war work of the Salvation Army, let him get the discouraging idea out of his mind. It is entirely erroneous.

"Fires of Faith" is a Salvation Army film in that it sets forth something of the history and much of the work of the army, but—and here's the fact to grasp—what it has to show and say about the army is an integral part of a photoplay, a story in which there is progress through plot, character sketching, dramatic action, heart interest, and a melodramatic climax as thrilling as almost any of the war photoplays has produced. Last night's spectators forgot frequently that the film had anything to do with propaganda, and responded to the story's crises with spontaneous applause.

When the Salvation Army determined to have its work pictured, it went to the Famous Players-Lasky Corporation and gave it the job. Mr. Lasky had an expert screen author, Charles E. Whittaker, write the story; Beulah Marie Dix, another expert, was commissioned to prepare the continuity; and the direction was put in the hands of Edward Jose, who has a number of first rank Paramount and Artcraft pictures to his credit. A professional cast, headed by Catherine Calvert, Eugene O'Brien, Ruby de Remer, Theodore Roberts, Robert Anderson, and Pat Moore, was engaged. The result was "Fires of Faith," a photoplay superior to most of those that come to Broadway.

Mr. Jose has done noteworthy work. He has made many remarkable pictures, and the skill with which he and his associates have woven their story around the army is testified to by the unity of the production. All of the actors are excellent. Miss Calvert has made a genuine character out of Elizabeth Blake, an army lassie. She has unusual pantomimic ability with which to make herself intelligible on the screen. Eugene O'Brien and Ruby de Remer are also excellent in their parts, and the inimitable Robert Anderson is as eloquent and delightful as ever.

The story cannot be adequately summarized in short space. It deals chiefly with the experiences of two men and two women who go to the war, the men as fighters and the women as army workers at the front. Their romance becomes entangled with the war, and only after exciting adventures are they all brought safely home for the "happy ending." The redemption of one of the girls and the ennobling of all through the influence of the army is brought about without the story's becoming a preachment.

It must be added that the film gives much interesting information about the work of the Salvation Army in the war. Commander Evangeline Booth appears in some of the scenes illustrating the Army's executive business.

The showing of the film is enhanced by a pleasing stage setting in which June Day and a chorus of five sing "Fires of Faith." Colonel William McIntyre, commander of the Salvation Army in this district, made an address last night.

The Famous Players-Lasky Corporation will turn over all of the profits from the run of the film to the Salvation Army, and Charles H. Sabin has purchased the entire house for wounded soldiers this evening.

77TH GIVES BRIGHT SHOW.

Its Professionals Score in "The Amex Revue" at the Manhattan.

The 77th Division showed what it could do in an entertainment way last night at the Manhattan Opera House, where a score or more of its professional theatrical folk presented an amusing and highly expert vaudeville show under the general title of "The Amex Revue." The show, which was vastly enjoyed by a large audience, is a collection of the songs, dances, burlesque bits and dramatic sketches which the men played in the Argonne under every conceivable condition—in "ruined cathedrals, German theatres, tents, underground theatres, châteaux, and open platforms," to quote the program. In all, it was presented abroad some 265 times.

The show differs from previous soldier entertainments in that its cast is entirely professional, and, accordingly, always sure of itself, and also in that it has not the traditional chorus of soldier "girls." It has, however, an uncommonly clever female impersonator in the person of Harry Cahill, and, judged solely upon its merits as entertainment, it is probably the superior of all the preceding service shows.

It was Percy Helton, whom Broadway used to know well as a juvenile actor, who carried off the premier dramatic honors. As a crippled boy in a moving sketch called "Little Comrade," by Hal Crane, he gave a performance which rose to thrilling heights, and earlier in the evening distinguished himself by his performance as a girl in "General Order No. 10," a war episode by Fred Rath.

In addition to these two serious numbers, there was a hilarious military burlesque entitled "Oi, General," in which Jack Waldron, Ad Pincus, and Harry Cahill had the principal parts. Cahill also appeared with Rollins Grimes, Jr., in a clever offering, and other entertainers were Englebert Roentgen, 'cellist; Mario Rodolfi, singing operatic selections; Jack Waldron, singing and dancing, and a quartet.

The show was written for the most part by Privates Alfred Dubin and Fred Rath, and was staged in the Argonne by Lieutenant Warren E. Diefendorf. Major Gen. Robert Alexander was present for a time at last night's performance. The Argonne Players will be at the Manhattan all week.

"Gondoliers" in Brooklyn Tonight.

"The Gondoliers," the sparkling Gilbert and Sullivan opera of Venice and Sancho Panza's isle of Barataria, will be produced at the Brooklyn Academy of Music tonight by the Commonwealth Opera Association, under the direction of W. G. Stewart. Most of the singers and large chorus are those who won high praise recently in "The Mikado" and "The Pirates."

Those Johnnies who fell permanently in love with the heroines of the late service shows will find a very satisfactory substitute in Mr. Dillingham's new musical piece at the Globe. A young naval officer who has biff-banged before the footlights is carrying on a love affair with a young boarding school miss, and finds occasion to don his old costumes and to play his old parts—and then some. Joseph Santley is the hero-heroine, and if he lacks something of the robust femininity of his prototypes he makes up in skill as a medienne. He has seldom appeared to better advantage.

At the end of the first act he came on in black lace and jet, thus eluding the detectives who were bent on arresting him for marrying a minor; and the play, which had seemed none too vigorous in its kind, at once hit the proper pace. In the second act he invaded the boarding school to rescue his bride, this time in flaming scarlet and a red wig. Here the play became somewhat reminiscent of "Charley's Aunt," but the situation was, on the whole, discreetly handled and proved very amusing.

The best of the fun was a scene with Olin Howland, who was one of the pursuing detectives, and comported himself with something more than the humor of his Bud Hicks in George Ade's "Leave It to Jane." The hayseed sport is not a new type to the stage, but it has never been better done. In his mingled shyness, suspicion and delight at meeting the chorus of boarding-school maids Mr. Howland finds scope for character comedy as subtly truthful as it is convulsing. A scene in which he and Mr. Santley engage in a knockabout burlesque of stage dancing proved the high-water mark of the evening.

Scot Welsh was very amusing as an able seaman friend of the heroine, and danced neatly. Nellie Fillmore was capital as an old negro servant of the familiar type. The Duncan Sisters, who were the terrible infants of the boarding school, found occasion for several clever vaudeville turns which delighted the audience.

Anne Caldwell's book has few virtues beyond the basic idea. The music, by Jerome Kern, is sprightly and tuneful, but by no means above his best. The first and third acts are rather slender, but the middle act develops a rich vein of comedy which will doubtless carry "She's a Good Fellow" well into the Summer.

Too tired to work

ARE you one of the thousands of men and women who this Spring feel scarcely able to lift a finger, because of their poison-clogged blood and worn-out, run-down bodies?

Don't let old age conquer you sooner than Nature intended. Live moderately, live wisely during this energy-sapping season. If you are thin-blooded and run-down, take Gude's Pepto-Mangan.

Gude's Pepto-Mangan

"The Red Blood Builder"

This splendid general tonic and appetizer is safe and promptly beneficial for feeble old people, anemic children, overworked men and women, invalids and convalescents. It helps to supply the blood with just the elements it needs to create strength, give tone and vitality to the entire system. It increases the number of the red blood cells and their capacity to carry nourishment to every cell and tissue. It is a splendid Spring tonic, appetizer, blood builder and purifier. Gude's Pepto-Mangan is easy to digest, exceedingly pleasant to taste. Universally endorsed and prescribed by the medical profession.

Pepto-Mangan is made only by M. J. BREITENBACH COMPANY Manufacturing Chemists New York

Use Resinol first for skin troubles

Delay in the proper treatment of skin troubles is dangerous. Every day spent in trying unproved remedies may only let the disorder spread and become more and more deeply seated.

The value of Resinol Ointment is known. For over twenty years it has been used as a soothing, healing remedy for the skin.

If applied in time, it usually checks the itching and reduces the eruption right away. But even in stubborn, long-standing cases, it is surprising, how quickly this gentle, yet effective ointment brings results.

All druggists sell Resinol Ointment.

RICKARD SELECTS TOLEDO FOR FIGHT

Title Bout Between Willard and Dempsey Is Sanctioned by Mayor and Commission.

LIMIT IS TWELVE ROUNDS

Promoter Will Erect Arena Seating 50,000 Persons and Expects Receipts to Reach $400,000.

Toledo, Ohio, was yesterday selected as the city in which Jess Willard, world's heavyweight boxing champion, and Jack Dempsey, Salt Lake City challenger, will battle for the ring's richest championship on July 4. Definite announcement of the selection was made late last evening by Tex Rickard, who, with Frank C. Flournoy of Memphis, Tenn., is promoting the contest. Rickard's announcement followed a busy day in which the Western promoter was in frequent communication over the long-distance telephone with officials of Toledo.

The contest will be twelve rounds to a decision, in the event that either boxer fails to score a knockout before the expiration of the twelve rounds, the limit allowed under the laws of Ohio. Rickard plans to have the combatants enter the ring at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of Independence Day. A referee for the contest will be selected later when the two boxers, with their representatives, and Promoter Rickard get together for a conclave.

Rickard last night, after securing permission to conduct the bout in Toledo, sent telegrams to both Willard and Dempsey informing them of his selection, the date of the contest, and the time the men were expected to enter the ring, and notifying them to appear in Toledo not later than May 20. This is in accordance with the terms of the contracts signed by the boxers and their managers, which stipulates that the men must be on the scene of the match at least six weeks before the day of the bout. The boxers will establish training headquarters at or near Toledo, where they will complete their preparation for the match.

The formal announcement made by Promoter Rickard was as follows:

"Having consulted my attorney, I find that I am entirely within the laws of Ohio and according to decisions of the law on such cases. Therefore I have accepted Toledo's offer to hold a boxing exhibition there. Under the Ohio laws, the Mayor of Toledo is permitted to grant consent. Under decision of the courts you are privileged to employ boxers to give exhibitions when a purse is not fought for."

Willard and Dempsey will be paid for their services and will not compete for a purse which is divided mutually between the two boxers. Willard is to receive $100,000 and Dempsey $27,500. In addition, both boxers will receive one-third of the profits which accrue from motion pictures to be taken of the bout. The contest will entail an expenditure of more than $3,150 a minute for the boxers, providing the match goes goes the full twelve rounds. Willard, under this computation, will receive a fraction more than $2,777 a minute, while Dempsey's reward will be a fraction more that $763 a minute. This is the largest money expenditure for a bout in the history of pugilism.

An arena will be constructed on a site known as Bay View Park, Toledo. This property is city-owned, but has been assigned to Rickard for the match without cost. The promoter plans to construct an arena seating between 45,000 and 50,000 spectators. He has an architect, J. L. McLaughlin of San Francisco, working on plans for the arena now. McLaughlin was Rickard's architect when the latter promoted the Jim Jeffries-Jack Johnson bout in 1910, devising plans for an arena at San Francisco, and subsequently at Reno when the promoter was denied permission to conduct the bout in the California city.

Rickard received permission to hold the contest in Toledo at about 7:40 o'clock last evening from Mayor Schrieber of Toledo. The Toledo Mayor is head of the Boxing Commission which governs the sport in that city. The Fire and Police Commissioners are also members of the Commission, and it will be with the sanction of these three leaders in Toledo's civic life, along with that of other prominent citizens who are members of the commission, that the contest will be held. A tax of 7 per cent. of the gross receipts will be given to the Commission. This fund will be dispersed among the city's needy poor and wounded soldiers, sailors and marines.

The prices of admission will range from $10 to $60 according to the present plans of Promoter Rickard. A definite scale of prices will be adopted just as soon as plans for the arena are drawn up and indorsed. The promoter plans, however, to make special arrangements for the handling of a big crowd. Provision for eight entrances will be made, four in the bleacher section of the arena and a similar number for the grandstand. This, Rickard believes, will eliminate confusion in admitting spectators.

Rickard was elated and relieved when he was able finally to announce Toledo as the site for the bout. He is confident of success, and expects the match to make pugilistic history, financially and competitively.

"I wouldn't trade Toledo as a site for the bout with any other city in the country," Rickard said. "Toledo, in my estimation, is the most favorable location that could be had for an event of this kind. The city is within five miles of 7,000,000 people. It is the third largest railroad centre in the country. There are twenty-three railroads in connection with the city. In addition, there are fourteen interurban lines and fifteen boat lines operating on Lake Erie.

"I expect the contest to attract about $400,000. My expenses, including the guarantee of $100,000 to Willard and $27,500 to Dempsey, will run up to about $225,000. This will include the Government war tax, which I will assume, for I believe when a man is asked to pay $50 or $60 for a ticket that is enough.

"I have been negotiating with officials of Toledo for the past six weeks. For obvious reasons, however, I was compelled to maintain secrecy. I have found an unusual amount of interest in the bout, one of the most impressive manifestations of interest being a petition signed by about 50,000 soldiers and sailors, eager to see the bout held in Toledo. I don't think there will be any interference with the plans, now that Mayor Schrieber has given his approval, for the operation of the boxing law in Ohio is left entirely in the Mayor's hands—at least in so far as it concerns Toledo.

"There is no need for a longer bout that I can see. Twelve rounds should be sufficient. Dempsey is reputed to be, what is known to the ring, as a fast starter. If he is, he will have plenty of time to defeat Willard. If Dempsey cannot knock out Willard, or score convincingly in points over the champion in twelve rounds, then he is an overrated boxer. Willard is accepted as a slow starter, but it is probable he will change his tactics and get warmed up to the bout quickly. Even if he doesn't, the champion should have ample time in twelve rounds to demonstrate whether he is capable of defending his title."

Rickard expects to leave this city for Toledo the latter part of the week. He will be accompanied by Flournoy and Ike Dorgan. The latter is publicity agent for Rickard. Flournoy and Dorgan will probably spend their time up to the day of the bout in the Ohio city, while Rickard plans to make frequent trips between New York and Toledo.

GOVERNOR REFUSES COMMENT.

Cox Says Enforcement of Law Is Optional with Local Officials.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 5.—Governor Cox tonight declined to comment on the proposal to hold the Willard-Dempsey fight July 4 at Toledo. Examination of the Ohio law against prize fighting, made in the Governor's office, shows that interpretation and enforcement of it is up to local officials.

The law permits boxing exhibitions, for which the Mayor, if in municipalities, or the Sheriff, if outside, grants permits, if the matches are given under the auspices of a chartered athletic association and if no purse is offered to the winner.

It is said that in the Willard-Dempsey contest no purse is to be offered, but that each contestant is to receive a definite amount of Liberty bonds. The athletic association requirements also are said to have been complied with.

Governor Cox today received a telegram from J. Drexel Biddle of the Board of Boxing Commissioners of the Army and Navy, urging that the Willard-Dempsey bout be permitted in the interests of clean sports.

LIMIT AUTO RACE ENTRIES.

Only Thirty-three Drivers to Start in Indianapolis Sweepstakes.

INDIANAPOLIS, May 5.—Only thirty-three contestants out of the forty-three nominated for the Indianapolis 500-mile Liberty Sweepstakes, May 31, will be permitted to start in the contest, an American Automobile Association rule that limits the number of cars in any speedway race to one for every 400 feet of track preventing the start of more than that number. Forty-three drivers have applied for entrance in the race.

Time trials will be held at the Indianapolis Speedway beginning May 27 to determine the final field that will face the barrier for the big Hoosier classic. Each contestant will be given three opportunities to show his speed in a single circuit of the two-and-one-half-mile track, and the fastest thirty-three will survive, the best lap out of the three counting the final standing. No entrant who cannot show a speed better than eighty miles an hour will be permitted to start, however, whether he survives under the above conditions or not. Starting positions for the contest will be awarded in the order of the speed shown by contestants in their time trials, the fastest car starting in first position, next to the pole, and the rest following in order.

Ralph De Palma rules as the probable American favorite for the coveted No. 1 position. His mount is probably the fastest American car in the race, and in a short sprint it is considered almost unbeatable. Whether the car will survive the test of the long 500-mile grind is another question, which only the day of the race can answer. However, as the speed favorite, De Palma rules as America's first choice.

Among the Europeans, it is thought probable that Thomas, Guyot, Bablot, and Wagner stand the best chance of emerging from the conflict of the speed trials with first honors. Their cars are new creations, built especially for the Indianapolis 500-mile event, and are said to be the fastest things on wheels that Europe has yet produced. Also, it will be well to keep an eye on Resta and Chassagne, the gasoline steeds of this combination having been credited with a speed of 122 miles an hour by no less an authority than Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, American "Ace of Aces," who drove them in a series of tests on the Brooklands track in England before entering the American aviation service in France.

Other likely incumbents of first position are Goux, Chevrolet, and Cooper. Any one of this trio is capable of circling the Indianapolis track in record time, and may choose to let himself out to the limit in the time trials.

Turning to the other side of the picture, after the time trials have been run there will remain ten unfortunates who, after weeks and months of strenuous preparation for the greatest of all racing classics, will see their hopes to rank among the élite of the racing world ground in the dust without the satisfaction of even having faced the starter or gone roaring around the track in the thrilling first round that is the inaugural of all Indianapolis 500-mile events.

However, the world of sport has little compassion for him who goes down to defeat unless it be a heroic catastrophe like that which befell Ralph De Palma at Indianapolis in 1912, when, with only one lap more to go and victory within his grasp, his car faltered and the hard-won fruits of victory vanished in the twinkling of an eye. Ordinarily the failures depart from the arena unhonored and unsung.

The time trials for an Indianapolis 500-mile race are a fertile source of disillusionment for those whose imagination and ambition spur them to deeds beyond their ken, a crucible eliminating the dross of unworthy competition and guaranteeing to the public a contest between peers in the realm of motor-racing sport. To survive the Hoosier preliminary tests is to receive the accolade of racing honors; to fail is to vanish into the outer darkness.

YANKS POUND TWO BOSTON PITCHERS

Drive Dumont from Box and Pile Up Runs Against Carl Mays for 5 to 1 Victory.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 5.—The Yankees scored another victory over Ed Barrow's world's champions this afternoon when the two teams clashed in the final of their four-game series. The score was 5 to 1. It was the third victory for the New Yorkers in the series, and it again put them ahead of the champions in the pennant race. Timely hitting in the early innings and some bunched hitting in the last frame made the victory easy, as the title holders were very tame all the way.

The Yanks expected Carl Mays, the underhand star of the Red Sox, who had opposed them in two previous games this year, but Barrow sent George Dumont to the mound. However, before the game was half over Mays was in the box, weaving that underhand fling toward the New York hitters. Dumont was both wild and ineffective. With only one out in the Yanks' half of the third Mays was called in to replace the former Senator, who had allowed five hits, besides walking three men and uncorking a wild pitch. Mays could not stop the run getting, as three of the Yanks' five runs can be charged directly to the underhand pitcher.

Meanwhile Jack Quinn was giving a fine exhibition. The veteran allowed the champions only six hits, and they were scattered through five innings, two coming in the seventh. A fine play by Muddy Ruel checked the Sox in this frame. The Yankee catcher faked a throw to second on an attempted double steal, and when Scott ran from third base he pegged to Baker for an easy out. This was the only time the home team threatened after the fourth inning, when a triple by Ruth and an infield out saved the Sox from a shutout.

Ruth's hit was a colossal clout. The ball hit near the top of the fence in right centre field, missing a home run by inches only. Vick was playing deep for the Boston slugger, but the ball rolled in after hitting the fence and Babe got a triple. It was his only hit of the game, but he drew a pass in the sixth inning.

New York went into the lead in the second inning. Lewis walked. Bodie's single sent him to second and Ruel singled to right. Lewis turned third and started for home, but was chased back. Bodie had turned second at full speed and could not get back. Quinn also singled and Lewis scored. The next two batsmen went out in order, so the walk and three singles by the first four batsmen produced only one run.

In the next inning the Yankees scored again. Pipp walked, advanced on an out and scored on Pratt's smash to left field. Mays succeeded Dumont after this hit.

Babe Ruth's drive which hit the fence in front of the right field bleachers started Boston's scoring in the fourth. Ruth got three bases on the clout and crossed the plate on McInnis's out, Peck to Pipp.

The Yankees' lead was increased by two runs in the sixth. A pass to Lewis started the trouble. Pratt sacrificed Duffy to second and then Baker walked. After Bodie had flied to deep centre Ruel doubled to right, scoring both Baker and Lewis.

The Sox made their last threat in the seventh, when a pair of singles by Scott and Walters put runners on third and first with one out. The double steal was started, which Ruel interrupted. A single by Lewis, Ruel's sacrifice and Quinn's second clean single gave the Yankees their last run in the ninth inning. The Sox went out in order in the eighth and ninth.

Punishment of Athletics Stopped by Rain in Ninth Inning.

PHILADELPHIA, May 5.—Washington made it four straight from Philadelphia today in a game that was three finally had to be called in the ninth inning. The score was 10 to 6. Ragged pitching by Johnson and equally poor fielding in the early innings gave the visitors a lead that was too big for the Athletics to overcome.

REDS OUT OF FIRST PLACE.

Lose Twelve-inning Struggle with Cubs by 7 to 6.

CINCINNATI, May 5.—Pat Moran's Reds relinquished the lead in the National League pennant race today when they lost a hard-fought twelve-inning game to the Chicago Cubs by a score of 7 to 6. Though it was only the second defeat of the season for the Reds, they dropped into second place behind the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were idle.

The defeat was ushered in with a brilliant rally in the ninth by the Cubs which netted Chicago six runs and tied the score in a game that had seemed hopelessly lost up to that time. Hod Eller, who had been pitching shutout ball up to that inning, went to pieces suddenly and the Cubs smashed his deliveries all over the lot. Eller was taken out after he had retired one man, but the damage had been done. He allowed twelve hits in the eight and a fraction innings he pitched, and most of these were bunched in his brief stay in the ninth.

Moran rushed Jimmy Ring to the rescue but he met his fate quickly and after retiring one man and allowing a hit which chased in another run, he was taken out in favor of Rube Bressler, who finished the game. Bressler got the side out, but not until the Cubs had made nine hits for the inning and scored six earned runs.

Bressler held the Cubs safely after that until the twelfth, when two hits and a base on balls resulted in the winning tally for Chicago. The Reds were unable to make up the run in their half. Shuffling Phil Douglas pitched the entire twelve innings for Chicago and was hit hard in the early innings. The Reds massed hits on him in the fifth and in addition Douglas made a costly wild throw, the Reds making four runs in the inning. The locals scored one in the first and another in the second and had a six-run lead when the Cubs opened the fateful ninth.

TURF STARS IN NEW RACE.

Forty of Best Horses Named in Weight-for-Age Event.

Entries closed yesterday for the New Jockey Club weight for age race to be run at the Belmont Park Autumn meeting and though the list will not be complete until time has been allowed for the receipt of entries mailed from distant points there have been enough nominations to insure a first class contest. About forty have been named so far for the initial event scheduled to carry out the policy of revival of long distance racing, and weight for age contests with Commander J. K. L. Ross the largest subscriber. The Canadian sportsman has named half a dozen of his best thoroughbreds, and among them is Billy Kelly, the great three-year-old that is barred from the Preakness because he is a gelding. The other Ross candidates are Cudgel, Foreground, Boniface, War Pennant, and Sir Barton.

W. R. Coe is represented by five of his crack three-year-olds in Sweep On, Natural Bridge, Over There, Terentia, and Athlone. H. P. Whitney also will depend on three-year-olds, his quartet consisting of Vindex, Headstrong, Bayard and Blue Laddie. H. A. Porter has named Pride of India, a highly tried colt that went lame last season, together with Sous Marinex and High Born Lady.

The Oneck stable has named Thunderclap and Elfin Queen. Walter M. Jeffords expects to start Star Hampton and Routledge, while P. A. Clark has nominated Dunboyne, winner of last year's Futurity, and the maiden Polka Dot. Wilfrid Viau names Omar Khayyam, winner of the Kentucky Derby in 1917, and Westy Hogan. Both these horses are winners this year. Among the remaining entries are The Porter, Sunny Slope, Midway, Star Class, Bachelor's Hope, King Plaudit, Zenith, The Young Cavalier, a colt belonging to Henry T. Oxnard; Chasseur, and Lucy Lee.

DOUBLE BILLS FOR ROBINS.

Postponed Opening Game with Boston Will Be Played on July 5.

The first double-header announcement of the season for the Brooklyn Dodgers came yesterday when President Charles H. Ebbets announced the completion of plans for future double bills against Boston and Philadelphia. The Ebbets clan will clash with Boston in a brace of games at Ebbets Field July 5, and with Philadelphia in the Quaker town July 24. The game against Boston was to have been played as the Robins' opening home contest, but was postponed because of rain. The Philadelphia contest was started on April 30 and ended in a deadlock after twenty innings.

WHITNEY JUVENILES SHOW GREAT SPEED

Querca and Afternoon Run First and Second Against Big Field at Pimlico.

PIMLICO, Md., May 5.—Two-year-olds furnished the most interesting racing here this afternoon and the result of the fifth event again showed what a strong hand Harry Payne Whitney holds in the juvenile division. There were eleven starters in this dash over four and a half furlongs and the two youngsters entered by Mr. Whitney finished first and second and at the same time provided the real competition. Querca, a daughter of Broomstick, was the winner, with Afternoon, by Prince Palatine, finishing second.

The Whitney pair ran in the same positions that they finished in all the way, with Virginia L and then Rocking Horse providing contention until the youngsters settled down to real racing in the stretch. There Rocking Horse, which lost ground by going wide at the turn, had to give up his attempt to catch the bearers of the light blue, and Querca and Afternoon raced out as determinedly as though they represented different interests. It was a rare struggle between the pair for the last furlong, with first one and then the other showing in front, but just before reaching the judges Querca forged ahead and gained the verdict by a head. Afternoon was three lengths in front of Virginia L.

J. A. Buchanan showed a greatly improved colt in the first race for maidens in Super, a son of Superman. There were thirteen starters, but Super had a world of early speed and was in command all the way. He was cantering at the end and had an advantage of four lengths over Oriental Park, one of the outsiders. Samuel Ross's Miss Shackleton, one of the fancied ones, was in close quarters in the early running and the best she could do was to finish fourth.

Ral Parr added to his long string of victories in jumping events by taking the Baltimore Handicap Steeplechase with Royal Arch, which like many of the others was making his first start of the season. All were maidens, yet most of the ten starters fenced well and only three came to grief. Royal Arch took the lead early, but was challenged by North Star on the last turn of the field. When Crawford shook up Royal Arch he came away to win rather easily by six lengths.

The Howard Handicap at a mile and a sixteenth brought out a small field including the Calumet Stable's King Herod, which was making his first start and was scarcely wound up for a race. H. S. Koppin's Amalette took the lead after Koh-i-Noor quit, but had to be ridden hard in the stretch to stall off the challenge of Lord Herbert and win by half a length.

TO RACE FOR KING'S PLATE.

Ontario Jockey Club Decides to Hold Event May 24.

Though no definite steps have been taken for the resumption of racing in Canada the Ontario Jockey Club has decided to run the annual race for the King's Plate on May 24, the date on which the event was held prior to the war. The original race for which the entries closed on March 4 has been declared off and in its place a new race will be given worth $3,000 added to the 50 guineas donated by King George. Entries will be confined to those owners who were included in the original entry. The entries will close next Saturday.

The decision to run the event before the ban on betting is removed was made because the conditions call for horses that have not won except as two-year-olds, and owners would therefore have to keep their eligibles out of other events until the Fall. The event that has just been canceled had thirty-seven nominations, and at most of these have been in training at Woodbine it is likely they will be included in the new race.

DE ORO ENTERS PROTEST.

Claims Foul Should Have Been Declared Against Cannefax.

Alfred De Oro, veteran Cuban billiardist, who lost his three-cushion carom billiard title to Robert Cannefax of St. Louis last week, is preparing a protest which he hopes will result in his getting another title match without waiting his turn in the long list of challengers. De Oro, it was learned yesterday, is arranging a number of affidavits of spectators who witnessed the match, which he plans to submit to the Brunswick-Balke-Collender Company, donors of the diamond championship emblem, in support of a charge of foul on the part of Cannefax.

The alleged foul was committed in the second block of the match Friday night. According to De Oro, Cannefax struck his cue ball twice, which is, under a strict interpretation of the rule, a foul. The rule is ambiguous, however, leaving it to the discretion of the referee to judge whether the striker makes the play with premeditation or with the intention of leaving an opponent safe. Albert G. Cutler of Boston was the referee of the match, and De Oro declares he protested the play. The former title holder, however, did not make his protest audibly, or demand Referee Cutler to announce, under the conditions, that the match was being completed under protest. This is provided in the rules.

De Oro, at the time of the alleged foul, was insistent that an illegal play had been committed by Cannefax and, in his excitement, offered to wager $1,000 that his contention would be upheld. The Cuban veteran submits in the protest he is preparing that the excitement of this event interfered with his game, and adds that he completed the match under the supposition that his protest would be upheld as official.

If De Oro must await his turn in the list of challengers before again getting an opportunity to play for the title, at least one year will elapse. There are five challenges submitted for the title now, and all these matches must be decided, under the rules, before De Oro has a chance to regain his lost laurels.

APPEAL FOR NEW OARSMEN.

Local Rowing Association Aims to Recruit Crew Candidates.

A determined campaign is being conducted by the New York Rowing Association to attract new blood to the ranks of local rowing clubs. The younger element of the city's population is particularly catered to in this campaign, with the view of training new oarsmen to fill vacancies caused through the war. Many of the leading oarsmen of the district are still in the service of Uncle Sam. Others will return disabled, while still another number have made the supreme sacrifice.

As a consequence, every inducement is being held out to youngsters in an effort to attract them to rowing. In an appeal issued in behalf of the N. Y. R. A., Richard Sturcke, former President and himself a veteran oarsman, lays stress on the physical benefits and advantages offered to the youngster who goes in for rowing.

"Rowing develops more muscles than any other single exercise," says Mr. Sturcke in his appeal. "The 'Varsity crews at Poughkeepsie and New London and the crews rowing in association races, are living illustrations of what rowing does in the development of skill, strength, and stamina. In pure, fresh air, lightly clad and breathing deep, the oarsman takes his exercise under conditions that are ideal for the upbuilding of vitality. My advice to all youngsters is to join a rowing club if you wish to be strong and well developed.

"Rowing makes demands upon the nerve and will-power greater than any other form of sport. No matter how much the oarsman may be feeling the strain of contest, the blade must be turned with precision, the catch must be made hard and true and in perfect time with the others in the crew, and the body swing must be in perfect unity with that of the other men. The punishment is self-inflicted, but it is heroic, and a man feels proud of himself when he conquers his muscle by the determination of his mind, even though he may not conquer his rivals."

MANY BOUTS FOR SOLDIERS.

Leonard, Britton, and Others to Box at Garden Thursday.

Jimmy Twyford, the Knights of Columbus Secretary under whose direction a monster boxing carnival for the men of the 77th Division is to be held Thursday night at Madison Square Garden, has announced that in addition to all the champions of the division many stars have been engaged. Benny Leonard, the lightweight champion, and Jack Britton, holder of the welterweight crown, are two of the topnotchers who have promised to appear for the boys in khaki. Leonard is to box Frank Lippe, while Britton will be opposed by Jack McAuliffe, the undefeated champion of a generation ago. Another exhibition will bring together Jim Coffey and Battling Levinsky.

Real fights make up the rest of the card arranged by Secretary Twyford. Knockout Brennan, who before going into service, fought draws with Mike Gibbons and Soldier Bartfield, will try to prove his claim to stellar honors against Cyclone Williams. Frankie Hufnagle, winner of the 125-pound class of the division, is to meet Tommy Shea, and Frank Gargano, who captured the 135-pound championship "over there," will exchange punches with Johnny Clinton. Soldiers Geraghty, Maine, Zimmerman, and Volk will be pitted against good men of their weight. The show will close with a wrestling match between Young Mundy and Max Wiley.

PLAN SCHOOLS OF BOXING.

English to Engage Professional Fighters as Instructors.

Boxing schools, where the sport will be taught by leading professional pugilists, are planned for England as a result of the increased interest in the sport throughout the British kingdom since the war. Agitation has already started for the organization of schools for every part of Great Britain, with a central headquarters in London.

It is proposed to install Jem Driscoll as head of the headquarters school, with the probability that Bombardier Wells will also be enlisted as an instructor.

COLUMBIA GOLFERS LOSE TEAM MATCH

Living up to its reputation, the Georgia Tech golf team easily defeated the Columbia College combination on the links of the Garden City Golf Club yesterday, the Atlanta boys winning by 6 to 0. Only four visitors put in an appearance, and in the fourball, Bobby Jones, the "boy wonder," and H. M. Schley defeated A. L. Walker, Jr., formerly Richmond County champion, and J. T. Tunis, while the other Southern pair, Perry Adair and Tom Prescott, were too strong for F. L. Rohdenberg and M. Schreiber. The winners finished 2 to 0 in the fourball and 4 to 0 in the singles.

As the Tech golfers did not arrive at the club until noon, they had to finish thirty-six holes in the afternoon, so that it was past 7 o'clock before they had finished the singles. All of the match play margins were fairly close and for a time in the early hours Walker and Tunis gave their opponents a hard match. They failed to take advantage of an opportunity to win in the seventeenth hole, Jones and Schley winning by 2 and 1.

In the singles Jones beat Walker 2 and 1, although the loser had the better card, 82 to 83. Adair won from Rohdenberg, 3 up and 2 to play, while Prescott beat Schreiber on the seventeenth green and Schley took the measure of Tunis, 4 and 2.

The summaries:

PLAY BASEBALL IN FRANCE.

University of Paris Team Arranges Long Schedule for Season.

PARIS, May 5.—The European baseball season has opened, the University of Paris having scheduled games with the Universities of Lyons, Nice, Dijon, Nancy and Toulouse, with a trip to England in June to play Oxford, Cambridge and Edinburgh.

The University of Toulouse has four baseball teams and American aggregations are playing exhibition games in Southeastern France. Ten thousand persons witnessed a game at Toulouse recently, while at Pau there were five thousand present. At Tarbes there was an attendance of seven thousand, or a quarter of the population of the city.

In a track meet held by men engaged in the Service of Supply Department of the American Army, held at Le Mans, Pat Ryan, the Olympic champion, threw the hammer 160 feet 8 inches. Lieutenant F. D. Maker of the University of California made a high jump of 6 feet. These athletes will represent America in the intercollegiate track meet which has been planned.

SHUTOUT FOR MOESTHEN.

De La Salle Pitcher Beats All Hallows by 1 to 0.

After battling through twelve scoreless innings the De La Salle Institute baseball team broke the ice in the thirteenth inning and defeated All Hallows Institute by the score of 1 to 0. The contest was played on Lenox Oval. Moesthen twirled for the victorious team and was particularly effective in the pinches. He fanned nine of the All Hallows batsmen.

The score by innings:

Former Welterweight Champion Will Try to Regain Title.

Ted (Kid) Lewis of England, former welterweight champion, is about to start a determined campaign to regain the title he lost to Jack Britton of Chicago several months ago, in a bout at Canton, Ohio. Charles J. Harvey, manager of Lewis, yesterday issued a statement in which the manager declared his boxer physically fit again for ring engagements after a period of treatment by physicians which lasted over several weeks.

RED TOP TO BE REOPENED.

Harvard Crew Will Go to Ledyard About June 1, Revising Plans.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 5.—No immediate change is expected in the arrangements for the Yale rowing squad at Gales Ferry in June, despite revision of the Harvard plans which mean a reopening of the Crimson's quarters at Red Top and the arrival there of the oarsmen about June 1.

Captain Mead of the Yale crew has a letter from Captain Whitman of the Harvard crew confirming the change of plans stated by Mr. Herrick to Fred Allen of the Yale committee. The latter says that one reason for the change is that Yale would be at great inconvenience to accommodate the Harvard men at Gales Ferry.

LEDYARD, Conn., May 5.—The Harvard rowing management has leased for the season the Harvard quarters from Charles H. Brown. The Harvard squad will also occupy eight or ten cottages, including Mr. Brown's farmhouse on the hill overlooking the river. As the quarters have not been used for two years, workmen at once will put them into condition for occupancy.

REVIVE AQUATIC SPORTS.

Canada Plans Boom in Yachting This Year.

A complete revival of Canadian aquatic sports, particularly on Toronto Bay and Lake Ontario, is planned by the aquatic officials of Canada. Efforts will be made to restore to a pre-war basis yachting, canoeing, swimming, rowing, and motor boating. Provision is made in the plans of the officials for a resumption of international yachting competition in several classes. The Royal Canadian Yacht Club is showing the way, and will be represented in all the various classes from the big cutters and sloops down to the 14-foot dinghies.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Railroad Issues Rise in Forefront of New Forward Movement in Stocks.

The stock market displayed a moderate lessening of activity yesterday, which may have been the result of the pending holiday, but speculation for the rise was as insistent as last week. For the first time since the forward movement began three months ago a number of railroad stocks competed with the effervescent industrials in point of strength. Several of the standard rail stocks moved forward from 2 to 4 points, and trading in this department took on a healthier tone than was comprised in the feverish upbuilding of certain low price shares in the last ten days, based on possible development of oil production on railroad property. Reading appeared in the guise of a market leader for a time, an occurrence which roused hopes in the breasts of the more conservative market followers that the railroad issues might gradually assume a really important position in the current markets.

In early transactions the price tone was hesitating, to a degree not seen in Monday markets for several weeks. While business was active during the first half hour it was clear that buyers were less eager than they had been, a condition which apparently reflected a smaller accumulation of out-of-town orders than at the opening of business last week and the week before. Quite likely knowledge that today would find the Stock Exchange closed and the outside markets on a reduced scale of business had effect in checking commitments. Also the theory was worthy of consideration that suggestions sent out by many brokers last week to deal cautiously for a time may have worked to put a brake on trading. These factors were noticeable for a short time only, and when bidding of local origin increased orders from out-of-town quickly made a fresh appearance. As trading expanded prices acquired strength and the usual profit taking expected on an afternoon before a market recess either was small in proportions or so easily absorbed that prices made little or no reflection of offerings. Liberty bonds recorded only moderate fluctuations, with a market more firm than heavy. Evidence that money was in liberal supply for investment in speculative purposes was again displayed through a decline of the call loan rate to 3½ per cent. This quotation was made by lenders after the bulk of the day's needs was supplied, but at its maxmum call money lent no higher than 4½ per cent. The ease of money may be looked upon of course as an incentive to greater speculation in stocks, but more important than this it forecasts at this period of the Victory Loan campaign an abundant amount of loanable funds for commercial purposes after the Government borrowing is completed.

The foreign exchange market was marked by a fairly sharp decline of Paris rates to 6.14, the lowest quotation of record. The decline at this centre seemed to be directed primarily by a large and unexplained demand by American banks in Paris for dollars. Cable dispatches told of noteworthy increase in purchases of dollar drafts at Paris. Sterling was firm. Other exchanges were without feature.

Trading Firm on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, May 5.—Trading on the Bourse was firm today. Three per cent. rentes were quoted at 63 francs, exchange on London at 28 francs 87 centimes, and the 5 per cent. loan at 88 francs 35 centimes. The dollar was quoted at from 6 francs 1 centime to 6 francs 16 centimes.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

French Exchange Breaks.

French exchange yesterday went to the lowest quotation on record, when franc cables sold at 6.14 to the dollar. At the same time sterling was stronger, as has been the case a good many times lately, and it was common gossip in banking circles that French banks were selling francs and putting the proceeds back into sterling. The London market for francs has been very poor of late, and the practice of buying sterling here in order to bolster up francs in London is said to have become rather extensive. Yesterday francs in London broke badly before our opening, and the volume here at the start was very heavy. It was reported that one large trust company was a heavy buyer of sterling at Paris, but the company mentioned denied it. The situation as regards franc exchange, it was explained, is that with no official "peg," the possibilities of decline are great and a good deal of speculative selling has been going on. The United States Treasury credits authorized for allied countries are now less than $800,000,000, as against the original authorization of $10,000,000,000.

⁂

Royal Dutch Shares.

Only narrow price changes have occurred in the Royal Dutch shares during the last few trading days, as compared with the sensational advances which were made not long ago. This is perhaps attributable to the fact that Amsterdam has been selling on the New York as well as the Paris Exchange. In this case New York has been called upon to absorb the increased offerings, which would militate against the advance being carried along as spectacularly as was that in Mexican Petroleum some months ago.

⁂

A Stock Increase.

When word was received yesterday that the stockholders of the White Motor Company had authorised an increase in the capital stock from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 there was a decline of some 2 points in the quotation for the shares on the Stock Exchange. As compared with this was the announcement a few days ago of a proposed increase of General Motor's capitalization to $1,000,000,000. The latter was, however, little reflected in the stock market. The difference lay in the fact that while General Motors announced that its increase, if authorised, would not be issued except as needed, it was believed that the White Company was preparing to put out the new stock at once.

⁂

Keokuk & Des Moines Appears.

The last of the low-priced rail issues to make its appearance in response to the call of a bull market was Keokuk & Des Moines. The stock last made its mark on the tape on Feb. 24, selling at that time at 3½. Yesterday it sold up to 5, or an advance of 1½ points.

⁂

To Lower Tire Prices.

Reports that the prices of automobile tires were to be substantially reduced reacted against the rubber stocks yesterday, nearly all of them showing a decline, which ranged from a fractional loss to one of more than 2 points in the case of United States Rubber.

⁂

Trading in the Rails.

Trading activity broadened in the rails yesterday and on a larger turnover the standard issues proved fertile ground for those favoring the long side. Some of the more inactive railroad stocks, which have not been traded in extensively, came to the front, and there was evidence that many of the issues were particularly sensitive to buying. The general advance by the shares in this group was attributed to reports of an earlier extra session of Congress than had been expected.

⁂

Coal Company Merger Rumor.

One of the reasons for the advance in the shares of the coal carrying railroads in yesterday's stock market was a rumor that plans for a consolidation of several of the larger coal companies owned by or affiliated with those roads was being discussed. Inquiry among several of the companies mentioned failed to verify the rumor, but the market seemed to believe it and Delaware, Lackawanna & Western gained 16¼ points, Delaware & Hudson moved up 3 and Erie and Lehigh Valley were fractionally higher.

⁂

The Standard Rails.

Canadian Pacific led the standard railroad shares in the trading yesterday, advancing easily on a comparatively light turnover. New York Central gained more than a point on a comfortable volume of business and Northern Pacific and Union Pacific were fractionally higher at the close. Southern Pacific made a slight gain, and a feature of the market was an advance of more than 3 points by Norfolk & Western on a turnover of only 3,400 shares.

Extra Session to be Delayed.

In the railroad world the report yesterday that the President would call an extra session of Congress sooner than had been generally expected did not receive a great deal of attention. On the contrary, it was said in some quarters that all present indications pointed to a delay and September was mentioned as the probable time for the next Congressional session.

Honoring the Troops.

Wall Street will honor the returning Seventy-seventh today by closing all of the Exchanges and, to all practical purposes, suspending all business which it is possible to suspend. The banks will be open, theoretically, because it is not a legal holiday, but probably a majority of the bankers will be more intent upon cheering the boys than in transacting business. The stock market fraternity, as well as those directly concerned with the cotton market and the rest of the boards, will not come to the Street. The New Orleans Cotton Exchange, by arrangement with the Bureau of Markets at Washington, will be closed because of the closing of the New York Cotton Exchange.

Another Record Made.

There were 300 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday. This established a new record for broad markets, as the previous record was made last Friday, when 297 issues were traded.

A German Loan?

Cabled reports that the United States is to back a huge German loan were not taken very seriously by bankers yesterday, although it was admitted that later on something of the sort would be entirely logical. If the Government takes the initiative, it was said, such a loan could be floated "at a price." What that price would be nobody cared to say, but the general opinion was that it would have to be one that would yield the investor better than 6 per cent.

Oil Bonds

Conservative investors who wish to share in the prosperity of the oil industry without departing from their "safety first" policy should look into the features of oil bonds which have convertible or participating provisions.

A few of the most promising of such issues are described in our circular "K"—ask for it.

MARKET FOR SILVER AGAIN MADE FREE

HAS WORLDWIDE BEARING

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Restrictions on the export of silver and standardization of the price at $1.01½ per fine ounce were removed to-day by the Federal Reserve Board, thus in effect establishing a free market for silver in the United States and throughout the world. War-time restrictions were imposed last August 15.

"The occasion which required these limitations on the export of silver having now passed," said the board's announcement, "the Federal Reserve Board will hereafter, unless a Governmental necessity may again arise, resume its former policy of granting freely and without condition all applications for the export of silver bullion or of silver coin of foreign mintage.

"This change of the policy of granting licenses does not do away with the necessity of filing an application for licenses to export silver bullion or silver coin of foreign mintage. Such applications must, as heretofore, be filed through the Federal Reserve banks of the appropriate district, but such applications will be freely granted.

The Pittman Act authorized the melting down of silver dollars held in the Government vaults and their sale to Allies. It also established a price of $1 an ounce at which the Government must buy silver. Approximately 200,000,000 ounces of silver, obtained from the silver dollars, have been shipped to India since April 23, 1918, to meet demands for coinage there. Director of the Mint Baker, under the new situation, may buy from himself silver obtained from melting the dollars and use it for the subsidiary coinage of half dollars, quarters and dimes. Federal Reserve notes of about $200,000,000 have been issued to replace silver certificates withdrawn when silver dollars were melted.

Most officials here believe the market price of silver will rise with restrictions removed. Since the American prce dominates the world price, the action of the Reserve Board and the Treasury is expected to have worldwide effect.

BUYING BY SOUTH CHECKS BEAR RAID

MARKET UP 9 TO 17 POINTS

Lower than due, Liverpool cables worked well with the plans of ring traders who had sold out their long cotton last week and were operating for a reaction so as to allow profitable repurchases when yesterday's cotton market opened. The Liverpool market, which was steady enough, was considerably lower than it should have been to be in line with our Saturday market, and the ring bears made the most of this fact, with the result that first prices were down 10 points for July and 4 to 6 points for other options. The further efforts of the ring sent the market 3 or 4 points lower after the call, but that was about all they could do, for at the low levels the South started buying and succeeded in changing the trend.

The recovery was aided by private crop advices, which were unfavorable, and by publication of the National Ginners Association acreage report, which showed a reduction of about 14¾ per cent. from last year's acreage as reported by the Government, and was 2 to 3 per cent. greater reduction than was shown in the more important estimates published last week. These factors, after the early professional selling was exhausted, asserted themselves and on continued good buying by the South and some rebuying by local operators, values were lifted 30 points or more from the early low figures.

In the afternoon the market held well and finished at gains for the day ranging from 9 to 17 points, with the more distant months enjoying the better gains. The market again showed evidences of being toppy and astute observers professed to be impressed with the uncertainty of the technical position, which is said to be weak at the moment. But against this the trade position is thought to be strong. Such a situation should make for irregularity in the market for the time being.

Its Preferred Stock yields about 7½% at present prices. Dividends of over four million dollars were paid on the Preferred in 1918, and the Company's earnings were over five times the Preferred dividend requirements.

NIXON TAKES POST AS SERVICE CHIEF

New Commissioner Promises 'Utmost Publicity' in Conduct of Public Utilities Affairs.

BIG RUSH FOR DEPUTYSHIPS

Many Applicants for Three $7,500 Jobs — Edwin S. Gleason is Named Private Secretary.

Lewis Nixon assumed his duties yesterday as Public Service Commissioner. Notice of his coming had preceded him, and when he arrived at the offices of the commission, Commissioners Whitney, Kracke, and Hervey, the only members remaining of the old five-headed body, received him. They went to the office selected for Mr. Nixon on the twelfth floor and discussed matters pending before the commission. The way the various departments were divided was explained to Mr. Nixon, and then the heads of the departments were introduced to the new chief.

The three outgoing Commissioners were Mr. Nixon's hosts at luncheon in the Arkwright Club, after which Mr. Nixon returned to his office and began a study of the work confronting him.

"There will be the utmost publicity," he said later in the day. "No attempt will be made to do anything under cover or out of the public view. As the certificate of appointment did not clothe me with full information of the work ahead of me, I first must study the situation carefully. All public hearings scheduled for this week by the old commission have gone over until next week. The subjects involved in them will receive my attention first.

Mr. Nixon said he had paid no attention to claims of applicants for the three places at his disposal as deputies at $7,500 a year. He intimated that the men selected would have to be able to do the work assigned them.

It is known that many influential men are urging the claims of numerous applicants in quarters where it is thought they will be of service. Tammany Hall, the Governor, and members of the City Administration, as well as Mr. Nixon, have heard of men anxious to receive the appointments. The only man chosen so far by Mr. Nixon is Edwin S. Gleason, who will be named his private secretary at $4,200 a year. Mr. Gleason has served Mr. Nixon in this capacity for several years.

Orders Completion of Subway.

The first official act of the new Commissioner was to send a letter to the Board of Estimate asking immediate action on the appropriation of $586,700 to complete the Pelham Bay Park branch of the Lexington Avenue subway. This subject has been before the board several weeks.

Much anxiety is felt by the employes of the commission, many of whom have been in its service since the body was created. Mr. Nixon would discuss no contemplated removals, resting on the statement published in The Times Sunday that he did not intend to oust good men to make places for men not so good. He repeated that the question of municipal ownership and operation was a subject of law, and that he would follow the law to the letter in any step he takes. His attention was called to a statement by him that he expected to work in accord with the city administration and that the administraion was committed to public ownership, but he would not comment further.

It was indicated that the work of the commission would be divided among the three deputies, that one probably would have charge of rapid transit operation, another of gas and electric affairs, and the third of all other corporations serving the public. In answer to a question, he said he thought it extremely likely that the Governor would sign the bill creating a commissioner in charge of transit construction.

Good Wishes from Predecessors.

Each of the retiring Commissioners issued a statement containing good wishes for Mr. Nixon's administration and offering help if called upon. Travis H. Whitney, Acting Chairman of the old commission, wrote that Mr. Nixon would find the staff unusually efficient, faithful, and tireless in its work. Saying he esteemed it a privilege to have been associated with the commission, he added:

"During the last twelve years tremendous improvements have been accomplished, particularly when it is realized that in 1907 the old Interborough subway was not yet in operation to Brooklyn. The relationship between the utility companies and the public has been recognized and improved. The public has the advantage of greatly increased facilities and of lower electric rates to the extent of several million dollars yearly. There has been a reduction of fare, for the dual system, now nearly complete, has so expanded the 5-cent rate that thousands of passengers save half the fare formerly necessary to reach their destinations.

"It may be that rates and service were pushed too far in a favor of the public, particularly with the war conditions, and it may be the pendulum will need to swing back. At any rate the public evidently desired a change in the administration of public service matters."

Mr. Whitney, in reference to the bill to create a commissioner of construction, said:

"I have felt that it was a mistake to attempt to separate rapid transit and regulatory functions of the commission and from my interest in the success of the public service administration I trust the Governor will veto the bill."

WEIGHING AND SALES COMPANY.
PROPOSALS FOR SALE OF BONDS.

Pursuant to the terms of the deed of trust dated May 12, 1911, made by Weighing and Sales Company to Empire Trust Company as Trustee, all persons interested are hereby notified that there has been this day paid to the Empire Trust Company, as such Trustee, the sum of Twenty Thousand Dollars ($20,000) to create a sinking fund for the purchase and redemption of bonds, secured by said deed of trust. All persons interested are further hereby notified that pursuant to said deed of trust sealed proposals will be received by the Empire Trust Company at its office, No. 120 Broadway, New York City, within six (6) days from the date of the last publication of this notice, offering for sale bonds of the Weighing and Sales Company secured by said deed of trust, with all unpaid coupons thereto attached.

All such offerings shall state the name and address of the person offering the same for sale, the numbers and par value of the bonds so offered for sale, and the price at which the bonds, with all unpaid coupons thereto attached, are offered for sale, which price must be less than par value thereof and accrued interest. Such offer shall be contained in a sealed envelope indorsed "Proposal for sale to sinking fund of bonds of Weighing and Sales Company," and must be received by said Empire Trust Company at its office, No. 120 Broadway, New York City, on or before May 12th, 1919.

The money so paid to the Trust Company will be used in the purchase of bonds under said offers at the best price obtainable. No proposals will be considered except such as strictly comply with this notice.

Dated New York, April 30th, 1919.

SINCLAIR OIL & REFINING CORPORATION
NOTICE OF SPECAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

Pursuant to the written request of the President and in accordance with Section 3 of Article 3 of the by-laws, a special meeting of the stockholders will be held at the office of the corporation, No. 120 Broadway, New York City, State of New York, on Wednesday, May 14, 1919, at 12 o'clock noon, for the election of twenty-one directors and to vote upon a proposition to amend Article 7 of the certificate of incorporation of the corporation by striking out the word "twenty-one" and substituting "thirty-one" so that said Article 7, when so amended, shall read as follows:

"The number of directors of the corporation is to be thirty-one. The directors need not be stockholders."

No other business is to come before the meeting except to rescind the action taken at the regular annual meeting of the stockholders amending the certificate of incorporation as aforesaid and the election of thirty-one directors.

This special meeting is deemed necessary by reason of an irregularity in the resolutions adopted at the regular stockholders' meeting modifying the certificate of incorporation and electing directors.

How to Prevent Credit Losses

For instance: In the two and one-half years that our Special Service Department has been in operation, it has procured for our policy-holders over $2,000,000.00.

The American's Unlimited Policy frequently saves policy-holders an amount many times the cost of the policy. In any emergency of credit accounts there is nothing so strong or so safe.

Credit insurance is vitally needed by every progressive Manufacturer and Wholesaler, whatever the size of his business. Our Book "A Billion of Business" proves it.

INTRASTATE RATES COME UP ON APPEAL

Arguments in Railroad Case Are Concluded and Those in Wire Case Begin.

MANY STATES REPRESENTED

Interference by Postmaster General with the Police Powers of States Is Charged.

WASHINGTON, May 5.—Authority of the Director General of Railroads and the Postmaster General to increase intrastate railroad, telephone, and telegraph rates throughout the country was argued today in the Supreme Court in connection with appeals from proceedings originating in a number of States. Hearing on the railroad case was finished today, but arguments in the wire rate cases will not be concluded until tomorrow.

The appeal in the railroad case came from North Dakota, while the telegraph and telephone rate cases arose from proceedings in South Dakota, Kansas, Massachusetts, and Illinois. Briefs as amici curiae were filed in the two cases on behalf of the National Association of Railroad and Public Utility Commissioners representing about thirty-five States and separately by the States of Pennsylvania, Ohio, and Wisconsin, the City of Detroit, and the Protective Telephone Association of Baltimore.

The proceedings attracted wide attention and Attorney Generals from many States were in the court room. Arguments for the Railroad Administration were made in the railroad case by John Barton Payne and Charles Donelly, while Frank E. Packard of Bismarck, N. D., and W. V. Tanner of Olympia, Wash., former Attorney General of Washington, appeared for the North Dakota authorities. In the telephone cases arguments were opened by Solicitor General King, who was followed by W. H. Hitchcock of Boston, Assistant Attorney General of Massachusetts.

Arguments in both cases today centred principally upon the contention of the States that the Government's action in fixing intrastate rates was an interference with the State Police powers. Solicitor General King and Mr. Payne denied this contention, but asserted that Section 10 of the Railroad Control act, as well as the joint resolution by which the Government took over supervision of the wires, clearly gave the President this authority.

The Solicitor General argued that in increasing telephone and telegraph rates the Postmaster General was acting on behalf of the public, as the corporations which own the wires through Government control had ceased to operate them, and acted solely as the Government's agents. He accused the States bringing the proceedings of attempting to interfere with Government operation of three facilities, and asked for the dismissal of the wire cases on the ground that they were suits brought against the Government without its consent.

He noted, however, that the appeal from Illinois resulted from a suit brought by the Postmaster General to restrain the Illinois authorities from interfering with his orders.

"Do you think that Mr. Burleson had a right to bring that suit?" asked Justice McKenna.

"Yes," replied the Solicitor General. "It is a suit against the State authorities to protect the service and his employes."

"They are not his employes, but those of the United States," hastily interjected Justice McKenna.

"Yes, but it's for the protection of the employes and to prevent the State authorities from interfering," the Solicitor General said. "I'd rather not go into the matter as to his right to bring the suit at this time, however."

Mr. Hitchcock argued that the police powers provided for in the wire resolution applied to the States in a broad sense, as Congress intended to include the rights of the States to regulate intrastate rates. He accused the Postmaster General of exceeding his powers in interfering with telephone rates and with unlawfully invading State powers. The Massachusetts attorney denied that the States were attempting to interfere with the Government's operation of the telephone systems.

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday 13,675 pkgs. Creamery showed considerable weakness at the opening and most of the sales on 'Change were at 54½@55c, but the feeling became more settled at the close. Supplies are liberal and sellers are meeting the demand very promptly. Under grades have declined ½@1c. Not much change in renovated, while ladles and packing stock hold firm. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 55½@56c; extras, 92 score, 55c; firsts, 88 to 91 score, 53½@54½c; seconds, 83 to 87 score, 51@53c; lower grades, 49@50c; unsalted, higher than extras, 58@58½c; extras, 57@57½c; firsts, 55@56c; seconds, 53@54c; State dairy tubs, finest, 54@54½c; good to prime, 52@53c; common to fair, 46@51c; renovated, extras, 51c; firsts, 49@50c; lower grades, 46@48c; imitation creamery, firsts, 48@49c; ladles, current make, firsts, 46½@48c; seconds, 45c; lower grades, 43@44c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 44c; No 2, 43c; lower grades, 39@42½c.

EGGS.—25,613 cases. Advices indicate decreasing collections and very strong interior markets. Demand here is only moderate on current distributing needs, but there is continued movement to storage, some further buying for export and on high qualities the market maintains a firm tone, with the tendency slightly in sellers' favor. Medium and lower grades freely offered and unimproved. Nearby white eggs quiet in regular trade channels, and it requires very fancy stock to reach top quotation. The bulk of the business ranges from 50@52c, for lots of original packages, according to the selection. Duck eggs dull and lower. Fresh gathered, extra, a dozen, 47½@48c.; storage packed, extra firsts, 47c.; firsts, 45½@46½c.; gathered, extra firsts, 46½@47c.; firsts, northerly sections, 44½@46c.; southerly sections, 43½@45c.; seconds and poorer, 40@43c.; dirties, No. 1, 41@42c.; No. 2 and poorer, 36@40c.; checks, good to choice, dry, 40@40½c.; under grades, 34@39c.; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby, Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 52@53c.; ordinary to prime, 47@51c.; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 47@51c.; Pacific Coast, whites, extras, 52c.; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 46@50c.; State, Pennsylvania and nearby, hennery browns, 49@50c.; gathered brown and mixed colors, 44@48c.; duck eggs, nearby Indian Runner, fancy, 62@64c.; Baltimore, 58@60c.; Virginia, 53@60c.; Western and other Southern, good to prime, 53@58c.; far Southern, common to fair, 40c.; goose eggs, 60@75c.

GERMANS MAY BUY COPPER.

Present Enemies Expected to be in the Market Soon.

Germany is expected to be in the market for large quantities of copper within a few months. At present the copper surplus amounts to about 2,000,000,000 pounds, but it is believed that those countries which have been cut off from supplies for the period of the war will greatly reduce this surplus before the end of the year. It is thought that already bankers are considering plans for credits for these countries.

Copper producers are not operating at more than 50 to 60 per cent. of capacity. Further curtailment has been talked of, but this, if undertaken, will not be very great as all of the companies are anxious to avoid disrupting their organizations. The demand for copper is reported to be increasing steadily, so that there is not now as wide a margin between production and consumption as a month ago.

Italy and France still have embargoes against copper imports, but it not believed that they will remain in force much longer. England has already removed the copper ban.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The market on the Consolidated Exchange continued broadly active, with interest shifting to some extent from the industrial to the railroad list. The standard issues in the last-named group were particularly strong and the dealings in them were on a larger scale than for a long time past. Some irregularity showed among the industrials, but the declines at the end of the day, except in a very few instances, were not extensive. There was considerable profit taking in some of the issues which have been most prominent recently, due in a measure to the holiday today.

FINANCIAL NOTICES.

MADEIRA-MAMORE RAILWAY COMPANY.
(Incorporated in the State of Maine, U. S. A.)

To the Holders of an Issue of 60-Year First Mortgage Bonds, secured by a Trust Deed dated 1st October, 1910, and a Supplemental Deed dated 20th March, 1913, between the Company and Empire Trust Company.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, pursuant to the provisions of the Second Schedule to the above-mentioned Trust Deed dated 1st October, 1910, a Meeting of the holders of the Bonds thereby secured (hereinafter referred to as "the Bonds") will be held at Winchester House, Old Broad Street, in the City of London, on Monday the 16th day of June, 1919, at 12:30 in the afternoon, for the purpose of considering and, if thought fit, passing Extraordinary Resolutions as defined by the said Second Schedule, to the intent that the said Resolutions shall be binding on all the Bondholders, whether present or not present at the Meeting, to the following effect:

1. Approving and adopting a Composition Agreement (hereafter referred to as "the Composition") between the Brazil Railway Company, the Port of Para, the Madeira-Mamore Railway Company and its Bondholders, which has been provisionally approved by a Committee representing the Bondholders, and directing the execution thereof on behalf of the Bondholders.

2. Providing for the exchange of the Bonds for new Bonds of the same nominal amount and maturing for payment (at par in the case of the 6 per cent. Bonds and at 102 per cent. in the case of the 5½ per cent. Bonds) at the same date and secured in the same way as the Bonds, but without any guarantee by the Port of Para (in the case of the 6 per cent. Bonds) or by the Brazil Railway Company (in the case of the 5½ per cent. Bonds.)

3. Approving the appointment of the Rio Claro Railway and Investment Company, Limited, as new Trustees of the above-mentioned Trust Deed and Supplemental Deed in succession to the Empire Trust Company, who have resigned.

4. Authorizing and directing the said Rio Claro Railway and Investment Company, Limited, (hereinafter referred to as "the Trustee") to execute a Supplemental Trust Deed modifying the above-mentioned Trust Deed and Supplemental Deed, such Deed being in the form annexed to the Composition or in such other form as may be approved at or authorized by the Meeting, and authorizing the Trustees to do all such other acts and things as may be necessary or desirable for carrying the Composition into effect.

5. Providing for the indemnity and protection of the Trustee in giving effect to the Composition and authorizing the Trustee to consent to modifications of the Supplemental Trust Deed referred to in paragraph 4 above, and ratifying and approving the resignation of the Empire Trust Company as Trustee under the said Trust Deeds, and ratifying and approving its acts or omissions as Trustee and in the Receivership proceedings, and providing for the indemnity of the Empire Trust Company.

6. Generally providing for the modifications, alterations and compromises of the rights of the holders of the Bonds and of the Coupons attached thereto against the Company and against its property which are contemplated by the Composition and by the said Supplemental Trust Deed, as the same is submitted to the Meeting, and either with or without any such modifications therein as are authorized by the Meeting.

7. Authorizing and directing that the Receivership proceedings in America and England be terminated and the Receivers' acts and accounts be approved and that such Receivers be discharged.

Copies of the Composition and of the draft (subject to modification) of the Supplemental Trust Deed above mentioned may be obtained on application at the following Offices:

London—Messrs. BINDER, HAMLYN & CO.,
(London Agents of the Company.)
80 Bishopsgate, E. C. 2.
New York—120 Liberty Street.

The Composition and Supplemental Trust Deed contain elaborate provisions which cannot be explained in detail in this notice. They provide (among other things):

(a) For the exchange of the existing Bonds for new Bonds of the same nominal amount and maturing for payment (at par in the case of the 6 per cent. Bonds and at 102 per cent. in the case of the 5½ per cent. Bonds) at the same date and secured in the same way as the existing Bonds but without any guarantee by the Port of Para (in the case of the 6 per cent. Bonds) or by the Brazil Railway Company (in the case of the 5½ per cent. Bonds).

(b) For the acceptance of Scrip in satisfaction of all unpaid Coupons for interest attached to the Bonds, payable from 1st October, 1914, down to the date of the new Bonds.

(c) For making the payment of the interest on the Bonds and the Sinking Fund in cash contingent for a period upon there being revenue available for the payment thereof. Any interest not paid in cash is to be satisfied by the issue of Scrip.

(d) For the payment of 30-55ths of certain moneys received and to be received from the Brazilian Government (after allowing for certain payments thereout referred to in the Composition) to the Trustee for the Bondholders, to be applied for various purposes and for the payment of the remaining 25-55ths to the Brazil Railway Company and the Port of Para by way of compromise of the claims of the various parties to these moneys.

(e) For the voting power of 70 per cent. of the Capital of the Company being vested in the Trustee for the Bondholders for a period.

W. CAMERON FORBES,
DAVID T. DAVIS,
Receivers.

By order of the Board of Directors,
MADEIRA-MAMORE RAILWAY COMPANY,
S. D. Brown, Secretary.
1919, May 6th.

The following will alone be entitled to attend and vote at the Meeting, viz.:

(a) Persons who produce at the Meeting Bonds to Bearer or Voting Certificates in the form prescribed by and issued in respect of Bonds to Bearer in accordance with the Regulations mentioned below; and

(b) The Registered holders of Bonds which in accordance with Clause 9 of the Trust Deed securing the Bonds are deemed Registered Bonds, or their proxies appointed in accordance with the Regulations mentioned below.

In accordance with Regulations which have been made by the Company and approved by the Trustee under paragraph 11 of the Second Schedule of the said Trust Deed of the 1st October, 1910, holders of Bonds to Bearer who desire to obtain Voting Certificates must deposit their Bonds with any Bank or Trust Company which may be willing to accept the same and to issue in respect thereof Voting Certificates in the form prescribed by such Regulations. Voting Certificates in the prescribed form can be obtained at the offices mentioned below, where the foregoing Regulations can also be inspected. Voting Certificates must be duly signed in accordance with such Regulations by the Bank or Trust Company with which the Bonds are deposited.

The Registered holders of Bonds which are deemed registered as aforesaid can attend and vote at the Meeting personally or by proxy without producing their Bonds.

ORDER.

Upon reading and filing the application of WALLACE B. DONHAM, as Receiver of the defendant Bay State Street Railway Company, with respect to the extension of time for proof of claims, debts, and demands against the Bay State Street Railway Company or the Receiver, and it appearing to the Court that the time fixed by the Receiver, pursuant to Article Thirteenth of the Decree of Foreclosure and Sale heretofore entered by the Court in the above-entitled consolidated cause, within which the holders of the unpaid claims, debts, and demands against the Bay State Company or the Receiver, more particularly referred to in said Article Thirteenth, may prove such claims, debts, and demands expires on April 28th, and it further appearing to the Court that it is to the advantage of all concerned that the time within which any such claim, debt, and demand may be presented to the Receiver be extended, it is

ORDERED

That the time within which the holders of the unpaid claims, debts, and demands against the defendant Bay State Street Railway Company or the Receiver, more particularly referred to in Article Thirteenth of the Decree of Foreclosure and Sale heretofore entered by this Court in the above-entitled consolidated cause, may present their claims to the Receiver pursuant to the provisions of said Article Thirteenth, be and hereby is extended from April 28th to and including May 17th, subject, however, to all the terms and provisions of said Decree of Foreclosure and Sale. It is further

ORDERED

That the Receiver of the defendant Bay State Street Railway Company shall publish a copy of this Order as soon as may be after the entry thereof at least four (4) times prior to May 17, 1919, in one or more newspapers of general circulation published in each of the places in which the notice of the sale to be made under said Decree of Foreclosure and Sale is directed to be published.

By the Court,
JOHN E. GILMAN, Jr., Deputy Clerk.

Gray Goods Sales Slow Down.

Things took on a quieter aspect in the local gray goods market yesterday, for which several reasons were advanced. Printcloths, sheetings, and other staples were less active than for quite a while, but there was a nice business reported on fine-yarn goods and specialties at recent prices. In the latter the buyers are having difficulty in getting orders accepted. Some of the mills making these goods are already covered until mid-Autumn, while others are not willing to trade that far ahead at the moment. In the printcloths, prices were steady on the bases of 13¾ cents for 39-inch 68-72s, 12 cents for 38½-inch 64-60s, 10 cents for 33½-inch 60-48s, and 8@8½ cents for 28-inch 64-60s. Bids of 10 cents from out-of-town sources were in the market yesterday for 5.50-yard sheetings, but it could not be ascertained whether they had been accepted or not.

Fur Withdrawals Liberal.

Yesterday was "Prompt Day" for the recent Spring sale of the New York Fur Auction Sales Corporation, and it found the withdrawals by purchasers to have amounted to fully 75 per cent. of the goods sold. As the sale closed less than a month ago, the extent of the withdrawals is regarded as a direct reflection of the excellent state the fur business as a whole is in at the present time. While the buyers have taken out a general line of skins, mink, marten, sable, fisher, and other furs popular for Summer wear have figured especially strong in the withdrawals. The ease with which these furs, in the manufactured state, are disposed of by the retail trade is said to speak well for the prosperous condition of the country at the present time.

Straw Hat Deliveries Late.

About the biggest thing in the straw hat business at the present time is the complaint the retailers are making because deliveries, on the average, are about three weeks late. The hot weather of the last few days has brought numerous inquiries to the manufacturers as to when they are going to ship. From present appearances, some of the retailers who canceled heavily after the armistice was signed last Fall are now going to face "Straw Hat Day" with their shelves more or less empty. Although about two months ahead of time, some retailers are now trying to place business for delivery in 1920. Prospects for that season strongly favor prices about 10 to 15 per cent. higher than those now current, due to the high cost of labor, braids, bands, and other factors that enter production costs. Labor in this industry is not only high, but scarce.

Getting the Tax in Hand.

While it is making more work for the clerks, the accounting department and the ticket markers, the collection of luxury taxes by retailers is said in some quarters to be causing less confusion than had been expected. The decision of Commissioner of Internal Revenue Roper to accept "lump" returns from the stores, instead of requiring itemized reports of taxes collected under each of the various provisions of Section 904, was said yesterday to have removed the most expensive factor in the collection of the tax. One of the worst things about the tax that has developed so far is the apparent unfamiliarity of the public with its provisions. In the mind of the average shopper the law is much more far-reaching than it actually is.

⁂

Not All Commissions Cut Out.

The covenant against commissions, which had been inserted in Government contracts at the direction of the President, does not apply to contracts made through bona fide commercial representatives or agents in accordance with established business customs. This fact is brought out in a commerce report, which tells of correspondence on this point between the Secretary of Commerce and the Attorney General of the United States, as well as of a consultation on it between the President and the Attorney General. In his reply to the Secretary of Commerce, the Attorney General suggested that a proviso to this effect be placed in all future Government contracts.

Matching Patterns a Problem.

Matching patterns will give more than the usual trouble to the clothing manufacturers in the Fall styles. The waist seam model requires, it was pointed out, that the pattern of the skirt of the coat be matched with the upper part. The novel designs in cuffs also call for accurate pattern laying and cutting. One of the most popular fabric numbers for the Fall is a hairline stripe, and the stripe design is the one that is hardest to handle.

⁂

Beach Flirts a Good Novelty.

Beach flirts, as the latest development of the kewpie doll is called, are proving one of the best numbers put out in some time by the novelty manufacturers. Even the cheaper articles have their hair done up in a net, and the higher priced models are most elaborately finished. The dressing of these and similar dolls has reached a high state of perfection, and the outfitting is complete down to the last garment.

⁂

Sounding Market on Spring Goods.

Piece goods buyers in the market, to find out what is left of their Fall commitments, are reported to be sounding out sellers on Spring goods. Spring lines as a rule are not opened until after July 4, and there seems no disposition on the part of mill agents to hurry things this year with their plants sixty days behindhand in production as it is. The sale of overcoatings is generally regarded as a fair index of prospects for the Spring, and the demand for such goods has been unusually good.

⁂

Why Chicago Fights the Strike.

The labor situation in the Chicago clothing trade is exciting no little interest in the industry. According to the representative of a prominent house in that city, the employes are not letting their demands rest with wage increases and shorter hours. "Chicago has always been one of the centres, if not the principal one, for quality production," he said. "If we were to agree to the terms now demanded, it would mean having a ruinous amount of unskilled labor forced on us, and that is just what we do not want to happen. So it is to preserve the high standards of tailoring in Chicago that we are holding out."

⁂

A New Type of Sport Hat.

A smart sport hat that is being introduced by one of the local millinery manufacturers is made of a combination of heavy batavia cloth and milan hemp. The cloth is treated with stiffening and is stretched firmly over the top of a large sailor or mushroom shape. Manila color is used in conjunction with facings of different hues. Titian, jay blue, henna, and navy are effectively combined with the shade of the cloth. Novelty ribbons to match the facings are used as bands, and are finished with bows, cockades, and short ends, which lie flat on the upper brim.

WILL TAKE CANADA'S WHEAT

Government Buying Over Border Hits Corn Prices in West.

MINNEAPOLIS, May 5.—President Julius H. Barnes, of the United States Grain Corporation, announced today that reports that the corporation had purchased 25,000,000 bushels of wheat from Canada were untrue. He said that arrangements had been made for the purchase of a "moderate amount" of wheat from the Dominion, and added that the corporation "does not want to bring in an amount of wheat that would endanger the balance in the United States."

Conferences were held with Twin City and Southern Minnesota millers at one meeting, and with grain men from the Red River Valley at a separate gathering. Mr. Barnes said between conferences that a moderate downward revision in prices of foodstuffs is anticipated, and that sufficient wheat is available to keep the price of flour from soaring above $12 a barrel. He declared no radical price revision can be expected until the American export demands are greatly reduced.

CHICAGO, May 5.—The local corn market broke precipitately today, 10 to 12 cents from the high point, on news that the grain corporation has arranged for the importation of a moderate amount of Canadian wheat.

Before the break, new high records for the crop had been established, due to wet weather. July touched $1.72 and September $1.67. The break carried July down to $1.62, and September to $1.55.

Just before the close, July rallied to $1.65¾ and September to $1.60.

BUSINESS NOTES.

By a typographical error in Sunday's issue, the number of pounds of wool consumed in domestic mills during March was placed at 50,000,000, grease equivalent. The figures should have been about 34,000,000 pounds, a low average which shows a large amount of idle machinery.

The Dry Goods Union will hold a meeting of wash goods buyers at 432 Fourth Avenue tomorrow to place orders for Fall delivery. A meeting of the domestics buyers of the same organization will meet on Thursday to buy goods for immediate delivery.

Education Notes.

The public schools and the offices of the Department of Education will be closed today on account of the parade.

The last day of the school year falls on Monday, June 30. The Board of Education yesterday decided to close the schools for the session on Friday, June 27.

On motion of Joseph Yeska the Board of Education will ask for $7,000 to carry on eleven playgrounds during this Summer. The playgrounds were open last Summer, but the Board of Estimate cut the appropriation for them this year from the budget. About 144,000 children attend these playgrounds. It is hoped to get the Board of Estimate to reconsider its action.

The written examination of men and women applicants for license as clerical assistant in high schools has been postponed to 2 P. M. on May 7 at the Board of Education Hall.

At the same hour and day the written examination for license or substitute teacher of common branches in the elementary schools will be held.

More than 200 guests were at a luncheon to Dr. James Parton Haney at the McAlpin on Saturday tendered by the staff of high school drawing teachers to mark the completion of ten years of service as director of the high school art department. Mr. Flynt, one of the Brooklyn teachers, acted as toastmaster. Dr. Straubenmuller delivered a talk on the importance of color, and sketched the career of the guest of honor. Dr. Barnes showed how the long experience of Dr. Haney had prepared him to be an executive when he became director of the high school art department. Dr. Tildsley, superintendent in charge of high schools, asserted that the drawing department was most effective and that Dr. Haney was proof of the value of good supervision. Miss Levy spoke for the School Art League and of how much Dr. Haney had done for that organization. The Art in Trades Club was represented by Henry J. Davison, who spoke of Dr. Haney's valuable services in behalf of the club and of the schools. Miss Dela P. Mussey spoke for the teachers and sketched the progress of the art work in the high schools since Dr. Haney's directorship began. She presented the guest of honor with an illuminated parchment booklet as a memento of the occasion. Dr. Haney in the final speech of the afternoon spoke feelingly of the devotion of the art teachers to their work.

KAISER WILHELM ON BISMARCK.

An interesting feature of the May issue of the CURRENT HISTORY MAGAZINE is the text of the royal letter written by the former Kaiser Wilhelm, in which he explains in detail why he dismissed Bismarck, and Bismarck's side of the story follows, written by Hall Caine. This is but one feature of many others of equal importance. Published by The New York Times Company, on news stands 25c.—Advt.

THE WEATHER

WASHINGTON, May 5.—The storm that was central over Indiana Sunday night moved rapidly eastward, and Monday night its centre was over Newfoundland. Another storm was central Monday night over Colorado. These disturbances have produced a cover of clouds over much of the country east of the Rocky Mountains and during the last twenty-four hours rains fell in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, the region of the Great Lakes, the Ohio and Missouri Valleys and the Gulf States. Temperatures continue above the normal along the Atlantic Coast and in the Southeastern States and on the Pacific Coast. The weather is cool for the season over the Northern States from the Great Lakes westward to the Rocky Mountains.

The weather will be generally fair and cool Tuesday and Wednesday, in the Middle Atlantic and New England States, the Upper Ohio Valley, and the Lower Lake Region. In the Lower Ohio Valley and the Upper Lake Region cloudy and cool weather Tuesday and Wednesday will be followed by showers Wednesday. In the South Atlantic and East Gulf States and Tennessee, the weather will be mild and partly cloudy, with local showers Tuesday and Wednesday.

Northern New England—Fair and cooler Tuesday. Wednesday, fair.

Eastern Pennsylvania, Southern New England, New Jersey, Delaware, Maryland, West Virginia, and District of Columbia—Fair and cooler Tuesday. Wednesday, cloudy.

3 A. M.	68	52	4 P. M.	85	59
6 A. M.	65	51	6 P. M.	72	66
9 A. M.	69	54	9 P. M.	65	64
12 M.	82	60	11 P. M.	63	62

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 75; for the corresponding date last year it was 59; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 56.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 66, at 8 P. M. it was 66. Maximum temperature 86 degrees at 4:45 P. M.; minimum, 64 degrees at 10 P. M. Humidity, 75 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 44 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 29.97 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 30.08 inches.

The Civil Service.

City.

Applications for mechanical draftsman, heating and ventilating, Grade C, will be received until 4 P. M. on May 12. Candidates must be at least 21 years of age on or before the closing date for the receipt of applications. The subjects and weights of the examinations will be: Experience, 3; technical, 5; mathematics, 2. The salary is from $1,200 to but not including $1,800 a year. There is one vacancy in the Board of Education at $1,750 a year.

United States.

The commission announces for May 21, at the New York Custom House, an examination for manual training teacher, for men. One vacancy in Haskell Institute, Kansas, two vacancies in the Cushman School, Washington, Indian Service, and future vacancies requiring similar qualifications, at $720 to $1,200 a year and quarters, or higher or lower entrance salaries, will be filled from this examination. The appointee at Haskell Institute, Kansas, will be required to take charge of classes in carpentry and mechanical drawing and to supervise the work in the departments of steam engineering, blacksmithing, plumbing, painting, shoe and harness making, and printing. He must be an experienced carpenter and should have some familiarity with the work in the other departments which he will be required to supervise. The salary of this position is $800 a year, with quarters for a man without dependents. One of the positions at the Cushman School, Washington, requires the services of a teacher qualified in carpentry and cabinet work. The appointee should possess a knowledge of the use, cost, and care of tool and woodworking equipment, making of plans, specifications, and estimates, laying of foundations, framing of various types of houses and roofs, and interior and exterior finishing. The salary of this position is $1,000 a year with quarters. The other vacancy at the Cushman School, Washington, requires the services of a teacher qualified in iron forging, horseshoeing, tool dressing, and general machine shop practice. The salary of this position is $1,000 to $1,200 a year with quarters, depending upon qualifications. Competitors will be examined in penmanship, 5; spelling and copying, 10; practical questions, 15; methods of manual training, 20; practical questions relating to carpentry or ironworking, 20; mechanical drawing, 10; experience, 20. Applicants must have reached their twenty-first but not their fiftieth birthday on the date of the examination.

TENANTS' CASES JAM DOCKETS OF COURTS

Few Evictions Ordered, Although 2,000 Complaints Were on the Calendars.

STATE TO FURNISH COTS

Accommodations for 9,000 Homeless in Manhattan and Brooklyn Churches—Brownsville Tenants Keep Up Strike.

The Municipal Courts were crowded yesterday with landlord and tenant cases. It was estimated that 2,000 cases were on the calendars. The reason for the great congestion was that most of the cases of the last week, particularly since May 1, were postponed to yesterday. Lawyers representing the Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering were on hand in each court to defend the tenants, and as a result many cases were dropped because of technicalities, while stays were granted in many other cases. Few eviction notices were signed.

The Mayor's Committee on Rent Profiteering announced yesterday that progress had been made in its campaign to house the homeless in churches pending the finding of permanent homes by tenants summarily evicted. Through an arrangement with Governor Smith the Military Training Commission at Camp Blauvelt will place at the disposal of the Mayor's Committee 1,500 cots and as many blankets, while the State Arsenal will furnish 600 cots and 600 blankets.

Captain Charles A. Goldsmith, U. S. N., retired, who has charge of this phase of the work, reported yesterday that the War Camp Community Service had promised all the blankets and cots that might be necessary after Thursday or Friday of this week. Captain Goldsmith reported to the committee that the first tenant to take advantage of the offer made by the churches as temporary shelter was an Italian who was to be evicted with his wife and three children from their home on East 119th Street. The family will move on Wednesday evening into Jefferson Park Church, 407 East 114th Street, of which Dr. Riggie is pastor. The thirty-two churches in Manhattan that have offered their accommodations can house 5,000 persons, while 4,000 can be accommodated in the churches of Brooklyn that have placed rooms at the disposal of the homeless.

Madison Street Court Crowded.

One of the busiest Municipal Courts on the east side was the Second District Court at 264 Madison Street, presided over by Justice Benjamin Hoffman. More than 150 cases were on the calendar in this court and through the efforts of Assemblyman Samuel Dikstein thirty were thrown out on technicalities, while many of the rest were advanced from five to fifteen days. Some of the landlords, hearing the argument of Mr. Dikstein, withdrew increases of $3 and $4 and reduced them to as low as $1.50.

William Artz of 95 Ridge Street complained to Justice Hoffman that a few days ago he paid Jacob Dubinsky $27 rent for an apartment. The price was advanced to $30, he said, and he protested, whereupon Dubinsky consented to give him a written lease if he would pay the $30 demanded. The next morning, he said, Dubinsky's wife Fannie appeared at his home and demanded : as the monthly rental, saying that the property had been transferred to her by her husband. Artz refused, and the case came to court. It was adjourned until the written transaction between Dubinsky and his wife could be produced.

Becki Gold, living on Essex Street, complained to Justice Hoffman that she had been paying $25 a month rent and recently received a dispossess notice after she told the agent for the landlord that she was unable to pay an increase of $5 demanded. The evidence showed that the woman was supporting herself partly from a Government allowance granted her because her son was in the service. The latest report she heard was that he was missing. Mrs. Gold was told that under the Soldiers and Sailors' Act she need not pay rent for three months if she did not have the money.

Earl Smith, one of the members of the Law Committee of the Mayor's Committee, reported yesterday that there were 156 cases at the Seventh Municipal Court before Justice Friedlander, and in every instance he put the cases over until Monday in order to give the tenants time to find apartments.

Brownsville Strike Continues.

Two hundred actions for dispossess proceedings were in the Fourth and Seventh District Municipal Courts in Brooklyn as a result of the tenants' fight against increased rents in the Brownsville district. The strike of the Brownsville tenants continues. The tenants ask for a 10 per cent. decrease in rents, and, following the refusal of the landlords' organization to place the matter in arbitration, it was reported yesterday that some of the tenants had resorted to withdrawing their savings from the local banks in order to induce the bankers to use their influence with the landlords. Placards have been posted in the windows of many of the tenants, reading, "Down with the landlords," "Strike here in this house," "Don't scab," "We demand 10 per cent. decrease in rent," "No reduction, no pay."

The negroes in the Harlem district, where the housing question is serious, have announced their intention of putting up tents in the parks and the vacant lots if they are forced from their homes by higher rentals.

Justice Michael J. Scanlon of the Second District Municipal Court in the Bronx reported yesterday that all records for dispossess proceedings in his court had been broken. Hearings were on the calendar for 350 cases, and the two courtrooms were jammed.

Antonio Varrichecci, a street sweeper, father of ten children, who has been ordered to move from 276 East 137th Street, said he could not find a home. "No can get place," he told the Justice. "Nobody take ten children." The court extended his time for vacating until Thursday.

A general housecleaning was attempted at 1,402 Clay Avenue. All of the thirty tenants in the house were ordered to vacate, and demanded in a body that they have jury trials. Their cases will be heard on Thursday.

Sol A. Hyman of the Mayor's Law Committee, obtained stays of at least eight days for thirty-eight tenants on the east side of Harlem in cases that appeared before Justice John F. Cowan in the Eighth District Municipal Court.

In disposing of landlord and tenant cases before him, Jusice Wauhope Lynn in the First District Municipal Court said that many of the European countries had provided by law for those who desired to own their own homes, but that in the United States every obstacle was placed in the way of the man who wanted to have his own home.

Justice Shearn Quits the Bench.

Supreme Court Justice Clarence J. Shearn sent his resignation as a member of the Appellate Division to Governor Smith at Albany yesterday, in accordance with his announced intention last week to quit the bench and enter private practice with Montgomery Hare. Before Justice Shearn's resignation became effective the Appellate Division handed down decisions in the undisposed of cases heard by Justice Shearn.

A Lawyer Since 1879, Is Disbarred.

The disbarment of Bernard J. Tinney, who has been an attorney since 1879, was announced yesterday by the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court because he prepared a false answer in a suit for rent and also because he converted to his own use costs in a certain case and represented to his client that he had not collected them.

RAZE PARKHURST CHURCH.

Famous Piece of Architecture Making Way for Office Building.

Workmen began yesterday to tear down the Madison Square Presbyterian Church at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Twenty-fourth Street. Its destruction will remove one of the most interesting as well as one of the most costly religious edifices in the city. Built on decidedly unique lines for a church, in the Romanesque style, surmounted by a gilt dome and richly ornamented with mosaics and glazed terra cotta tiles, the church has long been recognized as one of the masterpieces of the late Stanford White, and its demolition is a distinct architectural loss to the city.

The church, over which the Rev. Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst had presided as pastor since 1880, ceased to exist as an individual organization two years ago, when it and the University Place Presbyterian Church consolidated with the Old First Presbyterian Church on lower Fifth Avenue. Last September the property, a plot 75 by 150 feet, was bought by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company for $500,000, the money going toward the endowment fund of the consolidated churches. The handsome building, which would cost over $500,000 today to build, was valueless, and the wrecking firm, in addition to being paid for removing the structure, will get all of the valuable material, including the six magnificent pale green granite columns in front of the classic portico. These columns are among the largest and finest in the city, being thirty feet in height. Many of the interior fitting, including the big organ, the pews, and the exquisite stained glass windows, were taken out some time ago, part of them being used in the Old First Church.

Adjoining the rear of the church on the north side of Twenty-fourth Street is the sixteen-story Metropolitan Annex, and a similar structure will be erected on the corner to connect with the present annex.

FILES SUIT FOR 1 CENT.

Newark's Mayor to Test Legality of Increase in Car Fare.

Papers in a suit for one cent, brought by Mayor Charles P. Gillen of Newark against the Public Service Railway Company, were filed yesterday in the Second District Court. Summons in the suit is returnable on Monday. Mayor Gillen, accompanied by City Attorney William J. Kearns and Police Lieutenant Dennis D. Cronin, boarded a Broad Street trolley car in front of the City Hall yesterday afternoon and the Mayor asked the rate of fare.

"Seven cents," the conductor replied.

"Well, I'm only going to pay six," said the Mayor. "What will you do about it?"

The conductor said nothing, but grinned.

"Do you demand another cent?" asked Mr. Kearns, the Mayor's legal adviser.

The conductor made no reply, and the Mayor and his party alighted five blocks from the City Hall and boarded another car bound back toward the municipal building. Again the Mayor announced that he would pay only six cents, and waited for the conductor to demand seven.

"Have it your own way," the conductor said. "I'll pay the other cent myself, Mr. Mayor," and once more the Mayor's plan was spoiled.

Marvine Ayres, conductor of another car, however, demanded seven cents. The Mayor paid the extra cent under protest and went back to the City Hall to start action. The suit will bring into court the Public Utilities Commission's decision of Friday increasing the fare from six to seven cents on twenty-four hours' notice. The New Jersey League of Municipalities asserts that no order of the board can become effective until twenty days have expired.

SUES LEHIGH FOR $2,900,000

Bethlehem Steel Wants Damages for Black Tom Explosion.

The trial of the suit of the Bethlehem Steel Company against the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company to recover $2,900,000 for munitions destroyed by the Black Tom explosion on July 30, 1916, was begun before Judge William N. Speer and a jury in the Supreme Court at the Hudson County Court House in Jersey City yesterday. A jury before Judge Speer gave Howell & Co. of New York a judgment for more than $400,000 against the Lehigh Company a few weeks ago for losses by the Black Tom explosion. The defense was that the explosion and fire did not originate on the Lehigh's property.

Lindley M. Garrison, who appeared for the railroad company in the Howell & Co. trial, and Gilbert Collins, former Supreme Court Justice of Jersey City, represent the railroad company in this action, and John R. Hardin of Newark, who appeared for Howell & Co., heads the lawyers for the Bethlehem Steel Company.

Mrs. Lottie Towns, a negress who lived on Black Tom, and Henry M. Warley, a shipper for the steel company, were yesterday's witnesses. The trial will continue several days. Two hundred witnesses are on the list.

BANISHMENT OF EMPEROR CHARLES.

The actual banishment from Austria of Emperor Charles is an interesting historical chapter that followed the Armistice; the details, from official sources, appear in the May CURRENT HISTORY MAGAZINE, together with much other official information regarding the Austrian Government and the Hungarian Revolution, with details of why Karolyi fell; without comment or bias. 40 features, 192 pages; published by The New York Times Company, on news stands 25c.—Advt.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Frederick Brown, whose operations started the recent activity in the speculative buying of apartment houses, yesterday entered a new field with the purchase of about ninety lots and six dwellings, originally part of De Voe Park in the West Bronx. The sellers were Harriet E. De Voe and Sarah A. Hodson, executrixes of the estate of Frederick W. De Voe and the transaction was negotiated by B. H. Weisker and Harry W. Davis.

One of the principal sections of the estate involved in this transaction is the block front on the north side of Fordham Road, between Davidson and Jerome Avenues, including about twelve lots, for which $250,000 was asked in the open market. Four lots on Jerome Avenue and eleven lots on Davidson Avenue, adjoining this block were also taken by Mr. Brown.

Another section is the city block of about twenty lots bounded by University Avenue, Aqueduct Avenue West, 188th and 190th Streets; also the block front south side of 190th Street, between Davidson and Grand Avenues, consisting of a plot 200 by 255, with five frame dwellings; a plot of about fifteen lots at the southeast corner of 188th Street and Croton Aqueduct and University Avenue, and the northeast corner of University Avenue and Fordham Road, extending to the old Croton Aqueduct.

The above properties, valued in the transaction at $800,000, have been in the ownership of the De Voe family for upward of fifty years. Their legal interest in the transaction was attended to by Holt & Gaillard, while Julius H. Zieser acted for Mr. Brown.

Realty Trust sold for Alco Building Company, the three-story twin houses of brick and stucco, half-timbered construction, at 2,154 and 2,156 Sixty-second Street, opposite St. Anthanasius' Catholic Church, Mapleton Park, to Father E. J. Donnelly, rector of the church. The houses will be connected and altered over for use as a parochial school and parish house.

Arndt Buys Grinnell Apartments.

Christian Arndt bought the Grinnell, a nine-story apartment house on plot 229.7 by 300 by 203.5, held at $900,000 and renting for $120,000, at Riverside Drive, Audubon Place, and 157th Street, from the Centre Realty Company, through Mark Rafalsky & Co. Mr. Arndt will hold the property for investment.

Church Sells Site for Hotel.

The Allerton House Company (James S. Cushman, President) has contracted to purchase the First Reformed Episcopal Church property at the northeast corner of Madison Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street, measuring 75 by 100 feet. Ultimately the buyer will replace the church edifice with a sixteen-story hotel, exclusively for men, similar to the Allerton Hotel at 141 East Thirty-ninth Street. William B. May & Co. negotiated the sale.

Forty-seventh Street Sale.

A client of Louis H. Low purchased from the Bielsk Realty Corporation, the five and one-half story building, on lot 25 by 100 at 258 West Forty-seventh Street, near Broadway. A. I. Spiro and Samuel Wacht, Jr., represented the purchaser and seller respectively, as attorneys.

Private Dwellings.

Margaret Griser sold the three-story brick dwelling, on lot 17.8 by 100, at 121 East 121st Street, to A. F. Handicott for occupancy. George W. Brettell negotiated the sale.

Thomas Curran sold the four-story dwelling, 20 by 80, held at $35,000, at 799 Lexington Avenue, to a client of William B. May & Co. for occupancy.

Tenement Deals.

Joseph G. Abramson bought the five-story double flat, 27 by 100, assessed at $22,500 and renting for $3,500, at 243 East 123d Street, from the Pawnee Realty Corporation, C. D. Gregory, President, a subsidiary of the Josiah Macy Junior Estate. Mr. Abramson also bought the similar structure adjoining at 245 East 123d Street, from the Pocomo Realty Corporation, W. W. Sturges, President. The transaction was for cash above a first mortgage which the seller takes back. J. S. Maxwell was broker in both deals.

Frederick Brown sold the two five-story flats on plot 50 by 100 at 455 and 457 West Forty-third Street to an investing client of Joseph F. Feist & Co. through Leonard Morgan, Inc.

J. Rothschild, as trustee, sold the three-story house, 20 by 100, at 130 East 118th Street, through H. M. Weill Company.

Frances S. Quinn sold to August E. Cohnfeld for investment the five-story house at 226 West 123d Street.

Tenant Buys Property.

Paul Tropp, restaurateur, has bought the building which he occupies at 55 East 107th Street, from A. F. Silverman. It is a three-story and basement dwelling, 18 by 100.11.

Brown Acquires Madison Street Property.

In addition to the property taken by Frederick Brown in part payment for the Stratford Avenue as reported recently, he also acquired the four-story converted school building at 183 Madison Street.

Activities in Heights Section.

The Madeline Realty Company sold the five-story apartment house, 75 by 100, at 580 West 176th Street, to an investing client of Shaw & Ebbitt, Inc.

The M. D. Holding Company, Inc., has sold to Louis Mondschein for cash the northeast corner of 176th Street and Audubon Avenue, a six-story elevator apartment, on a plot 100 by 100, held at $185,000. I. Henry was the broker.

The Bronx Market.

The two-family frame dwelling on lot 25 by 90 at 2,384 Creston Avenue was sold for a Mrs. Nicadaus to a client of Joseph F. Feist & Co., through Leonard Morgan Company, Inc.

Daniel H. Jackson bought from the executors of the estate of Violetta A. Jackson the southeast corner of Grand Concourse and 179th Street, a plot 91 by irregular, through Leitner, Brener & Starr.

Foot & Martin, Inc., bought from Henry Breunich the three-story dwelling, northwest corner of Concourse and 179th Street, together with adjoining plot, comprising the south half of the block front between Burnside Avenue and 179th Street, held at $75,000. The School of the Holy Spirit occupies the remainder of the block front. Foot & Martin, Inc., also purchased the residence of Mary E. Mullins, with adjoining plottage, 50 by 179, on the Concourse through to Creston Avenue, 247 feet north of 183rd Street, held at $35,000. E. Osborne Smith negotiated both sales.

A. Blumenthal sold to the Grand Concourse Realty Corporation, Michael Kaufman President, nine two-family houses erected about six years ago at 177th Street and Davidson Avenue, at the junction of Tremont Avenue. The houses were held at $150,000 and occupy sites from 35 to 45 feet wide.

D. Widdi, P. A. Monahan, and F. M. Justis have formed the 965 Prospect Avenue Corporation with a capital of $10,000 to take over the apartment house at that location.

Weiss & Seligson bought from the 1,447 to 1,451 Boston Realty Company 1,524 Seabury Place, an apartment house, 50 by 100.

F. William Eggert sold for Joseph S. Wood the dwelling 4,421 Carpenter Avenue, and for John Rotando the two-family house, 33 by 150, at 4,554 Richardson Avenue.

Brooklyn.

Horace N. Doubler sold the four-story brick apartment building at 469 Prospect Avenue, near Classon Avenue, to an investing client of Charles Partridge.

Mrs. John W. Rogers bought the two-story and cellar two-family house at 250 Eighty-eighth Street, between Ridge Boulevard and Third Avenue, from a client of the Bulkely & Horton Co.

The four-story brownstone dwelling at 318 Park Place was sold by Charles A. O'Malley, in association with A. Pease & Son. The same broker sold for John Offerman the plot 200 by 100 on the east side of East Thirty-sixth Street, 100 feet south of Avenue K.

Meister Builders, Inc., bought the two four-story apartment houses on plot 100 by 96.8, renting for $15,000 and held at $100,000, at 8,699 to 8,705 Bay Parkway, from Martin D. G. Joyce.

Queens Borough Sales.

Sarah Erchart sold three lots on the east side of Seventeenth Street, Flushing, to John Webins as a residence site. J. Albert Johntra negotiated the sale.

M. Gardone bought the four-story eight-family house at 101 Jamaica Avenue from a Mr. Kerovik through A. Cantore. The same broker sold the three-story brick house at 362 Broadway for J. Bender to Lind Juler and the plot 50 by 145 on Broadway, near Hopkins Avenue, for W. Lainer to the Broadway Auto Repairing Company.

Richard Pinkham bought the one-family dwelling on plot 25 by 120 at 62 Farrington Street, Flushing, from Mary A. Brown through J. Albert Johntra.

G. Gutting took title to a plot 125 by 100 on the west side of 118th street north of Atlantic Avenue, Richmond Hill, and will start erection of dwellings. Building loans amounting to $17,500 have been given on the property by the Williamsburg Savings Bank.

NEW JERSEY—FOR SALE OR TO LET.

A GENUINE BARGAIN FOR AN EARNEST HOMESEEKER. A sudden increase in my immediate family has compelled me to buy a large home. I have secured one in the same neighborhood where I have been living for three years, and am offering my smaller property for sale. It consists of a plot with 100 ft. frontage on a beautiful street, running back 166 ft.; the tastiest, best designed, most comfortable, and best built home in New Jersey today, and a garage that is absolutely right. The grounds have been exquisitely landscaped and intelligently cared for. The house has four master bedrooms and bath on the 2d floor and a living room, dining room, butler's pantry, and kitchen on the 1st floor. The servants' quarters and bath are entirely apart. Immediate occupancy can be had. Everything to make a perfect home goes with it, as screens, shades, awnings, etc. The house has been newly and handsomely decorated inside and out. $4,500 on easy terms to the right party buys it. $5,000 can remain on 1st mortgage. I have spent over $12,000 cash on this place. It is only 5 min. walk to the railroad station, and I commute daily myself to Manhattan in about an hour from home to office. The neighborhood is of the very best. I will be glad to furnish all details to any one really interested; others need not reply to this notice. Business Man, Box 55 Times Downtown, New York City.

Brick and Wooden Factory Buildings in Newark, N. J.

MEN AND WOMEN,

BOOKKEEPERS, CASHIERS, SCHOOL teachers, office workers, stenographers and all capable men and women, either with or without bookkeeping experience. We want to hear from you if ambitious to get into accounting positions paying

$2,400 to $6,000 A YEAR AT THE START.

THE GOVT. IS CALLING FOR AUDITORS and expert accountants by the hundreds at salaries up to $4,500 a year.

NEARLY EVERY LARGE CORPORATION in the country is calling for additional cost and general accountants to facilitate industrial expansion, to figure costs accurately, Federal income and excess profit taxes, and to make regular audits.

OUR ORGANIZATION, LARGEST AND best equipped of its kind, has been called upon to train men and women for executive positions in the accounting field—Auditors, Cost Accountants, Junior Accountants and Certified Public Accountants.

WE PLACE YOU UNDER THE PERSONAL guidance of the largest staff of accounting, legal and business experts, including Certified Public Accountants and members of the American Institute of Accountants, ever organized for training men and women for important positions in executive accountancy work. Our training does not interfere with your present position. You use only a small part of your spare time until qualified.

NO KNOWLEDGE OF BOOKKEEPING necessary, as accepted applicants are trained from the ground up.

HUNDREDS WHO HAVE BEEN helped to bigger paying positions through our training report salary increases of 100 to 600 per cent.

WRITE FOR INTERVIEW, GIVING AGE, POSITION, AND PHONE NUMBER. F. LE MONN, P. O. BOX 137, TIMES SQ. STA., OR PHONE BRYANT 1981.

GOOD ENGLISH BUILDS BUSINESS.
Good English is a basic requirement for business success; most men and women need training in English—sentence building, vocabulary enlargement, report and letter writing. Do you? Write or telephone (Cortlandt 1465) for free bulletin, "Your English," and for details of a new early evening class now forming. Pace & Pace, 30 Church St., N. Y.

HOTELS NEED TRAINED MEN.—Positions waiting; demand far exceeds the supply; we will train you at home by mail in your spare time for this fascinating profession; big pay, fine living, splendid opportunities for advancement. Send for free illustrated book, "Your Big Future in Hotel Work." Lewis Hotel Training School, 14 Mather Building, Washington, D. C.

EARN $25 TO $75 A WEEK.
Big demand NOW for Motion Picture, Commercial, and Portrait Photographers; 3 months' practical course covers all branches. Individual instruction, day or night. Easy terms. Call or write for Catalog "T." N. Y. Inst. of Photography, 141 W. 36th St.

BOOKKEEPER.—Get out of the rut; become a certified public or cost accountant; go into business for yourself; demand for expert accountants exceeds the supply; our graduates earn over $5,000 yearly; learn at home in spare time by our easy system; send for booklet and special offer. Universal Business Inst., 100 Pullman Bldg., New York.

FIND STRONG CLUE IN THE BOMB PLOT

DYNAMITE IS IDENTIFIED

Hope to Trace Purchasers of Explosive Through Manufacturer—Inspectors Hold Conference.

The hunt for the radicals who sent the bombs caught in the mails before they had been delivered to prominent men throughout the country continued yesterday, and toward evening the force of Secret Service operatives working on the rapidly narrowing investigation was almost doubled. It was ascertained definitely that an exceptionally strong clue had been uncovered on Sunday night and, it was stated, developments are expected either this evening or tomorrow morning at the latest.

Information reaching postal officials here yesterday was to the effect that experts of the Bureau of Mines had succeeded in identifying the gelatine dynamite as of American manufacture. It was said that Federal detectives hoped to trace the explosive through the makers to the purchaser. It was stated that Van H. Manning, Director of the Bureau of Mines, planned to use the bomb outrage as an argument before the forthcoming Congress for continuing the wartime control of explosives in peace time. Experts of the bureau asserted that 80 per cent. of all the world's criminal explosions occurred in this country because of the ease with which dynamite and similar chemicals could be obtained.

William E. Cochran, Chief Post Office Inspector; Owen Eagan, Chief of the Bureau of Combustibles, and Joseph A. Faurot, Inspector in charge of the Bomb Squad, held a conference yesterday, following Inspector Cochran's return from out of town. All declined to discuss the purpose of the conference, but shortly afterward the number of Secret Service agents was increased.

A bottle containing a "mysterious fluid" was found yesterday in the rooming house of Charles B. Wallace at 248 West Fifty-first Street. A hurry call was sent to Police Headquarters and the bottle was turned over to Inspector Eagan for examination. Inspector Egan announced that he would not complete his analysis of the chemical until today.

Detectives who questioned Wallace learned that two soldiers had occupied the room where the bottle was found. The service men informed Wallace that they had lately been discharged after guard duty at a Long Island gas mask plant. Wallace told the police that he had heard that the bottle contained explosive, so he immediately got rid of it when the men left it behind. The fluid gave off a sweet odor, but Egan was unable to identify it without analysis.

Another so-called bomb which the Inspector was testing last night was a jar supposed to contain "guncotton" which was found early yesterday morning on the seventh floor of the Astor Building, 39 New Street. The jar was found by Michael Figosky, a porter, who turned it over to Superintendent John Decker of the building. From the Old Slip Station the jar was delivered to Eagan's office. Inspector Eagan was inclined to regard the jar as the result of the work of some misguided joker, but taking no chances, immediately began to investigate the composition of the jar's contents.

The explosives confiscated by detectives last week in the Baldwin Medical Institute at 135 West Forty-fifth Street were removed yesterday from Police Headquarters to the Government laboratories at Perth Amboy, N. J., where they will be analyzed.

THINKS STRIKERS SET BOMB.

Activities of Samuel F. Leber, a Newark lawyer, on behalf of several Brooklyn fur makers whose employes have been on strike for the past few weeks is believed to have been responsible for the explosion of a bomb at 1:43 o'clock yesterday morning in the vestibule of the Van Cortland apartments at 645-649 Central Avenue, East Orange, which are owned by Leber, and in which he lives.

The first theory was that the bomb was placed there as a result of rent increases or by some disgruntled person who was unable to secure an apartment in the building, but this was soon discarded after an investigation by Chief of Police William H. O'Neill. Leber later told the police that he believed he was the object of an attack by strikers, whose cause he had, as a lawyer, opposed.

Chief of Police O'Neill is confident that the explosion which wrecked the vestibule of the building and shattered practically every front window in the five-story building as well as a number of windows in the adjoining apartment at 643 Central Avenue was intended more to terrorize than to kill any one. This story is based on the fact that the explosive was placed directly inside the outer door, whereas if it was the purpose to wreck the building a more advantageous place could have been found.

The force of the explosion blew out the heavy three-inch oak and plate glass doors, and completely demolished the two-inch marble slabs with which the entrance was lined, and also broke into pieces the marble steps which led up the inner doors. The explosion, however, in some manner failed even to crack the plate glass in the inner doors. Members of the ten families rushed to the street in their night clothes and bathrobes.

When the explosion took place Detective Jack Dempsey and Policeman Patrick Murray were standing at the corner of Central and Harrison Avenues, less than 125 feet from the building. A flash of flame accompanied the explosion, and the two officers immediately conducted a search. A three-inch firecracker with the fuse cut out was found near the scene, and it is believed that the fuse prepared was not long enough. The police hold the theory that the explosive was placed in the entrance some time before the explosion, and if a bomb it was equipped with a time arrangement. No evidence could be found that the powder was contained in a metal receptacle, although marks of black powder were to be found in the shattered doorway.

The first intimation received by the police that the strikers may have been responsible for the act was when several occupants of the building told of Mr. Leber mumbling last night something about it being the work of the "gang in Brooklyn, who had threatened to get him." An investigation is now being made on this theory by Chief O'Neill and his staff.

BOSTON TEACHERS IN UNION

Organization Will Be Completed at Meeting on Friday.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 5.—The long-discussed organization of the teachers of Boston public schools into a union with American Federation of Labor affiliation is now assured. Before the week is out the union will be a fact. It will be known as the Boston Teachers' Union. At a meeting next Friday night a constitution will be presented for adoption and temporary officers elected. The whole plan has the indorsement of Superintendent Thompson of the city schools and the individual approval of all five members of the School Board. Concerning the plan for a union, Chairman Sullivan of the School Committee says:

"When I was first elected to the School Committee I received a delegation of about seventy-five teachers, consisting of from one to three representatives from many teachers' organizations, each presenting grievances. I resolved then that if all these grievances were not removed at the end of three years my work on the committee would not be successful. Teachers have always been too apologetic. Who has not heard many teachers say, 'I am only a poor schoolma'am?' President Wilson was almost defeated on the cry that he was only a schoolmaster. Teachers should organize to get a sense of self-respect and power. I am sure if I talked an hour I could not say any more in favor of the movement."

Railroad Chief Surgeons Meet.

The Association of Railroad Chief Surgeons devoted the first session of a two-day convention yesterday at the Hotel Commodore to a discussion of the administrative duties of the medical department of the railroads. Preceding the meeting the members visited the Clinic for Functional Re-education of Disabled Soldiers, Sailors and Civilians in Livingston Place, near Fifteenth Street, with a view of rehabilitating victims of railroad accidents. Dr. C. W. Tomkins of Chicago was elected president.

BOMB MAKER'S FATHER A SUICIDE

GRIEF BROUGHT ILL-HEALTH

Younger Man Confessed That He Killed Two Women and Tried to Kill Judge Rosalsky.

Herman Klotz, mechanical draftsman in the Division of Highways of the Borough President's office in the Bronx, committed suicide yesterday morning by shooting himself in the head at his home, 1,708 Popham Street, the Bronx. Klotz's two daughters heard him get up at 6 o'clock, and an hour later they found him unconscious in his room, with a revolver beside him. He lived until 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when Dr. Carl Kennard, a medical examiner, was informed of the shooting. He pronounced it a case of suicide. Klotz, who was 73 years old, had been employed in the Division of Highways since 1892.

The weapon with which he killed himself was an old revolver that had belonged to his son Henry, who was fatally injured by the premature explosion of a bomb he was at work on at the home of the family at 1,332 Fulton Avenue, the Bronx, in 1913, and who confessed an hour before he died that he had sent bombs that had killed two women. He also confessed that he sent a bomb to Judge Rosalsky of General Sessions. The bomb which was received by Judge Rosalsky in the Hendrick Hudson apartment house, at 110th Street and Riverside Drive, was opened by Chief Egan of the Bureau of Combustibles of the Fire Department, and in spite of his care the bomb exploded and blew off one of his fingers.

Herman Klotz had declared that his son was innocent and that the confession to the police was a "fraud," obtained while his son was in a stupor at the Fordham Hospital. Klotz engaged an attorney to clear his son of the confession and threatened suits against the police and others, but finally ceased all efforts to defend the character of his son legally, though he maintained to the end that he was not guilty. Lately Klotz had been in ill health. This and worry over the fate of his son are believed to have been the cause of his taking his life.

Henry J. Klotz had been a draftsman in the office with his father. The women killed by the bombs were Grace Taylor-Walker of 103 West Seventy-third Street, and Madeline Herrera, janitress of the apartment house at 1,473 Fulton Avenue, the Bronx, near Klotz's home. According to the confession obtained by the police, Klotz, after admitting sending the bombs, said he had placed the bomb at the Fulton Street house as an "experiment," or to see what would happen. He had quarreled with Miss Taylor-Walker, it was said, but in reply to questions he asserted that he did not know why he had sent her a bomb. Asked why he had sent a bomb to Judge Rosalsky, he replied, "I didn't like him."

HANSON FEARS BOLSHEVISM

Mayor of Seattle Wants All Radicals Deported.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, Penn., May 5.—Mayor Ole Hanson of Seattle was the principal speaker at the Pittsburgh Press Club banquet tonight, and, after a general reference to the perils through which this country has passed in the different crises in the past hundred years, he said:

"But all that we strove and fought for in the past; all the dangers that confronted us from foreign foes; all the hardships that tried our very souls, are as nothing in comparison with those greater dangers, those greater trials, those greater problems that confront our country at this moment. It is my belief that the next three years will put to the test the very existence of all present Governments. The attacks now being made against Government by Bolshevism, the I. W. W.'s and the like, are an attack against civilization.

"When I ran for Mayor of Seattle I promised to rid the city of these pests, and I kept my word by enforcing the law. To those who would overturn our Government by force or violence there can be but one answer and one penalty. The men who preach these doctrines and try to carry them into effect are not amenable to reason. Kindness and mercy only make them believe that the officials are afraid and fear to punish. They must be driven out, deported, imprisoned, exterminated."

Miss Janet Fish Gets Croix de Guerre

Announcement has been received from France that the Croix de Guerre has been awarded to Miss Janet Fish, daughter of Hamilton Fish. Miss Fish has been working with the French Red Cross in the hospitals of France for nearly three years and a half. She is a sister of Major Hamilton Fish, Jr., who also received the Croix de Guerre for valor.

AMBULANCE CRUSHES BOYS.

While playing on the stone stoop in front of 1,360 Avenue A yesterday, Julius Kletak, 4 years old, of that address, and William Schultz, 6 years old, of 1,364 Avenue A, were pinned against the door of the house by an ambulance owned by Flower Hospital, and operated by Henry Jameson. The boys were hurried to the Presbyterian Hospital in the automobile of Rudolph Taller of 500 East Seventieth Street. Both were said by the hospital authorities to be in a serious condition.

The ambulance, in charge of Dr. Phillips, was responding to a call uptown, when at Seventy-second Street Louis Starey, 38 years old, of 503 East Seventy-third Street, attempted to cross almost in front of the machine. To avoid running down Starey, Jameson swerved, and the ambulance bounded over the curb and crashed against the stoop on which the children were playing.

BAPTISTS GET CHALLENGE.

St. Louis Church Offers Guarantee Plan in $6,000,000 Drive.

An offer from the Second Baptist Church of St. Louis, Mo., to join 999 other churches in an underwriting plan for $1,000,000 to make up any possible deficit in the $6,000,000 campaign was received here last night by Dr. Fred P. Haggard, Director of the National Committee of Northern Baptist Laymen, the organization in charge of the drive.

Dr. William C. Bitting of the Second Baptist Church in St. Louis telegraphed Dr. Haggard that that church had subscribed $7,100, and that the deacons had voted $1,000 additional to the campaign.

"Especially pleasing is this offer of the St. Louis church," said Dr. Haggard, "because it shows that there is unity between the Baptists of the North and the South. For in St. Louis there are many Southern Baptists who are anxious to aid the Northern laymen in the present movement. We are going to continue this campaign until the Northern Baptist Convention, which will open in Denver on May 21. And we expect that the drive will be a success."

Kangaroo Is The Shoe For You!

THE best Under Standing is found in our justly famous Shoes of Australian Kangaroo. The soft comfort of Kid; the constant service of Calf; and the polished dressiness of Patent Leather combine incomparably in this rare imported Leather.

Their soothing resiliency, that passes rather than pounds over hard city pavements, letting your feet expand and contract naturally, accounts in part for the Kangaroo's great vogue as a smart street-wear Shoe.

It is not surprising that, although we carry the same distinctive models in all other fine Leathers, our name is especially associated by particular wearers with these inimitable 'bout-town Shoes of Kangaroo.

The Servants of Relief for Incurable Cancer
St. Rose's Free Home

for non-paying and incurable cancer patients only, are looking anxiously towards the months of Summer when few donations are given to charities, and when their moderate funds will be exhausted. The Servants of Relief have two Homes—one, the above-mentioned, harboring principally bedridden cases, and one among the Westchester Hills, harboring principally such cases as can move about and enjoy the country scene and air. The latter house is named Rosary Hill Home, and has in the last Autumn and Winter been generously aided by the readers of this newspaper. The two Homes have separate bank accounts, a measure adopted because of the largeness to which the work has grown, but they are inseparable in their incorporation by the State of New York, in their rules and religious formation as the Congregation of St. Rose of Lima, devoted to nursing cancer cases that are destitute and rejected by their family and the regular hospitals. The novitiate for training in active service as well as in religious routine is embraced in the country Home at Hawthorne, N. Y., called by a Dominican Provincial an ideal location both for novitiate and hospice. The ecclesiastical Director of the Congregation of Sisters, appointed by the late Cardinal Farley, is the Rev. James T. McEntyre, P. R., pastor of St. Teresa's Church, 141 Henry Street, lower east side, New York, which was in the past one of the most wealthy and distinguished churches in the city, and for some years the Church of the Apostolate Fathers, with the late Bishop of Albany at their head, before his Lordship became Bishop Coadjutor in New York. This explanation has been made necessary because a number of our benefactors have asked if the charity has now been changed or separated in any way, since the country Home has recently begged for assistance on its own behalf, and the Mother Superior of the Congregation did not at that time beg for assistance for the city Home. On the contrary, this band of nursing and laboring Sisters is united and hopes in the future to have a Home in every city of America, simply because it is a needed provision, with a branch house in the neighboring countryside, but its novitiate always at Hawthorne, N. Y.

The expenses of St. Rose's Free Home, New York, for its continuous number of 75 cancerous men and women have steadily increased since the war in Europe began. Last month food alone reached a cost amounting to $900.00, with everything else soaring in like manner, whereas $650.00 or less had been the total monthly cost of food before 1914. The reserve in the bank for St. Rose's Home will be exhausted by hot weather, and no help can be expected from the public when the well-to-do depart for mountain and seashore. Most earnestly we beg for assistance to protect our patients from short rations and laxity in medical supplies after the middle of June. Our resources come only from charitable gifts. No solicitors are permitted by the charity. Please address The Servants of Relief, care of Mother M. Rose Huber, O. S. D., St. Rose's Free Home, 71 Jackson St., New York.

Very gratefully,
